Regulations For "Meatless Tuesday" Are Relaxed

Rules Changed To Permit Use Of By Products

Beer Reduction To Be Requested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Rules for "meatless Tuesday" were relaxed today. You can eat liver, kidneys, brains and other by-products and still conform.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens Food Committee directing a national drive to save grain to feed Western Europeans, told reporters after his 26-member group met on policy today that:

1. The committee hopes to encourage use of meat by-products "which are in plentiful supply," and which may be used on Tuesdays under the altered program. The list also contains sweetbreads, hearts, pigs feet, pigs knuckles, tripe, oxtails and tongue.

Seek Beer Reduction

2. The committee will ask the brewing industry to reduce beer and ale production to save more grain. Brewers will consult with Luckman tomorrow.

3. Luckman said a request to the baking industry to produce a smaller bread loaf is under study. He noted there are many problems, such as pan sizes which cannot be changed overnight. He added that one suggested solution is to cut down on the height of the loaf, and that it could be done with the present pans.

4. Luckman will seek to arrange conservation programs with three other industries within the next 10 days—the wet milling industry, including producers of corn syrup and molasses; the dry millers, including manufacturers of flour and cereals, and commercial livestock feed producers.

Luckman indicated no change is intended in the committee's request that Americans do without eggs and poultry on Thursday.

But he acknowledged that there are "two schools of thought" as to whether much grain is saved by not eating chickens.

Luckman issued a statement that the campaign to conserve 100,000,000 bushels of grain by mid-1948 is "beginning to hit its stride." He said he expects a definite commitment within a day or two from the brewers involving additional conservation action. They recently agreed to discontinue use of wheat and table grades of rice.

Luckman said the wheat-rice offer did not go far enough. He has observed that they use large quantities of other grains.

Harold E. Stassen said that the average American should reduce his diet by 15 per cent—and that Congress should come together immediately to act on European economic issues. He said "we have been dallying in the face of disaster."

Addresses News Conference

The former Minnesota governor and candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination told a news conference:

1. Average families in the country can lower their consumption of "vital foods" by 15 per cent, "improve their health and bring down food prices."

2. It is "imperative" for Congress to act at once. To a questioner, he said President Truman must take the responsibility for not having summoned a special session before this.

And on Capitol Hill, special session talk stirred a fresh outburst of pros and cons. This came in the wake of a report that Mr. Truman is willing to drop the idea of calling Congress in advance of its regular January 3 meeting date, provided he can get assurance of speedy action on emergency European aid in January.

Nimitz Announces He Will Retire

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the mighty United States armada that wrecked Japanese sea power, announced today he will retire from active Naval duty in mid-December as a climax to 42 years' service.

The wartime commander-in-chief in the Pacific, announcing his decision in Dallas, Tex., said he plans to retire to the west coast but will still be "available for any service for which the President may see fit to use me."

"Speaking Frankly"

World Will Not Permit Moscow To Veto Peace, Writes "Jimmy" Byrnes

Ex-Secretary, In New Book, Warns Russian Leaders Hitler's Lesson Applies To Them

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(INS)—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes warned the leaders of Soviet Russia today that Hitler's bitter lesson applies to them, namely, that "the world is not going to permit one nation to veto peace on earth."

Byrnes' stern admonition highlights his new book, "Speaking Frankly," (Harper and Brothers), in which he deftly gives intimate glimpses of World War II leaders—Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill, Molotov, Hitler—from his experiences as War Mobilization Director, "Assistant President," and Secretary of State.

Although his remarkably candid story is a recital of grim difficulties which he encountered in dealing with a stubborn, often arrogant Russia, epitomized by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, there are many interesting sidelights. Among them are:

1. Byrnes bluntly infers that Russo-American relations were deteriorating before President Roosevelt's death and said Mr. Roosevelt was miffed over Red army charges that the United States and Britain had agreed to secure easier peace terms for Germany.

2. Byrnes quotes Stalin as saying at Potsdam that Hitler was alive and living either in Spain or Argentina.

Stalin Sometimes Overruled

3. He indicated that the Soviet Politburo sometimes overrules Stalin. He says Stalin agreed to his 25-year anti-militarism plan for Germany, but the high command turned thumbs down.

4. Belittling Russia participation in the Pacific war, he urges the United States to work for a democratic Korea and an early peace treaty for Japan.

5. He emphatically recommends that the United States maintain its atomic superiority.

In "Speaking Frankly," there are 162 separate references to Molotov. Virtually every one of them depicts the Russian as a man who almost automatically says "No!" to any proposal viewed by the western world as part of the pattern for lasting peace.

He states:

"My hope for united support of our foreign policies received a serious setback when, on September 12, 1946, while I was in Paris, Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace made a speech at Madison Square Garden contending that the policy which had been approved by the President, and carried out by me, was too harsh to the Soviet Union and that a more conciliatory approach was necessary.

"I was not greatly surprised by the Secretary's action. Previously, he made a statement . . . referring to our negotiations with Iceland for the use of the airfield we had built there. His statement was effectively used by the Communists in Iceland and it had obstructed the efforts of the State Department to secure an agreement important to the defense of this hemisphere."

Choice Was Truman's

Byrnes quickly and flatly informed Mr. Truman that unless Wallace were silenced he would resign as Secretary of State. He told the President:

"The world is today in doubt not only as to American foreign policy, but as to your foreign policy."

Wallace resigned. Without quoting the President's reply to his ultimatum, Byrnes observes that the matter was settled "in a manner satisfactory, I hope, to the

UN All-Year Meeting Plan Hit By Russia

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 14 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky called on the United Nations today to "laugh down" the United States plan for a year-round assembly of the 57 member nations. He ridiculed this project of U. S. Secretary of State Marshall as a "farce" and said it would aid "warmongers."

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister once more assailed John Foster Dulles, U. S. Delegate who sat only two seats away in the 57-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly. Vishinsky charged that Dulles was trying to "steamroller" Marshall's project through the assembly.

The Russian said Dulles had "forgot or did not dare say that war propaganda and war psychosis runs rampant." He added that the U. S. plan, originally put before the assembly by Marshall, would touch off "more lies and propaganda and encourage warmongers and war propagandists."

Marshall was not in the committee room.

Break In Paris Strike Sought

PARIS, Oct. 14—(AP)—The French Government took energetic measures to break what Premier Paul Ramadier called a "political" strike of Paris' Communist-led subway and bus workers which began spreading tonight to other industries.

While millions of Parisians struggled home from work after having walked, hitch-hiked and bicycled to their offices this morning, the government requisitioned 300 private buses to operate a "minimum" transport service throughout the capital.

The government also sent out a call to the nation for voluunteer drivers to operate the fleet of buses and available trucks and private cars, promising free transportation to Paris and 600 francs (about $5) a day to the volunteers. It also sent a fleet of 1,500 Army trucks to transport passengers and posted placards about the city urging strikers to return to work.

But the walkout began to spread when workers of the two sections of the Renault Auto Factory voted unanimously to lay down their tools at the urgings of delegates from the Transport Workers union.

In the Lyon region, the Building Workers Union voted to strike for higher wages and in sympathy with the Paris walkout.

The Independent Union of Subway Workers demanded an 11 per cent wake increase and an advance on future wages.

Other threats to Socialist Ramadier's coalition government, just five days before municipal elections, rose with the announcement that sailors of the French Merchant Navy would strike Thursday if their demands for wage increases and salary advances equal to the transport workers were not granted.

Five Are Hurt In Train Wreck

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 14—(AP)—A southbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train was derailed in the southeast part of Kokomo today, and three trainmen and two women passengers suffered minor injuries.

The locomotive and five of the eight coaches on the train left the tracks, and the locomotive turned over on its side. The cars remained upright.

First reports were that the train had struck an open switch, but this could not be confirmed by railroad officials, who said the cause of the wreck was not determined immediately.

The train, en route from Chicago to Cincinnati, was carrying about 175 passengers. It tore up the track for about 100 feet and blocked the line.

The train had stopped at the Kokomo station and was about two miles from the station at the time of the accident. The passengers were put on the three coaches which remained on the track and the coaches were pulled back to the station.

SUFFERS DEFEAT— Following his speech to the American Federation of Labor in San Francisco, Calif., last night, John L. Lewis, was administered a crushing defeat when the AFL voted to wipe out its 13 vice presidents including Lewis in a move to make the entire federation eligible to use the National Labor Relations Board.

Money Shortage Found In FPHA, McCarthy Says

Ferguson Asserts 'Fraud' Uncovered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today a study of the Federal Public Housing Authority's bookkeeping showed that "vase amounts of government money seemed to have disappeared."

"Whether anyone did any stealing, I don't know," the Wisconsin Senator remarked at a hearing by a Senate Expenditures Subcommittee.

Herbert Emmerich, former FPHA commissioner, testified:

"There hasn't been any showing that anyone lined his pockets."

But Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), a member of the subcommittee along with McCarthy, said the bookkeeping survey had uncovered a $26,250 "fraud." And McCarthy declared that one $608,261 item was either a mistake in bookkeeping or defalcation."

The subcommittee is investigating findings that FPHA's 1945-46 accounts were "inadequate inaccurate and otherwise deficient."

Those were some of the conclusions of Price, Waterhouse and Company, a public accounting firm. The company surveyed FPHA accounts at the request of the U. S. General Accounting Office.

Stephen B. Ives, chief of the GAO's Corporation Audits Division, testified nothing in the survey indicated any "defalcation or irregularities so far as money matters are concerned."

Senator O'Conor (D-Md.) the

Canada Will Give Princess Fur Coat As Wedding Gift

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth picked out a new mink coat—in the rough—today.

A pile of dark brown mink pelts, carefully matched, was taken to Buckingham Palace for her to look at and she conferred with Joseph Kastner, Czech-born Canadian fur designer, offering him several suggestions about how she would like the coat made.

The coat is to be a wedding gift from the people of Canada, said Kastner.

Kastner said the coat would use "85 to 90" pelts.

Probe Of Building Operations Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — A nationwide campaign to "knock out" gray-market operators in building supplies was announced today by Senator McCarthy (R-Wisc), vice chairman of the House-Senate Housing Committee.

McCarthy told a reporter that subpoenas are being prepared to "bring in" gray-market operators, whom he accused of pyramiding prices, and "force them to testify under oath" as to their manipulations.

"If they don't tell the truth, we will nail them for perjury. If they refuse to testify, we will nail them for contempt," he said.

McCarthy and other committee members will go to Pittsburgh Monday to begin a 40-day tour in which 37 hearings will be held in cities ranging from New York to San Francisco and Minneapolis to New Orleans.

Churchill Doubts "Russia's Abuse Is War Prelude"

Speech Radioed To Smith Dinner

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill said tonight he did not believe Russia's "unceasing stream of abuse upon the Western World" is a prelude to war.

Speaking by radio from England to the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner here, Churchill said if the Russian leaders had their minds "set on war I cannot believe that they would not lull the easy-going Democracies into a false sense of security."

At the dinner tribute was paid the late New York Governor by James Forrestal, Secretary of Defense; Warren Austin, permanent United States delegate to the United Nations; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and others.

Churchill's address was broadcast over a national network.

As an explanation for what he called Rusia's "virulent propaganda" poured out "in 26 languages," the wartime British Prime Minister said he believed it is used by Russit's leaders—"these 14 men in the Kremlin"—for "Internal purposes."

"It may well be that they think it pays them and helps them to perpetuate their rule," Churchill said, "by representing to the otherwise blindfolded masses of the brave and good hearted Russian people that the Soviet Government stands between them and the horrors of in-

Fire Sweeps Kann Warehouse In D. C.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Fire swept through a six-story brick warehouse of the S. Kann and Sons Department Store, just off Pennsylvania Avenue and across the street from the National Archives Building, shortly after 3 p. m. today.

Scores of firemen fought to keep the blaze from spreading to the department store and to nearby commercial buldings in the heart of Washington. Two firemen were overcome by smoke.

Twenty persons who had been working in the building fled to safety. Officials of the department store said the blaze was discovered by Robert Murphy, Sandy Springs, Md., an employe, in a pile of trash on the third floor.

The store officials said they had no indication as to the cause of the blaze. They said the building contained all sorts of merchandise and dry goods and that the loss "probably will be substantial."

Hundreds of spectators gathered on Eighth Street and along Pennsylvania Avenue and hundreds of others leaned from government building windows and stood on ledges of nearby structures. Dense smoke pouring from the warehouse clouded the streets.

Both the front and rear walls of the building collapsed about 30 minutes after the first alarm was sounded at 3:12 p. m., but no one was reported injured.

Legal Arguments On State Sales Tax Expected Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 14—(AP)—The Sales Tax Act, apparently slated for discussion at the Special Legislative session between October 24 and November 1, will be the subject of legal arguments tomorrow in Anne Arundel County Court.

Counsel for four taxpayers will seek a writ to force Secretry of State Bertram L. Boone to put the act up to a people's vote next year.

Attorney General Hall Hammond has ruled the law is not subject to referendum because, he holds, it is an appropriation measure.

The Attorney General's staff will defend the act tomorrow in the suit brought by Robert I. Black, Alfred T. Truitt, Herman L. Mills and Henry J. Starr.

Just how much effect sales tax talk at the General Assembly will have appears doubtful. Politicians at the State Capital believe nothing will disturb the sales tax unless Governor Lane is willing.

He would have to approve any scheme for lessening the tax and returning it to the people somehow if the General Assembly were to get anywhere in Legislating.

Two delegates, S. Pete Pollack (D-Balto-Fourth) and Charles M. Bandiere (D-Balto.-Fifth) have gone on record that they will offer sales tax related bills.

Pollack would repeal the act and legalize bookmaking as a revenue source and Bandiere would give to Baltimore City and the 23 counties all sales tax receipts above $19,000,000.

It is expected that plans for the special session—to be called principally to deal with Baltimore City's taxing powers—will be made by legislative leaders in conference with the Governor.

If any private sales tax plans are still pushed, the committee system will stand as a big obstacle in their way. If by any chance the Legislature does present a measure the governor doesn't like, he can always veto it.

In any contest over the sales tax, the legislators would be at a great disadvantage.

When the act was passed at the 1947 session, legislators opposed to it said openly the bill was railroaded. At that time, it was estimated the tax would bring in $18,400,000 annually. But in September Comptroller James J. Lacy predicted a return of $25,000,000 on the basis of results up to then.

40 Rescued From Plane Down In Sea

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — Weary Coast Guard crews, fighting waves two stories high, tonight rescued more than 40 of the 69 persons aboard a giant Boeing Flying Boat wallowing for more than 12 hours approximately 820 miles off the Newfoundland coast.

While mid-Atlantic night winds of gale force whined around the leaking hulk of the plane, the Bermuda Sky Queen, Coast Guardsmen made five trips to the craft, removing more than 40 persons to the safety of the weather ship Bibb.

More Trips Necessary

The Coast Guard here reported in a message received at 6:54 p. m. (EST(that it would "be necessary to make three more successful trips tonight bringing seven persons on each trip" before the final rescue work could be accomplished.

This was likely to "take the balance of the night," the message read.

Thus far no injuries or deaths have been reported despite the winds and mountainous waves.

The message from the Bibb, however, said one of the survivors on the last rescue mission apparently overturned one of the life rafts bringing survivors back to the Bibb.

"Last party of survivors was removed from submerged raft and swamped boat," the message said.

Previous messages told of removing groups of 10, 21 and three persons from the plane, all of them prostrated by seasickness and including children and infants.

Ran Short of Fuel

The Bermuda Sky Queen took off during the night from Shannon Airport, Eire, for Newfoundland, but ran short of fuel about 5:05 a. m. after battling heavy head winds on the flight.

Capt. Charles Martin, pilot of the craft, then made a forced landing on the storm-swept waters and taxied the plane nearly three miles to the side of the Bibb.

The 6:54 p. m. message from the weather ship said the "pilot's landing was incomparable."

ITU Labor Act Hearing Begins

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—A ruling on the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act was passed over, but a long battle over other integral parts of the new law took shape today at the first NLRB hearing on charges that a union engaged in unfair practices.

With Chief Examiner William R. Ringer, Washington, on the bench, National Labor Relations Board Regional Counsel formally opened the case against the International Typographical Union and its Baltimore Local 12.

The unions are charged with failure to bargain collectively with the 22 printing firms organized as the Baltimore Graphic Arts League.

Counsel for ITU, after three vigorous but unsuccessful attempts to obtain a postponement, finally brought out a legal maneuver which could possibly have the same effect.

The union maneuvered the government into a position of asking subpoenas for certain communications from the International Union to its local. This might take several days and was termed by government counsel as "deliberate suppression of evidence to get a continuance."

Just before the government presented its first evidence, Ringer said that while he would do so if the union insisted, he expected to withhold any ruling on two points of constitutionality, leaving them for the National Labor Relations Board itself, or the courts.

The ITU and Local 12, answering the complaint filed by the NLRB, argued the Taft-Hartley Act is unconstitutional because it violates the Fifth Amendment on taking of property without due process of law, and the Thirteenth Amendment by subjecting workers to "involuntary servitude."

Gerhard Van Arkel, Washington, counsel for ITU, raised no objections to Ringer's statement, but said the union was not waiving its rights to argue the issues before the NLRB or the courts.

AFL Votes Its Vice Presidents Out Of Office

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14 (AP) — The convention of the American Federation of Labor administered a crushing defeat to John L. Lewis tonight by voting to wipe out its 13 vice presidents in a move to make the entire federation eligible to use the National Labor Relations Board.

The decision came on a rising vote which AFL President William Green declared was a two-thirds majority. There was no challenge of the president's declaration from the floor. Except for Lewis' United Mine Workers, who stood in a solid show of opposition, dissenting delegates were scattered throughout the hall.

The action came after a stormy and prolonged fight on the convention floor which saw the AFL's top leadership direct a bitter attack against Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, on his stand against signing non-Communist affidavits as required by the Taft-Hartley Law.

The Mine Workers Chief told the delegates he would not be a candidate again for the Executive Council if the resolution was passed. This would mean Lewis' voluntary withdrawal from the federation's ruling body.

Leaves After Vote

Lewis, leaving the convention hall after the decisive vote, told reporters he would have no further statement.

"I made my statement for tonight," he said, smiling and shaking hands with numerous delegates and well-wishers.

The momentous issue came on recommendations of the Convention Law Committee. The committee report recommended adoption of action previously taken by the Executive Council which would abolish the offices of the 13 vice presidents and leave only President William Green and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany as federation "officers."

This was to permit the AFL officers to sign non-Communist affidavits for AFL federal unions which have no national officers of their own.

No union can utilize facilities of the NLRB unless its national officers—in this case, AFL officers—sign the affidavits. And President William Green of the AFL told the convention the issue was simply whether or not the AFL wanted "to preserve our federal unions or let them die."

Without being able to use NLRB facilities, he declared, the federal unions could be defeated by "outsiders and raiders."

"Some other union," he explained, "would be able to get on the ballot (in voting to choose a union) and the federal unions would not."

Restating the issues, he called on delegates to "disagree as friends, not as enemies."

Lewis earlier declared his United Mine Workers "will not run with you" if the convention should choose to capitulate to the Communism affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley Act.

At one point, Lewis referred to a biblical tale about "lions led by asses" and at another time he said:

"On this issue I don't think the federation had a head. I think its neck has just grown up and haired over."

Stalin Resting Near Black Sea

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Moscow Radio disclosed tonight that Prime Minister Stalin is in a rest area on the Black Sea.

Announcing that Stalin had received eight laborite members of the British Parliament visiting the Soviet Union, the broadcast said the "reception took place in the area of Sochi," a Black Sea resort.

Stalin, who will be 68 December 21, spent a prolonged vacation in the Sochi Area following the end of the war when there were widespread but unconfirmed reports that he was seriously ill.

Second Meatless Tuesday Shows Improvement, But Lags In Places

By International News Service

Observance of the second nationwide "Meatless Tuesday" under President Truman's food conservation plan showed improvement but still fell short of 100 per cent compliance.

Most major cities reported that the majority of chain restaurants, hotels and bit eateries left meat off their menus, but that many smaller places did not.

Some restaurants which announced meat dishes said they had meat on hand and could not waste it.

Others said they were forced to serve meat by customer demand.

Still others declared that "competition" forced them to keep meat on their menus.

New York City restaurants in general observed the meatless day. The same was true in such other large centers as Cleveland, Boston and Detroit.

Army Warns Troops That Russia Can "Attack" In Any Direction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (INS)—The Army warned troops throughout the world today that Russia is in a position to attack "in almost any direction, toward Europe, China, or by air across the Polar regions."

The Department of the Army distributed a booklet—Armed Forces Talk No. 197 — designed as a basis for troop information and discussion—that pointed up the differences in Soviet and United States policy, and analyzed the military assets and liabilities of Russia.

It also said that through the control of a large portion of Eastern Europe and Western Asia the Soviets were in possession of the Eastern Hemisphere "heartland."

The booklet pulled no punches in describing the conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union. It said:

"The present situation is plainly not a happy one. In part, this is because the United State and the Soviet Union do not see eye to eye on important world problems.

UN All-Year Meeting Plan Hit By Russia

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 14 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky called on the United Nations today to "laugh down" the United States plan for a year-round assembly of the 57 member nations. He ridiculed this project of U. S. Secretary of State Marshall as a "farce" and said it would aid "warmongers."

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister once more assailed John Foster Dulles, U. S. Delegate who sat only two seats away in the 57-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly. Vishinsky charged that Dulles was trying to "steamroller" Marshall's project through the assembly.

The Russian said Dulles had "forgot or did not dare say that war propaganda and war psychosis runs rampant." He added that the U. S. plan, originally put before the assembly by Marshall, would touch off "more lies and propaganda and encourage warmongers and war propagandists."

Marshall was not in the committee room.

Break In Paris Strike Sought

PARIS, Oct. 14—(AP)—The French Government took energetic measures to break what Premier Paul Ramadier called a "political" strike of Paris' Communist-led subway and bus workers which began spreading tonight to other industries.

While millions of Parisians struggled home from work after having walked, hitch-hiked and bicycled to their offices this morning, the government requisitioned 300 private buses to operate a "minimum" transport service throughout the capital.

The government also sent out a call to the nation for voluunteer drivers to operate the fleet of buses and available trucks and private cars, promising free transportation to Paris and 600 francs (about $5) a day to the volunteers. It also sent a fleet of 1,500 Army trucks to transport passengers and posted placards about the city urging strikers to return to work.

But the walkout began to spread when workers of the two sections of the Renault Auto Factory voted unanimously to lay down their tools at the urgings of delegates from the Transport Workers union.

In the Lyon region, the Building Workers Union voted to strike for higher wages and in sympathy with the Paris walkout.

The Independent Union of Subway Workers demanded an 11 per cent wake increase and an advance on future wages.

Other threats to Socialist Ramadier's coalition government, just five days before municipal elections, rose with the announcement that sailors of the French Merchant Navy would strike Thursday if their demands for wage increases and salary advances equal to the transport workers were not granted.

SUFFERS DEFEAT— Following his speech to the American Federation of Labor in San Francisco, Calif., last night, John L. Lewis, was administered a crushing defeat when the AFL voted to wipe out its 13 vice presidents including Lewis in a move to make the entire federation eligible to use the National Labor Relations Board.

Money Shortage Found In FPHA, McCarthy Says

Ferguson Asserts 'Fraud' Uncovered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today a study of the Federal Public Housing Authority's bookkeeping showed that "vase amounts of government money seemed to have disappeared."

"Whether anyone did any stealing, I don't know," the Wisconsin Senator remarked at a hearing by a Senate Expenditures Subcommittee.

Herbert Emmerich, former FPHA commissioner, testified:

"There hasn't been any showing that anyone lined his pockets."

But Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), a member of the subcommittee along with McCarthy, said the bookkeeping survey had uncovered a $26,250 "fraud." And McCarthy declared that one $608,261 item was either a mistake in bookkeeping or defalcation."

The subcommittee is investigating findings that FPHA's 1945-46 accounts were "inadequate inaccurate and otherwise deficient."

Those were some of the conclusions of Price, Waterhouse and Company, a public accounting firm. The company surveyed FPHA accounts at the request of the U. S. General Accounting Office.

Stephen B. Ives, chief of the GAO's Corporation Audits Division, testified nothing in the survey indicated any "defalcation or irregularities so far as money matters are concerned."

Senator O'Conor (D-Md.) the

Canada Will Give Princess Fur Coat As Wedding Gift

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth picked out a new mink coat—in the rough—today.

A pile of dark brown mink pelts, carefully matched, was taken to Buckingham Palace for her to look at and she conferred with Joseph Kastner, Czech-born Canadian fur designer, offering him several suggestions about how she would like the coat made.

The coat is to be a wedding gift from the people of Canada, said Kastner.

Kastner said the coat would use "85 to 90" pelts.

Probe Of Building Operations Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — A nationwide campaign to "knock out" gray-market operators in building supplies was announced today by Senator McCarthy (R-Wisc), vice chairman of the House-Senate Housing Committee.

McCarthy told a reporter that subpoenas are being prepared to "bring in" gray-market operators, whom he accused of pyramiding prices, and "force them to testify under oath" as to their manipulations.

"If they don't tell the truth, we will nail them for perjury. If they refuse to testify, we will nail them for contempt," he said.

McCarthy and other committee members will go to Pittsburgh Monday to begin a 40-day tour in which 37 hearings will be held in cities ranging from New York to San Francisco and Minneapolis to New Orleans.

Churchill Doubts "Russia's Abuse Is War Prelude"

Speech Radioed To Smith Dinner

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill said tonight he did not believe Russia's "unceasing stream of abuse upon the Western World" is a prelude to war.

Speaking by radio from England to the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner here, Churchill said if the Russian leaders had their minds "set on war I cannot believe that they would not lull the easy-going Democracies into a false sense of security."

At the dinner tribute was paid the late New York Governor by James Forrestal, Secretary of Defense; Warren Austin, permanent United States delegate to the United Nations; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and others.

Churchill's address was broadcast over a national network.

As an explanation for what he called Rusia's "virulent propaganda" poured out "in 26 languages," the wartime British Prime Minister said he believed it is used by Russit's leaders—"these 14 men in the Kremlin"—for "Internal purposes."

"It may well be that they think it pays them and helps them to perpetuate their rule," Churchill said, "by representing to the otherwise blindfolded masses of the brave and good hearted Russian people that the Soviet Government stands between them and the horrors of in-

Fire Sweeps Kann Warehouse In D. C.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Fire swept through a six-story brick warehouse of the S. Kann and Sons Department Store, just off Pennsylvania Avenue and across the street from the National Archives Building, shortly after 3 p. m. today.

Scores of firemen fought to keep the blaze from spreading to the department store and to nearby commercial buldings in the heart of Washington. Two firemen were overcome by smoke.

Twenty persons who had been working in the building fled to safety. Officials of the department store said the blaze was discovered by Robert Murphy, Sandy Springs, Md., an employe, in a pile of trash on the third floor.

The store officials said they had no indication as to the cause of the blaze. They said the building contained all sorts of merchandise and dry goods and that the loss "probably will be substantial."

Hundreds of spectators gathered on Eighth Street and along Pennsylvania Avenue and hundreds of others leaned from government building windows and stood on ledges of nearby structures. Dense smoke pouring from the warehouse clouded the streets.

Both the front and rear walls of the building collapsed about 30 minutes after the first alarm was sounded at 3:12 p. m., but no one was reported injured.

40 Rescued From Plane Down In Sea

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — Weary Coast Guard crews, fighting waves two stories high, tonight rescued more than 40 of the 69 persons aboard a giant Boeing Flying Boat wallowing for more than 12 hours approximately 820 miles off the Newfoundland coast.

While mid-Atlantic night winds of gale force whined around the leaking hulk of the plane, the Bermuda Sky Queen, Coast Guardsmen made five trips to the craft, removing more than 40 persons to the safety of the weather ship Bibb.

More Trips Necessary

The Coast Guard here reported in a message received at 6:54 p. m. (EST(that it would "be necessary to make three more successful trips tonight bringing seven persons on each trip" before the final rescue work could be accomplished.

This was likely to "take the balance of the night," the message read.

Thus far no injuries or deaths have been reported despite the winds and mountainous waves.

The message from the Bibb, however, said one of the survivors on the last rescue mission apparently overturned one of the life rafts bringing survivors back to the Bibb.

"Last party of survivors was removed from submerged raft and swamped boat," the message said.

Previous messages told of removing groups of 10, 21 and three persons from the plane, all of them prostrated by seasickness and including children and infants.

Ran Short of Fuel

The Bermuda Sky Queen took off during the night from Shannon Airport, Eire, for Newfoundland, but ran short of fuel about 5:05 a. m. after battling heavy head winds on the flight.

Capt. Charles Martin, pilot of the craft, then made a forced landing on the storm-swept waters and taxied the plane nearly three miles to the side of the Bibb.

The 6:54 p. m. message from the weather ship said the "pilot's landing was incomparable."

ITU Labor Act Hearing Begins

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—A ruling on the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act was passed over, but a long battle over other integral parts of the new law took shape today at the first NLRB hearing on charges that a union engaged in unfair practices.

With Chief Examiner William R. Ringer, Washington, on the bench, National Labor Relations Board Regional Counsel formally opened the case against the International Typographical Union and its Baltimore Local 12.

The unions are charged with failure to bargain collectively with the 22 printing firms organized as the Baltimore Graphic Arts League.

Counsel for ITU, after three vigorous but unsuccessful attempts to obtain a postponement, finally brought out a legal maneuver which could possibly have the same effect.

The union maneuvered the government into a position of asking subpoenas for certain communications from the International Union to its local. This might take several days and was termed by government counsel as "deliberate suppression of evidence to get a continuance."

Just before the government presented its first evidence, Ringer said that while he would do so if the union insisted, he expected to withhold any ruling on two points of constitutionality, leaving them for the National Labor Relations Board itself, or the courts.

The ITU and Local 12, answering the complaint filed by the NLRB, argued the Taft-Hartley Act is unconstitutional because it violates the Fifth Amendment on taking of property without due process of law, and the Thirteenth Amendment by subjecting workers to "involuntary servitude."

Gerhard Van Arkel, Washington, counsel for ITU, raised no objections to Ringer's statement, but said the union was not waiving its rights to argue the issues before the NLRB or the courts.

AFL Votes Its Vice Presidents Out Of Office

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14 (AP) — The convention of the American Federation of Labor administered a crushing defeat to John L. Lewis tonight by voting to wipe out its 13 vice presidents in a move to make the entire federation eligible to use the National Labor Relations Board.

The decision came on a rising vote which AFL President William Green declared was a two-thirds majority. There was no challenge of the president's declaration from the floor. Except for Lewis' United Mine Workers, who stood in a solid show of opposition, dissenting delegates were scattered throughout the hall.

The action came after a stormy and prolonged fight on the convention floor which saw the AFL's top leadership direct a bitter attack against Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, on his stand against signing non-Communist affidavits as required by the Taft-Hartley Law.

The Mine Workers Chief told the delegates he would not be a candidate again for the Executive Council if the resolution was passed. This would mean Lewis' voluntary withdrawal from the federation's ruling body.

Leaves After Vote

Lewis, leaving the convention hall after the decisive vote, told reporters he would have no further statement.

"I made my statement for tonight," he said, smiling and shaking hands with numerous delegates and well-wishers.

The momentous issue came on recommendations of the Convention Law Committee. The committee report recommended adoption of action previously taken by the Executive Council which would abolish the offices of the 13 vice presidents and leave only President William Green and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany as federation "officers."

This was to permit the AFL officers to sign non-Communist affidavits for AFL federal unions which have no national officers of their own.

No union can utilise facilities of the NLRB unless its national officers—in this case, AFL officers—sign the affidavits. And President William Green of the AFL told the convention the issue was simply whether or not the AFL wanted "to preserve our federal unions or let them die."

Without being able to use NLRB facilities, he declared, the federal unions could be defeated by "outsiders and raiders."

"Some other union," he explained, "would be able to get on the ballot (in voting to choose a union) and the federal unions would not."

Restating the issues, he called on delegates to "disagree as friends, not as enemies."

Lewis earlier declared his United Mine Workers "will not run with you" if the convention should choose to capitulate to the Communism affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley Act.

At one point, Lewis referred to a biblical tale about "lions led by asses" and at another time he said:

"On this issue I don't think the federation had a head. I think its neck has just grown up and haired over."

Stalin Resting Near Black Sea

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Moscow Radio disclosed tonight that Prime Minister Stalin is in a rest area on the Black Sea.

Announcing that Stalin had received eight laborite members of the British Parliament visiting the Soviet Union, the broadcast said the "reception took place in the area of Sochi," a Black Sea resort.

Stalin, who will be 68 December 21, spent a prolonged vacation in the Sochi Area following the end of the war when there were widespread but unconfirmed reports that he was seriously ill.

Five Are Hurt In Train Wreck

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 14—(AP)—A southbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train was derailed in the southeast part of Kokomo today, and three trainmen and two women passengers suffered minor injuries.

The locomotive and five of the eight coaches on the train left the tracks, and the locomotive turned over on its side. The cars remained upright.

First reports were that the train had struck an open switch, but this could not be confirmed by railroad officials, who said the cause of the wreck was not determined immediately.

The train, en route from Chicago to Cincinnati, was carrying about 175 passengers. It tore up the track for about 100 feet and blocked the line.

The train had stopped at the Kokomo station and was about two miles from the station at the time of the accident. The passengers were put on the three coaches which remained on the track and the coaches were pulled back to the station.

Legal Arguments On State Sales Tax Expected Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 14—(AP)—The Sales Tax Act, apparently slated for discussion at the Special Legislative session between October 24 and November 1, will be the subject of legal arguments tomorrow in Anne Arundel County Court.

Counsel for four taxpayers will seek a writ to force Secretry of State Bertram L. Boone to put the act up to a people's vote next year.

Attorney General Hall Hammond has ruled the law is not subject to referendum because, he holds, it is an appropriation measure.

The Attorney General's staff will defend the act tomorrow in the suit brought by Robert I. Black, Alfred T. Truitt, Herman L. Mills and Henry J. Starr.

Just how much effect sales tax talk at the General Assembly will have appears doubtful. Politicians at the State Capital believe nothing will disturb the sales tax unless Governor Lane is willing.

He would have to approve any scheme for lessening the tax and returning it to the people somehow if the General Assembly were to get anywhere in Legislating.

Two delegates, S. Pete Pollack (D-Balto-Fourth) and Charles M. Bandiere (D-Balto.-Fifth) have gone on record that they will offer sales tax related bills.

Pollack would repeal the act and legalize bookmaking as a revenue source and Bandiere would give to Baltimore City and the 23 counties all sales tax receipts above $19,000,000.

It is expected that plans for the special session—to be called principally to deal with Baltimore City's taxing powers—will be made by legislative leaders in conference with the Governor.

If any private sales tax plans are still pushed, the committee system will stand as a big obstacle in their way. If by any chance the Legislature does present a measure the governor doesn't like, he can always veto it.

In any contest over the sales tax, the legislators would be at a great disadvantage.

When the act was passed at the 1947 session, legislators opposed to it said openly the bill was railroaded. At that time, it was estimated the tax would bring in $18,400,000 annually. But in September Comptroller James J. Lacy predicted a return of $25,000,000 on the basis of results up to then.

Second Meatless Tuesday Shows Improvement, But Lags In Places

By International News Service

Observance of the second nationwide "Meatless Tuesday" under President Truman's food conservation plan showed improvement but still fell short of 100 per cent compliance.

Most major cities reported that the majority of chain restaurants, hotels and bit eateries left meat off their menus, but that many smaller places did not.

Some restaurants which announced meat dishes said they had meat on hand and could not waste it.

Others said they were forced to serve meat by customer demand.

Still others declared that "competition" forced them to keep meat on their menus.

New York City restaurants in general observed the meatless day. The same was true in such other large centers as Cleveland, Boston and Detroit.

In Philadelphia, however, competition between chain restaurants and independents threatened to bog down the meatless observance.

Army Warns Troops That Russia Can "Attack" In Any Direction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (INS)—The Army warned troops throughout the world today that Russia is in a position to attack "in almost any direction, toward Europe, China, or by air across the Polar regions."

The Department of the Army distributed a booklet—Armed Forces Talk No. 197 — designed as a basis for troop information and discussion—that pointed up the differences in Soviet and United States policy, and analyzed the military assets and liabilities of Russia.

It also said that through the control of a large portion of Eastern Europe and Western Asia the Soviets were in possession of the Eastern Hemisphere "heartland."

The booklet pulled no punches in describing the conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union. It said:

"The present situation is plainly not a happy one. In part, this is because the United State and the Soviet Union do not see eye to eye on important world problems.

UMW would not "run" with the rest of the convention, the miners' chief gave no further indication that he intended to withdraw the 600,000 members of his union from the federation. He bolted the AFL in 1936 in the fight over formation of the CIO, but returned to the federation in January, 1946, after breaking off relations with his own "baby"—the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

He faces another showdown tomorrow or Thursday over his miscellaneous District 50 which has jurisdictional problems with several other AFL unions.

Dan Tobin, president of the Teamsters, answered Lewis by asserting that the non-Communist affidavit constituted a question "not of much importance."

Tobin also drew cheers and laughter when he greeted the convention as "fellow belly-crawlers," in direct retort to Lewis' charges of "groveling."

"The Brotherhood of Teamsters never crawled in their lives. When the mine workers were on their bellies, we wr three to lift thm up," Tobin asserted.

Later, questioned to Lewis' meaning when the mine chief said he "would not run," associates explained that Lewis meant only that he would not sign the affidavit—and not that he intended to bolt the AFL.

Delegates Cheer Speech

Delegates whistled and cheered as Lewis precipitated a floor fight on the hottest issue to come before the 66th annual convention.

'The Taft-Hartley Act is the first ugly active thrust of Fascism in America," Lewis rumbled.

He charged that Congress had "placed an economic muezle on each of you."

"What you are going to do about it?" You are going to change your constitution,' he said sarcastically.

At issue in the controversy are the 300,000 members of federal locals who are dependent on the AFL's 15 top officers to sign non-Communist affidavits if they are to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board.

Lewis, while emphasizing he is not a Communist, opposed such signatures. Therefore the plan was advanced that by eliminating the 13 vice-presidents, only President William Green and Secretary George Meany would be left to sign. They have signified their willingness.

subcommittee chairman, asked whether the GAO has found any evidence of "defalcation, embezzlement or shortages" for the period since the Price, Waterhouse survey.

Ives mentioned "three or four cases recently where there have been defalcations." He said these were disclosed "by FPHA itself, not by our audits."

Ives said these defalcations were "under $10,000," with the exception of "one in Michigan which, as I recall, ran a little bit larger." He did not elaborate.

In a statement made when today's hearings began, O'Conor said his subcommittee has been advised "that changes have been made affecting the individuals who were in positions of responsibility during the period covered by the report" of the public accountants.

"Further, it is declared," O'Conor said, "The present officials are making every effort to avoid any errors and to maintain present records as they should be kept.'

"Now I devoutly hope that this view of mine may prove to be correct," Churchill said. "But the United States and the Western Democracies of Europe will fail to profit by the hard experiences they have undergone if they did not take every measure of prudent defensive preparation which is open to them."

He said the Soviet Government "and their Communist Fifth Columns in so many countries" might withdraw from the United Nations.

"We should not be unduly depresed if the Soviet-Communist forces should decide to part company with the world organization," Churchill said.

Such a division would lead to two worlds, he declared, but added:

"If one of these worlds is far more powerful than the other and is equally vigilant, and is also sincerely desirous of maintaining peace, there is no reason why a two-world system should lead to war."

The British Commonwealth would act with the Uunted States "if any great issue should arise affecting human freedom," Churchill said.

He paid tribute to Smith as "a man if the highest quality of brain and heart."

AFL Votes Its

UMW would not "run" with the rest of the convention, the miners' chief gave no further indication that he intended to withdraw the 600,000 members of his union from the federation. He bolted the AFL in 1936 in the fight over formation of the CIO, but returned to the federation in January, 1946, after breaking off relations with his own "baby"—the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

He faces another showdown tomorrow or Thursday over his miscellaneous District 50 which has jurisdictional problems with several other AFL unions.

Dan Tobin, president of the Teamsters, answered Lewis by asserting that the non-Communist affidavit constituted a question "not of much importance."

Tobin also drew cheers and laughter when he greeted the convention as "fellow belly-crawlers," in direct retort to Lewis' charges of "groveling."

"The Brotherhood of Teamsters never crawled in their lives. When the mine workers were on their bellies, we wr thre to lift thm up," Tobin asserted.

Later, questioned to Lewis' meaning when the mine chief said he "would not run," associates explained that Lewis meant only that he would not sign the affidavit—and not that he intended to bolt the AFL.

Delegates Cheer Speech

Delegates whistled and cheered as Lewis precipitated a floor fight on the hottest issue to come before the 66th annual convention.

"The Taft-Hartley Act is the first ugly active thrust of Fascism in America," Lewis rumbled.

He charged that Congress had "placed an economic muezle on each of you."

"What you are going to do about it?" You are going to change your constitution,' he said sarcastically.

At issue in the controversy are the 300,000 members of federal locals who are dependent on the AFL's 15 top officers to sign non-Communist affidavits if they are to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board.

Lewis, while emphasizing he is not a Communist, opposed such signatures. Therefore the plan was advanced that by eliminating the 13 vice-presidents, only President William Green and Secretary George Meany would be left to sign. They have signified their willingness.

subcommittee chairman, asked whether the GAO has found any evidence of "defalcation, embezzlement or shortages" for the period since the Price, Waterhouse survey.

Ives mentioned "three or four cases recently where there have been defalcations." He said these were disclosed "by FPHA itself, not by our audits."

Ives said these defalcations were "under $10,000." with the exception of "one in Michigan which, as I recall, ran a little bit larger." He did not elaborate.

In a statement made when today's hearings began, O'Conor said his subcommittee has been advised "that changes have been made affecting the individuals who were in positions of responsibility during the period covered by the report" of the public accountants.

"Further, it is declared," O'Conor said, "The present officials are making every effort to avoid any errors and to maintain present records as they should be kept.'

vasion which they withstood, when it came, so manfully."

"Now I devoutly hope that this view of mine may prove to be correct," Churchill said. "But the United States and the Western Democracies of Europe will fail to profit by the hard experiences they have undergone if they did not take every measure of prudent defensive preparation which is open to them."

He said the Soviet Government "and their Communist Fifth Columns in so many countries" might withdraw from the United Nations.

"We should not be unduly depressed if the Soviet-Communist forces should decide to part company with the world organization," Churchill said.

Such a division would lead to two worlds, he declared, but added:

"If one of these worlds is far more powerful than the other and is equally vigilant, and is also sincerely desirous of maintaining peace, there is no reason why a two-world system should lead to war."

The British Commonwealth would act with the Uunted States "if any great issue should arise affecting human freedom," Churchill said.

He paid tribute to Smith as "a man if the highest quality of brain and heart."

Members of the Cumberland Lions Club, at their weekly meeting Wednesday, will be reminded to urge their friends to buy tickets early for the appearance of the American Male Chorus, which will sing at Fort Hill High School auditorium Monday, October 27, at 8:15 p. m.

An all-veteran chorus, the group was organized in Manila a couple of years ago, with the original organizer, Lieut. Lewis Brlock, still director and manager.

The chorus is coming here under the sponsorship of the Lions, with proceeds to be used for the club's sight conservation program, in which eye glasses are provided for needy school children, and older students, handicapped by poor vision, or who are blind, are given the advantages of higher education.

Next week, student tickets will be placed on sale in high schools, and adult tickets may now be obtained at the Cumberland Music Shop, 5 South Liberty Street.

The Lions bulletin this week, indicates the advance sale is heavy, and those who want to hear this outstanding male chorus are urged to get their reservations early.

New Traffic Regulations Appear To Be Working Out

As had been forecast, the new traffic regulations, inaugurated by Commissioner of Police William V. Keegan and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, are bringing protests from those who find themselves inconvenienced.

Some business firms within the no-parking zones on North Mechanic, North Liberty and North Centre Streets have requested that the restrictions be eased to permit cars to pull into curbs for indefinite stays on one side of those streets.

To adhere to that request would defeat the very purpose of the regulations—to speed up traffic through the most congested portion of downtown Cumberland—by reducing the present three-lane traffic rule to two. In inaugurating the system now in effect was to add, what really amounts to, another street. They should be retained.

The reactions to the plan, by not only motorists but some business places, have been most favorable, because it permits a speedier and smoother flow of traffic through the principal arteries of the city.

Heads of the police department have not shown an indifference to the welfare of those affected by these regulations. They have gone so far as to extend the time first permitted for loading and unloading, and have granted other concessions to ease difficulties business concerns were confronted with.

It is very necessary that traffic be speeded through the business areas, and the regulations now in effect appear to be one answer to the problem. However, steps will have to be taken by the city to overcome the scarcity of parking space for shoppers, and those who drive from their homes to offices and places of employment, by providing parking lots within a reasonable walking distance to downtown points. But it would be a mistake to permit parking on streets now free of it, and it is to be hoped those who are complaining will withdraw their protests and thereby assist city officials in their efforts to make driving less cumbersome through our narrow thoroughfares.

Industrial use of atomic energy is now said to be 40 years away, with war probably quicker on the trigger.

China Is In Danger, Too; No U. S. Relief Planned

The twin problem facing the free peoples everywhere today is the world food shortage and the expansion of Soviet Russia. That problem has been presented to the American public as essentially a European affair. Little has been said about the plight of China, though the threat of Communism via hunger and chaos is at least as great in China as in Western Europe, and the cost of saving China would probably be much less.

The main reason why China has been allowed to drift unnoticed is Gen. Marshall's unfortunate report on his Chinese mission. American policy, based on that report, is to deny further aid to China until Chiang Kai-Shek stamps out graft and corruption in his government and brings several leftists parties, including the Communists, into the Kuomintang regime.

The government at Nanking has been broadened, though without the Communist representation which Marshall insisted upon. Chiang has several times invited the Communists in, but they won't give up their separate government and their private army in the north until they can dictate national policy.

The presence of graft in China is a fact—an ancient fact, made worse by terrific inflation and the hardships of government officials on fixed salaries. It is by the way, ironic that the Americans who most loudly denounce Chinese graft seem unmoved by the political mass murder behind Europe's Iron Curtain.

The military situation of China today is bad and growing worse. Chiang's armies have been successful south of the Yantze but have lost a great deal of ground in Manchuria, the richest part of China. How far Russia has been aiding the Chinese Communists, in addition to turning over to them vast stores of arms captured from the Japanese, is not known. But it is a safe guess that a Communist Manchuria would soon become a Soviet puppet like Outer Mongolia.

What can the United States do about it? According to William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to Russia, who has just completed a field study for Life Magazine, we can save China from Communism and runaway inflation by spending $1,350,000,000 over the next three years. That may be too modest an estimate. But the administration does not seem to be considering any relief program for embattled China.

Perhaps Congress will show itself more interested in saving the most populous country on earth, and a traditional friend of the United States, from being handed over to Stalin by default.

Arthur F. Smith

The death of Arthur Francis Smith, at his home in Lonaconing Monday night, while not unexpected, for he had been in failing health for several years, brings grief to a wide circle of friends.

During the greater part of his life Mr. Smith was in the service of the educational system of Allegany county, having taught school for half a century, 44 years of which were at Central High School, Lonaconing. He had a high conception of duty and was devoted to his tasks as an educator.

Mr. Smith introduced many innovations into the school and classrooms over which he presided. One of his greatest interests was the school paper, "Orange and Black," which was established by him, and which ranked among the best of such publications in competitions conducted yearly on a national scale. He also gave his wholehearted support to athletics and took a personal interest in teams, especially those of basketball, which brought honor and glory to his school year after year.

During his years as teacher and principal, Mr. Smith never permitted himself to lose sight of students after graduations, but watched with the interest of a parent the progress they made in their own behalf, and could recall at an instant what success had been attained by this one and that one in his or her chosen career.

Memory of him will live long and vividly in the minds of the thousands of students he was privileged to aid in educating during his half century as a teacher and principal, as well as in the thoughts of his business associates.

THE MONGOLOID CHILD

"YOUR BABY is not normal," said the physician to the new father, "and we will have to break the news gently to your wife." To tell this to a parent is one of the most difficult things that a doctor has to do. Fortunately, it is rarely necessary, because the vast majority of infants are healthy in all respects.

There are various abnormalities, but to give birth to a Mongolian idiot is probably the most tragic of all. Such youngsters are not only unusual in appearance but retarded mentally and physically. The anomaly is surrounded by mystery because science has never been able to find the cause, nor is a suitable treatment available. Many succumb shortly after birth. The remainder live a variable length of time but rarely reach their 20th birthday.

Unless this misfortune is handled correctly, the entire family may suffer. The parents often blame themselves needlessly, because the affliction is rarely hereditary and does not imply that mental deficiency has been passed on. In many instances they have other children who are perfectly normal, and look ahead five or 10 years when such youngsters will bring friends into the home to be confronted with the helpless brother or sister. All this goes thru their minds and adds additional tragedy to the untoward outcome of the pregnancy.

Considerable research has been done in an attempt to discover why babies of this type come into being. Many authorities believe that, prior to conception, a temporary abnormality existed in the membranes covering the inside of the uterus. Defects in this tissue may occur because it is exhausted thru previous pregnancies, illness, alcoholism, or undernourishment. Now and then the mother had a miscarriage just previous to this pregnancy. A better possibility is that the ovum was defective from the start and mongolism resulted merely as a whim of nature.

The modern physician solves the problem of the future of these children by recommending a humane and sensible procedure. Since the baby is under par and has a life expectancy that is short and vegetative in nature, institutional care is advised. Some go further and suggest that the father and mother do not see their offspring in order to avoid arousing the natural paternal and maternal instincts. Those who advocate this plan feel that the bitter pill will be forgotten sooner in this way and the parents can return to normal living and rear their other children as tho nothing had happened.

This practice is widespread and many states have institutions with trained personnel to care for such youngsters. Here the tots are reared under ideal supervision. If they can be admitted immediately everything goes along fine, but when there is a waiting list a private institution may be utilized until space in a state home is available. Insult is added to injury when the community cannot provide proper facilities or where private places are too expensive.

Many studies are being carried on in an effort to treat the Mongolian idiot. It is believed that a defective glandular system is responsible and various extracts are being administered, particularly pituitary preparations. The ideal product has not yet been devised, but it is possible that the future molds more promise.

Yes, Anywhere

F. H. writes: Can a person have hardening of the arteries of an ear?

REPLY

Yes, as the aging process is not a bit choosy. The arteries anywhere in the body can be involved, including those in the hearing apparatus.

Rutin

R. E. T. writes: What is rutin good for?

REPLY

It is being studied in patients with high blood pressure on the assumption that the weakened blood vessels exhibited in some with this disorder are responsible for strokes. As yet this has not been proved. The current publicity on vitamin E is also along this line.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Yes sir, in Summerville, Massachusetts, they've just set up a training college for dogs. It's sort of a Notre Dame for Irish terriers.

Of course this is only for older dogs. The young ones have to go to a puppy garden.

I can see them now on their lunch hour in the cafeteria opening their lunch pails and taking their bones out of the wax paper.

In class I'm sure the dogs don't cheat on the examination. I just can't see a dog entering the classroom with a "pony."

The professor asked one dog why he was attending the college. He answered, "I want to be a fine husband for lassie."

After they got through teaching the dogs all kinds of tricks . . . heeling, jumping obstacles, etc. . . . one poodle in the back kept waving his paw up and down, but the professor wasn't familiar with the trick.

It was no trick. He just wanted to leave the room.

They even have fraternities for the dogs. Of course only the higher class cannies can get in. In fact last week they threw out a German shepherd for bringing in a flea.

One little co-ed, a Mexican chihuahua, had her eye on a handsome collie. He knew she loved him. Every morning she'd greet him in class with a boxful of her own homemade dog biscuit.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — Poor food Czar Charley Luckman gets it going and coming. First he is roasted by the liquor distillers, the hotel and restaurant men; and now he gets it in the neck from senators. Eight of them—all Republicans—sat down to lunch with him last week and, led by Oregon's Wayne Morse and Minnesota's Ed Thye, raised cain about poultryless Thursdays.

Before the stormy, closed-door session was over, however, tough-hided Luckman won the indorsement of all eight Senators without agreeing to any basic changes in his "waste less—eat less" program.

Senator Morse, former dean of the Oregon University Law School, but also something of an expert on chickens, did most of the talking.

"You obviously were unaware of some economic facts when you asked the American public to do without eggs and poultry one day a week," he said. "I'm for feeding Europe and I am sure all my Republican colleagues want to see you attain your objectives, but not at the expense of upsetting our agricultural economy.

"It seems to me that this is a very poor time to ask people to abstain from poultry when cold-storage plants are bulging with it. We have 225,000,000 pounds of turkey, chicken and other poultry in cold storage and an additional 600,000,000 pounds of turkey will move into the market for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's business in the next 90 days, plus another 100,000,000 pounds of other poultry."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who was present, confirmed the fact that this vast amount of poultry was on hand.

"Why don't you send some of this to Europe?" asked Morse.

"Well, I guess the answer is pretty obvious," replied Luckman. "Europe wants grain, because it is cheaper and has a higher calory content. Also, it might seem incongruous to feed chicken and turkey to starving people."

"Let's not kid ourselves about that," broke in Senator Thye, himself a Minnesota farmer. "I'm not trying to belittle our humanitarian efforts, but I think everyone agrees that whatever relief we send Europe will be a gift, which is perfectly all right if you have to keep people from starving.

"But if we are going to write off repayment, let's send what we can best afford, without too much sacrifice to our farm program. A lot of small poultry farmers, including many war veterans in Minnesota and other states, are going to be hurt if you continue these poultryless Thursdays.

"Your program is unfair," continued Thye. "It should have been spread more evenly over our whole economy so that one segment of the population would not be asked to make too great a sacrifice."

Senators Owen Brewster of Maine and Homer Ferguson of Michigan remarked that they would have to answer similar protests from poultry farmers in their states. How, they inquired, would Luckman answer such protests?

"The American people have met emergencies like this before and they will do it again," replied Luckman. "We're not trying to discriminate against any one class; we are asking all the people to contribute to the best of their ability. This involves sacrifice."

At one point, Luckman, who is head of Lever Brothers, giant soap company, confessed: "Let me take off my whiskers for a moment and tell you, as a businessman, I sympathize with you."

He went on to explain, however, that his program is aimed to trim the fat off young, wheat-fed fryers. He believes the public can do without super-tender drumsticks for a while and let this grain be diverted to Europe.

"There's some logic in what you say," conceded Senator Morse, "and you have an even stronger emotional argument on your side. But you can't solve this problem by emotion. The State Department has got to get it out of its head that we should concentrate on shipping one commodity—grain."

The Oregon senator contended that we should ship more dried fruits, such as prunes and apricots, now surplus on the west coast. He also reminded Luckman that large quantities of peas, beans and fruits had rotted this year because canners, fearing a glutted market, had refused to buy them.

"Why didn't the government buy up this stuff and start canning it for European relief during the summer, instead of letting it go to waste?" asked Morse. "Our government food planners must have been asleep at the switch, for everyone knew that this crisis in Europe was coming."

Luckman responded that he wasn't responsible for what happened last summer, since the food program had only just been dumped in his lap.

"I'm doing the best I can with the materials I have," he said. "I've been told to save food for Europe and that means, primarily, saving grain. I am sure the farmers of the country realize this and want to help us."

When Maine's Senator Brewster picked up the check at he end of lunch, it was evident the Republican senators had lived up to the topic of their conversation. Their menu—bean soup, apple sauce, crackers and coffee—came to $4.08 for 12 people, or 34 cents per person.

Note—One reason for the misunderstanding between Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and President Truman was that the President had made his plea for poultryless Thursdays without consulting the Agriculture Department. On the same

MERRY GO ROUND—2 . . . . . day Truman went on the air, the Agriculture Department had prepared to launch exactly the opposite program—namely, encourage people to eat more poultry so farmers would send more chickens to market, thus reducing the grain fed on poultry farms.

Even after the President announced his poultryless Thursdays, the Agriculture Department still liked its program better and quietly went ahead with it. Result: there should be more poultry on the market all week, except Thursdays.

MacArthur and Eisenhower

Even in far distant Japan, General MacArthur called the turn on the Eisenhower boom 18 months ago. Sen. Owen Brewster, who was globe-trotting in the Far East at the time, delivered a personal message to the General from President Truman.

"Tell MacArthur," Truman jokingly told Brewster, "that he can have my job any time he wants it."

"Thank the President for me," MacArthur shot back, "and tell him that if any general ever takes his job, it will be Eisenhower."

Mr. Vishinsky Should Stop Calling Americans Greedy

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

How much help has Uncle Sam given to foreign countries? Since the beginning of the war, it has amounted, net, to $58,206,741,335. But as no one knows what a billion dollars is, much less 58 billion, let's measure this by yardsticks we know something about.

At $8,000 per house, this gigantic sum would build over 7,000,000 homes.

It is three billion dollars more than the total purchases in all our retail stores in the year we entered the war.

It is ten billion dollars more than the total assets of all our life insurance companies—the backlog of security for 65,000,000 insurance policy holders.

It is six billion dollars more than the net worth of all our business companies. These assets are the backlog for jobs for nearly all of us—manufacturing, mining, railroading, merchandising, shipping, etc.

It is 23 times as much as we spend on the education of all children in our public schools.

It is almost three times as much as all our farmers and cattlemen received for their cattle, crops, poultry, etc., in our biggest farm income year.

It is five times the value of all farm buildings, houses, and barns, in the United States. Hence, if all our farm buildings were completely destroyed by five successive fires, it would rebuild them five times.

It is 2½ times the value of all our farm lands.

It is $15,000,000,000 more than the total national income of all our people in 1933.

It is 29 times as much as all our old and sick people received in social security payments the year we entered the war.

It is 10 billion dollars more than the total wages and salaries paid in America the year the war broke out in Europe.

It is 14 times the amount of all business profits that same year.

It is 11 times the value of all United States exports to foreign countries in 1929, the peak export year before the war.

It is $6,000,000,000 more than the total spent to run the Federal government during the first seven years of Mr. Roosevelt's Administration.

Consider these facts Mr. Vishinke, Deputy Foreign Secretary of the Soviets, and then tell us that we entered this war to make money!

Of this huge total, how much went to Russia in lend-lease, direct loans, and UNRRA relief? The answer is $11,681,393,782. How much is that by some yardstick we can understand? Well, it is almost 11 times the value of our cotton crop in 1945; 10 times the value of our wheat crop; almost eight times the value of all hard and soft coal dug in 1945; and six times the value of all gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, zinc, and other metals mined that year.

Mr. Vishinsky, you can tell your people, behind your iron curtain of censorship, that we went into this war to make money, but you can't make our taxpayers believe your story. They still have to pay all those 11 billions of American aid to your country. It is part of their debt.

And, besides, don't you forget this. We depleted our coal, petroleum, iron and timber reserves in this process. In the wheat we sent aboard were millions of tons of our fertile soil. We sent your country $11,297, 883,000 of the real worth of the United States.

In reverse lend-lease, you gave us back $2,219,000! Or $1 for every $5,310 we sent you. While we were doing this, your country has seized 274,000 square miles of other people's lands—eight times the size of Indiana — with 24,355,000 people! Stop calling us greedy!

Union Talk On Labor Law Not Centered On Main Provisions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. — Although nearly four months have passed since the enactment of the Taft-Hartley law, it is a surprising thing that such public discussion as the labor unions have initiated with reference to revision has not centered on the main provisions at all.

Exaggerated emphasis has been placed instead on two points in the new law which are really not related basically to the regulation of labor-management relations.

One concerns the signing of anti-communist affidavits and the other relates to expenditures during political campaigns by labor unions.

The matter of the anti-communist affidavits would have received far less attention if NLRB General Counsel Robert Denham had chosen to interpret differently the language of the law. But my announcing his first ruling, he had an opportunity to get the National Labor Relations Board to share with him the responsibility for making clear what the law said.

The statute says that the affidavits must be signed by "the officers of any national or international labor organization" which files a petition to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board. But the words "labor organization are not defined. By a strict interpretation, it could mean not only the AFL and CIO but also the World Federation of Trade Unions. Actually these organizations are confederations of unions and do not themselves engage directly in collective bargaining with employers. There is no more reason to call the AFL or CIO an employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining than to call the United States Chamber of Commerce or the National Association of Manufacturers an employer.

Covers Printers' Union

The new ruling—which makes it unnecessary for the AFL or CIO officers to sign affidavits — does, however, indicate clearly that an organization like the International Typographical Union which directs the activities of local unions is a labor organization as defined in the law.

It is interesting to note that the ITU ridiculed the petition filed by the American Newspaper Publishers Association with the labor board charging unfair labor practices against the ITU on the ground that the ANPA was not an employer and did not directly bargain with employees. This is a correct statement but what the ITU overlooked is that, in the section of the law pertaining to the filing of charges on unfair labor practices, there is a specific proviso which says:

"In the discretion of the member, agent, or agency conducting the hearing or the board, any other person may be allowed to intervene in the said proceeding and to present testimony."

This is not at all novel. Complaints of "unfair competition" may be filed before the Federal Trade Commission by any person. Indeed, if the complaint is formally taken up, the prosecution is conducted thereafter by the commission and not by any of the parties to the dispute. Some such procedure may be possible under the Taft-Hartley Act, so that the labor board, having once had facts concerning an "unfair labor practice" drawn to its attention, may proceed on its own thereafter irrespective of the attitude of the parties to the dispute This procedure is necessary to prevent undue influence being exerted to prevent one of the litigants from pursuing the charges.

Problem Not Disposed Of

The anti-communist affidavit problem has not been disposed of for the AFL because, with respect to certain unions, it acts as the parent labor organization with direct authority to carry on collective bargaining. Unless these unions are given autonomy like others in the AFL, this organization will have to qualify by signing the affidavits before the facilities of the board can be used. The AFL recognizes that obstacle, and that's why it has been planning to eliminate its vice presidents so as to avoid a rumps with John L. Lawis, who, as a vice president, could keep the AFL from qualifying merely by refusing to sign the affidavit himself. The exercise of such a veto power has little or nothing to do with the actual operations of the Taft-Hartley law, because almost all unions engaging in collective bargaining will qualify by signing the affidavits.

The first test of the law may come when the typographical unions face charges of unfair labor practice for refusal to bargain. But there are few labor lawyers who think the ITU can win on such litigation, because the Supreme Court has upheld in no uncertain terms the power of Congress to regulate labor-management relations and particularly the right to punish a refusal to bargain.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Calories and Conscience

THE ESSENTIAL task of the Luckman Committee is to conduct a propaganda for voluntary reduction of food consumption by Americans so that more can be shipped abroad. Last year, this country exported 18,000,000 tons of food. American crops this year do not warrant shipments of that size. The Luckman plan is to stretch our crop so that exports abroad would be ample.

When such phrases as "Waste less" are used, they approach the insult, for at current prices, few homes can afford to waste anything knowingly.

In fact, except for hotels and restaurants which must include a margin of waste, the American garbage can contains little that can actually be saved. Nevertheless, it is true that few human beings require 3,500 calories a day. Most of us would be healthier on 2,500 calories; some could diet to their advantage on 1,000 calories a day. The Luckman Committee might even succeed in reducing the number of diabetics in this country by restoring the cult of skinniness which was once so popular—before it became stylish again to show curves.

But obesity is not a product of meat, chicken and eggs; just as Mr. Luckman's soap is not made of protein. Obesity usually comes from eating starches, fats, sugar, candy, ice-cream, pastries, pies and drinking beer, sweetened waters and all that sort of thing. I looked at the diet lists given me, from time to time, to keep my weight from reaching gargantuan proportions and actually it says to eat more meat and chicken and less of all the things that are not included in the voluntary "Eat-less."

The theory that grain is saved for Europe by not eating eggs in America requires scientific and statistical substantiation. It sounds like huckster's dope. It is a reversion to scare advertising.

On the other hand, I go into a restaurant and they flash Dutch and Czechoslovakian beer, which is a cereal product. The Dutch beer, I never particularly cared for—that is a matter of taste—but in the days when I used to enjoy a glass of beer—before my calories were reduced—I liked the Pilsener brew. It is good beer, but we have some in this country that is equally good. As I am not permitted to drink beer on account of its propensity to double the chin and other parts, it all makes little difference.

However, how can any one, in conscience, justify shipping beer from Czechoslovakia to the United States and then ask Americans to eat less, so that grain may be shipped to Czechoslovakia to be used to make beer?

Such shipments cannot be sustained by logic or conscience. Until I see that no grain products are imported from Europe to be sold in the American market, I shall pay not the slightest attention to Mr. Luckman's propaganda.

When American distillers are asked to take a vacation from production and grain is exported to produce Scotch whisky, it means literally that American production, labor and capital investment are being subordinated to Great Britain's need for dollars; that is, American production is reduced to increase the market for British goods.

I think that as long as that goes on, I shall reject my doctor's advice on calories and I shall follow my conscience, which tells me to consume all the carbohydrates I can.

My heart bleeds for the starving anywhere, but my instincts resent the kind of trickery involved in the beer and whisky racket. So far as Pilsener is concerned, I do not see why we should directly or indirectly contribute anything to Czechoslovakia. That country chose to join Soviet Russia against the United States; let them get grain from Russia and sell their brew to Stalin. They made the choice; let them swallow it.

I refuse to buy anything from Behind the Iron Curtain—caviar or Pilsener Beer. As for dieting—when the United States distributes its charities directly to hungry people, I am willing to go on 800 calories a day—but not on any other plan.

Packages

There is a fascination to packages—especially to those that come through the mail—unexpectedly. A book, a small remembrance from somewhere, a box of flowers. The contents so often spell out the thoughtfulness and richness of heart of the one who has sent the package.

Not long ago a package came in for me, and awaited my return from my island summer retreat. Imagine my surprise when I opened it, to find two big bottles of maple syrup, sent by a dear friend, who knew of my love for this particular delicacy from nature's realm. Then a little later another package came—this time a box of fruit from the southland—some delicious mangoes! And a few days later came a beloved book from England that a kind friend had discovered for me. What a string of package thrills! Each one inspired by thoughtfulness.

Packages always intrigue. I like to see people carrying them, for I know that they contain something that contributes to happiness. Or, perhaps they have been created to make someone else happy, and surprised. Nothing is so inspiring as to see the great armfuls of packages at Christmas time.

When in college, one summer I wrapped packages to help pay my way, and thought it was a hot job—being in the central state of Kansas—I deeply enjoyed the work, for I kept thinking what a thrill each recipient would get upon delivery of each package. I like to see clerks in a store take pains in wrapping, attractively, each item. No matter what the contents, a package should show a well-dressed front! A good deal of the love is on the outside—a fact that many fail to discover.

I have an idea that the mail man delivers a package with just a little more feeling of pride and dignity than a mere small piece of mail. That package is so rich in expectation!

You cannot correctly appraise a package by its size, however. A tiny one might contain a diamond or some other precious stone to thrill the eye and heart. The same happy element, however, hides away in every package delivered, whether small or large. You cannot adequately appraise love! There has never been a set price given to it.

New Traffic Regulations Appear To Be Working Out

As had been forecast, the new traffic regulations, inaugurated by Commissioner of Police William V. Keegan and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, are bringing protests from those who find themselves inconvenienced.

Some business firms within the no-parking zones on North Mechanic, North Liberty and North Centre Streets have requested that the restrictions be eased to permit cars to pull into curbs for indefinite stays on one side of those streets.

To adhere to that request would defeat the very purpose of the regulations—to speed up traffic through the most congested portion of downtown Cumberland—by reducing the present three-lane traffic rule to two. In inaugurating the system now in effect was to add, what really amounts to, another street. They should be retained.

The reactions to the plan, by not only motorists but some business places, have been most favorable, because it permits a speedier and smoother flow of traffic through the principal arteries of the city.

Heads of the police department have not shown an indifference to the welfare of those affected by these regulations. They have gone so far as to extend the time first permitted for loading and unloading, and have granted other concessions to ease difficulties business concerns were confronted with.

It is very necessary that traffic be speeded through the business areas, and the regulations now in effect appear to be one answer to the problem. However, steps will have to be taken by the city to overcome the scarcity of parking space for shoppers, and those who drive from their homes to offices and places of employment, by providing parking lots within a reasonable walking distance to downtown points. But it would be a mistake to permit parking on streets now free of it, and it is to be hoped those who are complaining will withdraw their protests and thereby assist city officials in their efforts to make driving less cumbersome through our narrow thoroughfares.

Industrial use of atomic energy is now said to be 40 years away, with war probably quicker on the trigger.

China Is In Danger, Too; No U. S. Relief Planned

The twin problem facing the free peoples everywhere today is the world food shortage and the expansion of Soviet Russia. That problem has been presented to the American public as essentially a European affair. Little has been said about the plight of China, though the threat of Communism via hunger and chaos is at least as great in China as in Western Europe, and the cost of saving China would probably be much less.

The main reason why China has been allowed to drift unnoticed is Gen. Marshall's unfortunate report on his Chinese mission. American policy, based on that report, is to deny further aid to China until Chiang Kai-Shek stamps out graft and corruption in his government and brings several leftists parties, including the Communists, into the Kuomintang regime.

The government at Nanking has been broadened, though without the Communist representation which Marshall insisted upon. Chiang has several times invited the Communists in, but they won't give up their separate government and their private army in the north until they can dictate national policy.

The presence of graft in China is a fact—an ancient fact, made worse by terrific inflation and the hardships of government officials on fixed salaries. It is by the way, ironic that the Americans who most loudly denounce Chinese graft seem unmoved by the political mass murder behind Europe's Iron Curtain.

The military situation of China today is bad and growing worse. Chiang's armies have been successful south of the Yantze but have lost a great deal of ground in Manchuria, the richest part of China. How far Russia has been aiding the Chinese Communists, in addition to turning over to them vast stores of arms captured from the Japanese, is not known. But it is a safe guess that a Communist Manchuria would soon become a Soviet puppet like Outer Mongolia.

What can the United States do about it? According to William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to Russia, who has just completed a field study for Life Magazine, we can save China from Communism and runaway inflation by spending $1,350,000,000 over the next three years. That may be too modest an estimate. But the administration does not seem to be considering any relief program for embattled China.

Perhaps Congress will show itself more interested in saving the most populous country on earth, and a traditional friend of the United States, from being handed over to Stalin by default.

Arthur F. Smith

The death of Arthur Francis Smith, at his home in Lonaconing Monday night, while not unexpected, for he had been in failing health for several years, brings grief to a wide circle of friends.

During the greater part of his life Mr. Smith was in the service of the educational system of Allegany county, having taught school for half a century, 44 years of which were at Central High School, Lonaconing. He had a high conception of duty and was devoted to his tasks as an educator.

Mr. Smith introduced many innovations into the school and classrooms over which he presided. One of his greatest interests was the school paper, "Orange and Black," which was established by him, and which ranked among the best of such publications in competitions conducted yearly on a national scale. He also gave his wholehearted support to athletics and took a personal interest in teams, especially those of basketball, which brought honor and glory to his school year after year.

During his years as teacher and principal, Mr. Smith never permitted himself to lose sight of students after graduations, but watched with the interest of a parent the progress they made in their own behalf, and could recall at an instant what success had been attained by this one and that one in his or her chosen career.

Memory of him will live long and vividly in the minds of the thousands of students he was privileged to aid in educating during his half century as a teacher and principal, as well as in the thoughts of his business associates.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE MONGOLOID CHILD

"YOUR BABY is not normal," said the physician to the new father, "and we will have to break the news gently to your wife." To tell this to a parent is one of the most difficult things that a doctor has to do. Fortunately, it is rarely necessary, because the vast majority of infants are healthy in all respects.

There are various abnormalities, but to give birth to a Mongolian idiot is probably the most tragic of all. Such youngsters are not only unusual in appearance but retarded mentally and physically. The anomaly is surrounded by mystery because science has never been able to find the cause, nor is a suitable treatment available. Many succumb shortly after birth. The remainder live a variable length of time but rarely reach their 20th birthday.

Unless this misfortune is handled correctly, the entire family may suffer. The parents often blame themselves needlessly, because the affliction is rarely hereditary and does not imply that mental deficiency has been passed on. In many instances they have other children who are perfectly normal, and look ahead five or 10 years when such youngsters will bring friends into the home to be confronted with the helpless brother or sister. All this goes thru their minds and adds additional tragedy to the untoward outcome of the pregnancy.

Considerable research has been done in an attempt to discover why babies of this type come into being. Many authorities believe that, prior to conception, a temporary abnormality existed in the membranes covering the inside of the uterus. Defects in this tissue may occur because it is exhausted thru previous pregnancies, illness, alcoholism, or undernourishment. Now and then the mother had a miscarriage just previous to this pregnancy. A better possibility is that the ovum was defective from the start and mongolism resulted merely as a whim of nature.

The modern physician solves the problem of the future of these children by recommending a humane and sensible procedure. Since the baby is under par and has a life expectancy that is short and vegetative in nature, institutional care is advised. Some go further and suggest that the father and mother do not see their offspring in order to avoid arousing the natural paternal and maternal instincts. Those who advocate this plan feel that the bitter pill will be forgotten sooner in this way and the parents can return to normal living and rear their other children as tho nothing had happened.

This practice is widespread and many states have institutions with trained personnel to care for such youngsters. Here the tots are reared under ideal supervision. If they can be admitted immediately everything goes along fine, but when there is a waiting list a private institution may be utilized until space in a state home is available. Insult is added to injury when the community cannot provide proper facilities or where private places are too expensive.

Many studies are being carried on in an effort to treat the Mongolian idiot. It is believed that a defective glandular system is responsible and various extracts are being administered, particularly pituitary preparations. The ideal product has not yet been devised, but it is possible that the future molds more promise.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Yes sir, in Summerville, Massachusetts, they've just set up a training college for dogs. It's sort of a Notre Dame for Irish terriers.

Of course this is only for older dogs. The young ones have to go to a puppy garden.

I can see them now on their lunch hour in the cafeteria opening their lunch pails and taking their bones out of the wax paper.

In class I'm sure the dogs don't cheat on the examination. I just can't see a dog entering the classroom with a "pony."

The professor asked one dog why he was attending the college. He answered, "I want to be a fine husband for lassie."

After they got through teaching the dogs all kinds of tricks . . . heeling, jumping obstacles, etc. . . . one poodle in the back kept waving his paw up and down, but the professor wasn't familiar with the trick.

It was no trick. He just wanted to leave the room.

They even have fraternities for the dogs. Of course only the higher class canines can get in. In fact last week they threw out a German shepherd for bringing in a flea.

One little co-ed, a Mexican chihuahua, had her eye on a handsome collie. He knew she loved him. Every morning she'd greet him in class with a boxful of her own homemade dog biscuit.

Food Czar Luckman Wins Battle With United States Senators; GOPers Protest Poultry Saving; General MacArthur Bows To General Eisenhower

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — Poor food Czar Charley Luckman gets it going and coming. First he is roasted by the liquor distillers, the hotel and restaurant men; and now he gets it in the neck from senators. Eight of them—all Republicans—sat down to lunch with him last week and, led by Oregon's Wayne Morse and Minnesota's Ed Thye, raised cain about poultryless Thursdays.

Before the stormy, closed-door session was over, however, tough-hided Luckman won the indorsement of all eight Senators without agreeing to any basic changes in his "waste less—eat less" program.

Senator Morse, former dean of the Oregon University Law School, but also something of an expert on chickens, did most of the talking. "You obviously were unaware of some economic facts when you asked the American public to do without eggs and poultry one day a week," he said. "I'm for feeding Europe and I am sure all my Republican colleagues want to see you attain your objectives, but not at the expense of upsetting our agricultural economy.

"It seems to me that this is a very poor time to ask people to abstain from poultry when cold-storage plants are bulging with it. We have 225,000,000 pounds of turkey, chicken and other poultry in cold storage and an additional 600,000,000 pounds of turkey will move into the market for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's business in the next 90 days, plus another 100,000,000 pounds of other poultry."

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who was present, confirmed the fact that this vast amount of poultry was on hand.

"Why don't you send some of this to Europe?" asked Morse.

"Well, I guess the answer is pretty obvious," replied Luckman. "Europe wants grain, because it is cheaper and has a higher calory content. Also, it might seem incongruous to feed chicken and turkey to starving people."

"Let's not kid ourselves about that," broke in Senator Thye, himself a Minnesota farmer. "I'm not trying to belittle our humanitarian efforts, but I think everyone agrees that whatever relief we send Europe will be a gift, which is perfectly all right if you have to keep people from starving.

"But if we are going to write off repayment, let's send what we can best afford, without too much sacrifice to our farm program. A lot of small poultry farmers, including many war veterans in Minnesota and other states, are going to be hurt if you continue these poultryless Thursdays.

"Your program is unfair," continued Thye. "It should have been spread more evenly over our whole economy so that one segment of the population would not be asked to make too great a sacrifice."

Senators Owen Brewster of Maine and Homer Ferguson of Michigan remarked that they would have to answer similar protests from poultry farmers in their states. How, they inquired, would Luckman answer such protests?

"The American people have met emergencies like this before and they will do it again," replied Luckman. "We're not trying to discriminate against any one class; we are asking all the people to contribute to the best of their ability. This involves sacrifice."

At one point, Luckman, who is head of Lever Brothers, giant soap company, confessed: "Let me take off my whiskers for a moment and tell you, as a businessman, I sympathize with you."

He went on to explain, however, that his program is aimed to trim the fat off young, wheat-fed fryers. He believes the public can do without super-tender drumsticks for a while and let this grain be diverted to Europe.

"There's some logic in what you say," conceded Senator Morse, "and you have an even stronger emotional argument on your side. But you can't solve this problem by emotion. The State Department has got to get it out of its head that we should concentrate on shipping one commodity—grain."

The Oregon senator contended that we should ship more dried fruits, such as prunes and apricots, now surplus on the west coast. He also reminded Luckman that large quantities of peas, beans and fruits had rotted this year because canners, fearing a glutted market, had refused to buy them.

"Why didn't the government buy up this stuff and start canning it for European relief during the summer, instead of letting it go to waste?" asked Morse. "Our government food planners must have been asleep at the switch, for everyone knew that this crisis in Europe was coming."

Luckman responded that he wasn't responsible for what happened last summer, since the food program had only just been dumped in his lap.

"I'm doing the best I can with the materials I have," he said. "I've been told to save food for Europe and that means, primarily, saving grain. I am sure the farmers of the country realize this and want to help us."

When Maine's Senator Brewster picked up the check at he end of lunch, it was evident the Republican senators had lived up to the topic of their conversation. Their menu—bean soup, apple sauce, crackers and coffee—came to $4.08 for 12 people, or 34 cents per person.

Note—One reason for the misunderstanding between Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and President Truman was that the President had made his plea for poultryless Thursdays without consulting the Agriculture Department. On the same MERRY GO ROUND—2 . . . . . day Truman went on the air, the Agriculture Department had prepared to launch exactly the opposite program—namely, encourage people to eat more poultry so farmers would send more chickens to market, thus reducing the grain fed on poultry farms.

Even after the President announced his poultryless Thursdays, the Agriculture Department still liked its program better and quietly went ahead with it. Result: there should be more poultry on the market all week, except Thursdays.

MacArthur and Eisenhower

Even in far distant Japan, General MacArthur called the turn on the Eisenhower boom 18 months ago. Sen. Owen Brewster, who was globe-trotting in the Far East at the time, delivered a personal message to the General from President Truman.

"Tell MacArthur," Truman jokingly told Brewster, "that he can have my job any time he wants it."

"Thank the President for me," MacArthur shot back, "and tell him that if any general ever takes his job, it will be Eisenhower."

Mr. Vishinsky Should Stop Calling Americans Greedy

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

How much help has Uncle Sam given to foreign countries? Since the beginning of the war, it has amounted, net, to $58,206,741,335. But as no one knows what a billion dollars is, much less 58 billion, let's measure this by yardsticks we know something about.

At $8,000 per house, this gigantic sum would build over 7,000,000 homes.

It is three billion dollars more than the total purchases in all our retail stores in the year we entered the war.

It is ten billion dollars more than the total assets of all our life insurance companies—the backlog of security for 65,000,000 insurance policy holders.

It is six billion dollars more than the net worth of all our business companies. These assets are the backlog for jobs for nearly all of us—manufacturing, mining, railroading, merchandising, shipping, etc.

It is 23 times as much as we spend on the education of all children in our public schools.

It is almost three times as much as all our farmers and cattlemen received for their cattle, crops, poultry, etc., in our biggest farm income year.

It is five times the value of all farm buildings, houses, and barns, in the United States. Hence, if all our farm buildings were completely destroyed by five successive fires, it would rebuild them five times.

It is 2½ times the value of all our farm lands.

It is $15,000,000,000 more than the total national income of all our people in 1933.

It is 29 times as much as all our old and sick people received in social security payments the year we entered the war.

It is 10 billion dollars more than the total wages and salaries paid in America the year the war broke out in Europe.

It is 14 times the amount of all business profits that same year.

It is 11 times the value of all United States exports to foreign countries in 1929, the peak export year before the war.

It is $6,000,000,000 more than the total spent to run the Federal government during the first seven years of Mr. Roosevelt's Administration.

Consider these facts Mr. Vishinke, Deputy Foreign Secretary of the Soviets, and then tell us that we entered this war to make money!

Of this huge total, how much went to Russia in lend-lease, direct loans, and UNRRA relief? The answer is $11,681,393,782. How much is that by some yardstick we can understand? Well, it is almost 11 times the value of our cotton crop in 1945; 10 times the value of our wheat crop; almost eight times the value of all hard and soft coal dug in 1945; and six times the value of all gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, zinc, and other metals mined that year.

Mr. Vishinsky, you can tell your people, behind your iron curtain of censorship, that we went into this war to make money, but you can't make our taxpayers believe your story. They still have to pay all those 11 billions of American aid to your country. It is part of their debt.

And, besides, don't you forget this. We depleted our coal, petroleum, iron and timber reserves in this process. In the wheat we sent aboard were millions of tons of our fertile soil. We sent your country $11,297, 883,000 of the real worth of the United States.

In reverse lend-lease, you gave us back $2,219,000! Or $1 for every $5,310 we sent you. While we were doing this, your country has seized 274,000 square miles of other people's lands—eight times the size of Indiana — with 24,355,000 people! Stop calling us greedy!

Union Talk On Labor Law Not Centered On Main Provisions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. — Although nearly four months have passed since the enactment of the Taft-Hartley law, it is a surprising thing that such public discussion as the labor unions have initiated with reference to revision has not centered on the main provisions at all.

Exaggerated emphasis has been placed instead on two points in the new law which are really not related basically to the regulation of labor-management relations.

One concerns the signing of anti-communist affidavits and the other relates to expenditures during political campaigns by labor unions.

The matter of the anti-communist affidavits would have received far less attention if NLRB General Counsel Robert Denham had chosen to interpret differently the language of the law. But my announcing his first ruling, he had an opportunity to get the National Labor Relations Board to share with him the responsibility for making clear what the law said.

The statute says that the affidavits must be signed by "the officers of any national or international labor organization" which files a petition to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board. But the words "labor organization are not defined. By a strict interpretation, it could mean not only the AFL and CIO but also the World Federation of Trade Unions. Actually these organizations are confederations of unions and do not themselves engage directly in collective bargaining with employers. There is no more reason to call the AFL or CIO an employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining than to call the United States Chamber of Commerce or the National Association of Manufacturers an employer.

Covers Printers' Union

The new ruling—which makes it unnecessary for the AFL or CIO officers to sign affidavits — does, however, indicate clearly that an organization like the International Typographical Union which directs the activities of local unions is a labor organization as defined in the law.

It is interesting to note that the ITU ridiculed the petition filed by the American Newspaper Publishers Association with the labor board charging unfair labor practices against the ITU on the ground that the ANPA was not an employer and did not directly bargain with employees. This is a correct statement but what the ITU overlooked is that, in the section of the law pertaining to the filing of charges on unfair labor practices, there is a specific proviso which says:

"In the discretion of the member, agent, or agency conducting the hearing or the board, any other person may be allowed to intervene in the said proceeding and to present testimony."

This is not at all novel. Complaints of "unfair competition" may be filed before the Federal Trade Commission by any person. Indeed, if the complaint is formally taken up, the prosecution is conducted thereafter by the commission and not by any of the parties to the dispute. Some such procedure may be possible under the Taft-Hartley Act, so that the labor board, having once had facts concerning an "unfair labor practice" drawn to its attention, may proceed on its own thereafter irrespective of the attitude of the parties to the dispute This procedure is necessary to prevent undue influence being exerted to prevent one of the litigants from pursuing the charges.

Problem Not Disposed Of

The anti-communist affidavit problem has not been disposed of for the AFL because, with respect to certain unions, it acts as the parent labor organization with direct authority to carry on collective bargaining. Unless these unions are given autonomy like others in the AFL, this organization will have to qualify by signing the affidavits before the facilities of the board can be used. The AFL recognizes that obstacle, and that's why it has been planning to eliminate its vice presidents so as to avoid a rumps with John L. Lawis, who, as a vice president, could keep the AFL from qualifying merely by refusing to sign the affidavit himself. The exercise of such a veto power has little or nothing to do with the actual operations of the Taft-Hartley law, because almost all unions engaging in collective bargaining will qualify by signing the affidavits.

The first test of the law may come when the typographical unions face charges of unfair labor practice for refusal to bargain. But there are few labor lawyers who think the ITU can win on such litigation, because the Supreme Court has upheld in no uncertain terms the power of Congress to regulate labor-management relations and particularly the right to punish a refusal to bargain.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Calories and Conscience

THE ESSENTIAL task of the Luckman Committee is to conduct a propaganda for voluntary reduction of food consumption by Americans so that more can be shipped abroad. Last year, this country exported 18,000,000 tons of food. American crops this year do not warrant shipments of that size. The Luckman plan is to stretch our crop so that exports abroad would be ample.

When such phrases as "Waste less" are used, they approach the insult, for at current prices, few homes can afford to waste anything knowingly.

In fact, except for hotels and restaurants which must include a margin of waste, the American garbage can contains little that can actually be saved. Nevertheless, it is true that few human beings require 3,500 calories a day. Most of us would be healthier on 2,500 calories; some could diet to their advantage on 1,000 calories a day. The Luckman Committee might even succeed in reducing the number of diabetics in this country by restoring the cult of skinniness which was once so popular—before it became stylish again to show curves.

But obesity is not a product of meat, chicken and eggs; just as Mr. Luckman's soap is not made of protein. Obesity usually comes from eating starches, fats, sugar, candy, ice-cream, pastries, pies and drinking beer, sweetened waters and all that sort of thing. I looked at the diet lists given me, from time to time, to keep my weight from reaching gargantuan proportions and actually it says to eat more meat and chicken and less of all the things that are not included in the voluntary "Eat-less."

The theory that grain is saved for Europe by not eating eggs in America requires scientific and statistical substantiation. It sounds like huckster's dope. It is a reversion to scare advertising.

On the other hand, I go into a restaurant and they flash Dutch and Czechoslovakian beer, which is a cereal product. The Dutch beer, I never particularly cared for—that is a matter of taste—but in the days when I used to enjoy a glass of beer—before my calories were reduced—I liked the Pilsener brew. It is good beer, but we have some in this country that is equally good. As I am not permitted to drink beer on account of its propensity to double the chin and other parts, it all makes little difference.

However, how can any one, in conscience, justify shipping beer from Czechoslovakia to the United States and then ask Americans to eat less so that grain may be shipped to Czechoslovakia to be used to make beer?

Such shipments cannot be sustained by logic or conscience. Until I see that no grain products are imported from Europe to be sold in the American market, I shall pay not the slightest attention to Mr. Luckman's propaganda.

When American distillers are asked to take a vacation from production and grain is exported to produce Scotch whisky, it means literally that American production, labor and capital investment are being subordinated to Great Britain's need for dollars; that is, American production is reduced to increase the market for British goods.

I think that as long as that goes on, I shall reject my doctor's advice on calories and I shall follow my conscience, which tells me to consume all the carbohydrates I can.

My heart bleeds for the starving anywhere, but my instincts resent the kind of trickery involved in the beer and whisky racket. So far as Pilsener is concerned, I do not see why we should directly or indirectly contribute anything to Czechoslovakia. That country chose to join Soviet Russia against the United States; let them get grain from Russia and sell their brew to Stalin. They made the choice; let them swallow it.

I refuse to buy anything from Behind the Iron Curtain—caviar or Pilsener Beer. As for dieting—when the United States distributes its charities directly to hungry people, I am willing to go on 800 calories a day—but not on any other plan.

Packages

There is a fascination to packages—especially to those that come through the mail—unexpectedly. A book, a small remembrance from somewhere, a box of flowers. The contents so often spell out the thoughtfulness and richness of heart of the one who has sent the package.

Not long ago a package came in for me, and awaited my return from my island summer retreat. Imagine my surprise when I opened it, to find two big bottles of maple syrup, sent by a dear friend, who knew of my love for this particular delicacy from nature's realm. Then a little later another package came—this time a box of fruit from the south-land—some delicious mangoes! And a few days later came a beloved book from England that a kind friend had discovered for me. What a string of package thrills! Each one inspired by thoughtfulness.

Packages always intrigue. I like to see people carrying them, for I know that they contain something that contributes to happiness. Or, perhaps they have been created to make someone else happy, and surprised. Nothing is so inspiring as to see the great armfuls of packages at Christmas time.

When, in college, one summer I wrapped packages to help pay my way, and thought it was a hot job—being in the central state of Kansas—I deeply enjoyed the work, for I kept thinking what a thrill each recipient would get upon delivery of each package. I like to see clerks in a store take pains in wrapping, attractively, each item. No matter what the contents, a package should show a well-dressed front! A good deal of the love is on the outside—a fact that many fail to discover.

I have an idea that the mail man delivers a package with just a little more feeling of pride and dignity than a mere small piece of mail. That package is so rich in expectation!

You cannot correctly appraise a package by its size, however. A tiny one might contain a diamond or some other precious stone to thrill the eye and heart. The same happy element however hides away in every package delivered, whether small or large. You cannot adequately appraise love! There has never been a set price given to it.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

This morning my milkman told me a story about a big Swede. He says the boys almost fell off their wagons when they first heard it.

Ole Svendsen walked into the office of a dairy company in Minneapolis. He was darn near seven foot tall and even his muscles had muscles.

Billy Rose

The manager blinked and then decided to believe his eyes. "Stand still, he said. "You're rocking the floor. What can I do for you?"

"Maybe you got yob for Ole?" the giant rumbled.

"What have you been doing?" asked the manager.

"Lumberyack," said Ole.

"Chop down trees, hey?"

"Little lumberyacks chop trees halfway. I push over."

"Why aren't you still pushing?" the manager wanted to know.

"Lumberyak union says Ole must get two cards. Pay double dues."

"We've got a milk route open," said the manager, "but we haven't got a horse for the wagon. The animal died a few days back."

"Good," grinned the giant. "I pull wagon."

At daybreak, Ole walked into the yard, loaded his wagon, stepped between the shafts, and trotted down the street. At four in the afternoon, he cantered back with the empty wagon. The manager was in the yard to meet him.

"How'd it go?" he asked Ole.

"Go fine," boomed the giant. "Lots people come out of houses to watch Ile. Get four new customers. Nice yob."

Next morning Ole was off again, his wagon piled high with milk. The manager called his wife and told her about the giant.

"What time does he get back?" asked his frau. "This fellow I've got to see."

"Tend to your knitting," snapped the manager.

Half the concern's employees were in the yard waiting for Ole when he returned that afternoon. The big fellow backed his wagon into the shed and flicked a spot of foam from his corduroy trousers. "Nice yob," he beamed. "Come back for two loads today. Get eight new customers. Rich lady even buy butter."

The story of the big boy wildfired through Minneapolis.

When Ole was due back the following afternoon, the yard was jampacked. The crowd included reporters, autograph hunters, and a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce. News cameras were set up on the roof of the shed. Slinking around the edge of the crowd were scouts from the rival milk companies in St. Paul.

Four o'clock came, but no Ole. At four-thirty, the manager got jumpy. At five o'clock, he conferred with the head of the firm. "The future of our company is at stake," said the executive. "If the giant lets us down, we'll be the laughing stock of the Dairy League."

Just then Ole rounded the corner. He was limping and bleeding. His wagon was no where in sight.

"Holy cow" exclaimed the manager. "What happened?"

"All day everything go fine," said Ole. "Come back for three loads. Get fourteen new customers. Three-thirty, start back for shed. Plenty pep. Coming past yunk yard, wind blows little piece paper under my nose. I get scared and run away. Milk wagon hits telephone pole. I quit."

Completes Baby Time Hostess Course

Mrs. Ann M. Bennet has returned to her home in LaVale from New York City, where she completed a two weeks' training course preparing her to represent the Welcome Wagon Service Company, Inc. as a "Baby Time Hostess" in LaVale. As the babytime hostess, Mrs. Bennet will call on the new babies and present a basket of gifts. Although she has been here only since August 10, Mrs. Bennet has for some time been active in PTA, Red Cross and Community fund work.

The Welcome Wagon Service is based on an early American custom. As the creaking wagons of the pioneers lumbered toward the frontier, homesteaders from the scattered settlements along the way set out in "welcome wagons" to meet the weary travelers and extend greetings to the newcomers, in the hope they would stay and help build a new community. Mrs. Harry Jamison is the official hostess of the Welcome Wagon here with Mrs. Vernon Wade as her assistant. They visit newcomers, brides and make house warming visits taking presents and letters of welcome from the Mayor, civic clubs and schools.

The Newcomers Club of the Welcome Wagon has socials each month.

Completes Baby Time Hostess Course

Mrs. Ann M. Bennet has returned to her home in LaVale from New York City, where she completed a two weeks' training course preparing her to represent the Welcome Wagon Service Company, Inc. as a "Baby Time Hostess" in LaVale. As the babytime hostess, Mrs. Bennet will call on the new babies and present a basket of gifts. Although she has been here only since August 10, Mrs. Bennet has for some time been active in PTA, Red Cross and Community fund work.

The Welcome Wagon Service is based on an early American custom. As the creaking wagons of the pioneers lumbered toward the frontier, homesteaders from the scattered settlements along the way set out in "welcome wagons" to meet the weary travelers and extend greetings to the newcomers, in the hope they would stay and help build a new community. Mrs. Harry Jamison is the official hostess of the Welcome Wagon here with Mrs. Vernon Wade as her assistant. They visit newcomers, brides and make house warming visits taking presents and letters of welcome from the Mayor, civic clubs and schools.

The Newcomers Club of the Welcome Wagon has socials each month.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Young People Must Learn To Look Ahead, Miss Fairfax Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

If there were only some way by which young people could be made to understand that the present moment is far from the whole of life, they would save themselves a great deal of needless tragedy.

Fortunately, some young people seem to realize this by themselves, and accordingly proceed cautiously through their youth. But there are all too many others who can see no further than the temptation to take what they want at the moment, and, in so doing, make mistakes whose aftermath can shadow their whole lives.

A girl who is beginning to realize something of this writes to me as follows:

"I am going rather steady with a boy who respects me a great deal. Recently he told me he loved me, and I honestly don't feel worthy of him.

"I am 19 now, and when I was 17 I thought I loved a sailor and was intimate with him. Is it the time to tell this boy about this? I am not quite sure what his reaction would be, but I am so afraid to tell him, because he has put me on a pedestal. What shall I do?"

I know that many people will not agree with me, but I believe that, in most cases, it is wiser for a girl to let the man she thinks of marrying know about a thing of this kind in advance of their marriage. Naturally, I don't mean that she should just go ahead and blurt it out on the spur of some impulsive moment. She should, of course, find an appropriate opportunity for such a highly personal disclosure.

The fact that the conventions are different in the case of the man who may have engaged in such affairs before his marriage, has nothing to do with the point. Undoubtedly it is unfair that this should be so, but to protest the unfairness is not to change it, nor to change the results of what might happen if a girl left to chance the possibility of her husband finding out a thing of this kind after their marriage.

For whether we like it or not, the fact remains that society still condemns a girl for what is tolerated in a man, and most men, however "modern" they pride themselves on being, side with society when it comes to their own personal life. Theoretically, they may consider that a girl has the same right as they reserve to themselves to live as she pleases while she is still single. In practice, the average man wants to be the first to be intimate with the girl he makes his wife.

If he discovers, after they have been married, that he is not the first, there is something about human nature that is apt to make him forever just a little apprehensive that she may not always be faithful to him, and the smallest grain of mistrust keeps any marriage from complete happiness. Even if the girl tells the man that she has had an affair before she marries him, he may still never wholly trust her, even though he assures her that it makes no difference. And that is the risk a girl is running when she lets herself be swept into a pre-marital affair.

Happily, there are men with character enough to understand how a thing of that sort can happen, and perhaps the one about which the correspondent quoted above writes me is that type. The best I can do for her is to tell her she had better find out before she marries him.

CUMBERLAND FROSTBURG

"Speaking Frankly"

overwhelming majority of the people o. the United States."

The high points of "Speaking Frankly" are many. Among them are these:

At the time of FDR's death, Mr. Roosevelt had just been "deeply offended" by Stalin. The Russian leader accused the United States of entering into a "deal" with the German Kesselring.

Stalin said his Red army advisers had informed him that Kesselring was going to open up the German front to permit the American Army to advance. In return for this agreement, said the Red chief, the United States and Britain had agreed to secure easier peace terms for Germany.

"Vile Misrepresentations"

Byrnes quotes Mr. Roosevelt as replying that he deeply resented the "vile misrepresentations of Stalin's informers which reflected upon the President of the United States and his trusted subordinates."

The ex-secretary of State disposes of the legend that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union began to deteriorate only after Mr. Roosevelt's death.

As an intriguing sidelight, Byrnes reports that Stalin told him at Potsdam that he "believed that Hitler was alive and that it was possible he was then either in Spain or Argentina."

Byrnes discloses that not until some time after he had become Secretary of State did he learn of the top secret Yalta agreement providing that in return for Soviet participation in the war against Japan, the Kurile Islands would be handed over to Russia.

He said that during the Moscow conference of 1945 his plan for a 25-year treaty among the Big Four to block a resurgence of German militarism was called by Stalin "the best proposal he had yet heard." Byrnes quotes Stalin as saying:

"If you decide to fight for such a treaty you can rely on my support." Byrnes adds:

"I have been forced to the conclusion that following Stalin's promise, on December 24, 1945, to support the treaty, the Soviet high command or Politburo concluded they did not want the United States involved in the maintenance of European security for the next 25 or 40 years . . . .

"I feel satisfied that it is Mr. Molotov who is responsible for the Soviet position. Fram the very first, his indifference was in contrast to Stalin's enthusiasm."

Soup For Germans

Byrnes reveals that Mr. Roosevelt, during an angry moment, said that "the German people should be taught their responsibility for the war and for a long time should have only soup for breakfast, soup for lunch, and soup for dinner."

But he adds that later the President admitted that he did not know how he had approved the Morgenthau plan to convert Germany into a country "primarily agricultural and pastoral in its character." The author quotes Mr. Roosevelt as saying it must have been done without much thought.

Advocating an early peace with Germany, Byrnes declares:

"In view of our experience we must face the possibility that the Soviet Union may refuse to join its war partners in a peace conference. This would indeed be disheartening to the peace-loving people of the world and every sober-minded person must hope that this will not occur. The possibility need not, however, stop us from initiating the course I suggest."

Byrnes considers the possible necessity of United Nations action to require the Soviet Union to withdraw from Germany. He comments:

"I hope, believe, and I pray that the leaders of the Soviet Union will never force us to this course of last resort. But they must learn what Hitler learned—that the world is not going to permit one nation to veto peace on earth."

Asia Bears Watching

Byrnes warns that the nations must ever be watchful of Asia. He says:

"If we regard Europe as the tinderbox of possible world conflagration, we must look upon Asia as a great smouldering fire. There, civilization faces the task of bringing a huge mass of humanity, the majority of the people on this earth, from the Middle Ages into an era of atomic energy."

He states his belief that had the Japanese government heeded the reports of its Moscow ambassador, Sato—"a realist and a courageous representative"—the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki would have been unnecesary. Byrnes discloses that more than a month before the first atomic bomb was dropped, Sato informed his government "Japan has no choice but to accept unconditional surrender."

Byrnes belittles Russia's contribution to the war against Japan. He observes:

"I must frankly admit that in view of what we knew of Soviet actions in Eastern Germany, and the violations of the Yalta agreement in Poland, Rumania and Bulgaria, I would have been satisfied had the Russians determined not to enter the war."

Urges Early Japanese Treaty

In the Far East, Byrnes calls upon the United States to fulfill its promise, of the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Korea, and declares that conclusion of an early peace treaty with Japan is essential. He adds:

"We should propose a 40-year treaty to insure the demilitarization of Japan, similar to the treaty we proposed for Germany. In this case, however, any violation of the treaty should be reported to the ambassadors or ministers of the states that drafted the treaty, who would constitute a commission of enforcement."

Byrnes declares emphatically that the United States should preserve its atomic superiority." He says:

"It would be unfortunate if hostile governments possessed atomic bombs. But, it would be even more unfortunate if we threw our bombs away, gave our information to an international organization with inadequate power to exercise effective control, and thus enabled another government to manufacture bombs without our knowledge far sooner than otherwise would have been possible."

The former Cabinet member, in passing, attributes to Molotov a "major diplomatic blunder" which, he says, was responsible for Hitler's decision to attack Russia.

The "blunder," according to Byrnes, was Molotov's insistence, in a conversation with the Fuehrer on November 13, 1940, that German troops be withdrawn from Finland and the Russian's protest against Germany's "guarantee" of the Rumanian border.

Clears Red Generalissimo

Also in passing, Byrnes asserts that Stalin did not make the cynical remark attributed to him at Yalta when the Red Generalissimo was said to have stated, in reference to the Pope, "How many divisions does he have?" Byrnes notes:

"The Marshal did not make that statement at Yalta. But it was the yardstick he frequently used."

Serious as is its theme, the book is not without humor. One passage deals with Mrs. Byrnes' circumvention of a Red army guard who refused to allow her to enter her London hotel bedroom.

Another relates how Andrei Vishinsky, concluding an interview with the King of Rumania in which the Soviet spokesman demanded a Communistic - dominated government, "slammed the door so hard that the plaster around the door frame was cracked badly." Byrnes says the plaster has never been fixed.

"If my public service has taught me anything, it is that the teachings of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln can bring greater happiness and satisfaction to greater numbers of people than the teachings of Karl Marx and Nikolay Lenin."

He calls upon America to keep its own house in order, to learn from past mistakes, to prove "that our country is not one that booms and busts," and to persist " 'with firmness in the right as God gives us the power to see the right.' "

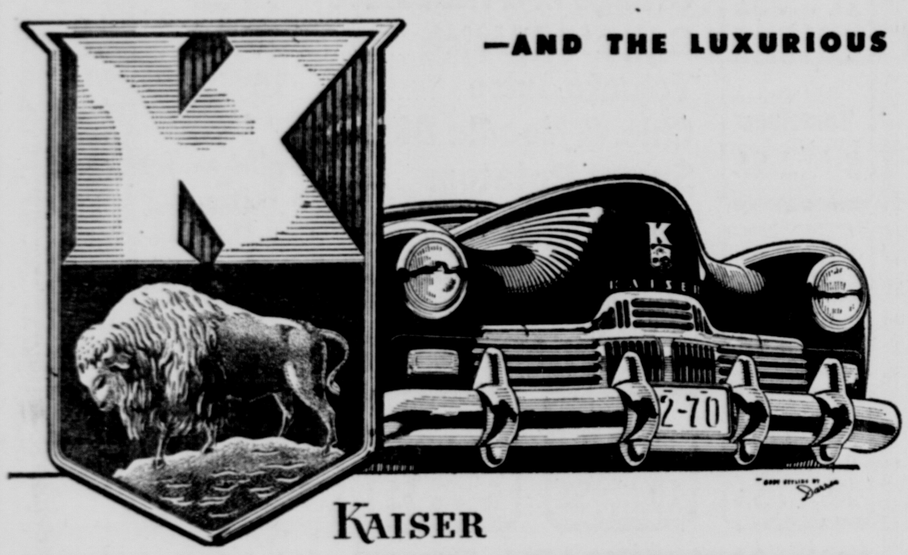
The KAISER and the FRAZER

—AND THE LUXURIOUS NEW FRAZER MANHATTAN



KAISER

The famous emblems pictured here identify two automobiles that are America's greatest postwar motor car values! You will see them everywhere because there are now more than 95,000 KAISER and FRAZER owners—and every month an additional 14,000 to 15,000 smart people who know values, snap up Willow Run's current production.

It is not surprising that Kaiser-Frazer has never yet been able to build enough KAISER and FRAZER cars to fill the demand. For the word has spread that these cars are priced "right"—that nowhere else can you find such postwar value! Take a look at what our owners say they are getting for their new car dollars! Some of their voluntary statements are in the lower left-hand corner of this ad. These quotations are typical of thousands just like them on file at the factory.

If you are interested in the best possible investment of your personal transportation money come and see these cars! Drive either one! Then you be the judge. You will say that you never enjoyed such a ride before—in any car at any price!

And—another nice thing—Willow Run is producing 3 cars every 2 minutes. We are getting our share and are delivering now!

"Speaking Frankly"

overwhelming majority of the people o. the United States."

The high points of "Speaking Frankly" are many. Among them are these:

At the time of FDR's death, Mr. Roosevelt had just been "deeply offended" by Stalin. The Russian leader accused the United States of entering into a "deal" with the German Kesselring.

Stalin said his Red army advisers had informed him that Kesselring was going to open up the German front to permit the American Army to advance. In return for this agreement, said the Red chief, the United States and Britain had agreed to secure easier peace terms for Germany.

"Vile Misrepresentations"

Byrnes quotes Mr. Roosevelt as replying that he deeply resented the "vile misrepresentations of Stalin's informers which reflected upon the President of the United States and his trusted subordinates."

The ex-secretary of State disposes of the legend that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union began to deteriorate only after Mr. Roosevelt's death.

As an intriguing sidelight, Byrnes reports that Stalin told him at Potsdam that he "believed that Hitler was alive and that it was possible he was then either in Spain or Argentina."

Byrnes discloses that not until some time after he had become Secretary of State did he learn of the top secret Yalta agreement providing that in return for Soviet participation in the war against Japan, the Kurile Islands would be handed over to Russia.

He said that during the Moscow conference of 1945 his plan for a 25-year treaty among the Big Four to block a resurgence of German militarism was called by Stalin "the best proposal he had yet heard." Byrnes quotes Stalin as saying:

"If you decide to fight for such a treaty you can rely on my support." Byrnes adds:

"I have been forced to the conclusion that following Stalin's promise, on December 24, 1945, to support the treaty, the Soviet high command or Politburo concluded they did not want the United States involved in the maintenance of European security for the next 25 or 40 years . . . .

"I feel satisfied that it is Mr. Molotov who is responsible for the Soviet position. Fram the very first, his indifference was in contrast to Stalin's enthusiasm."

Soup For Germans

Byrnes reveals that Mr. Roosevelt, during an angry moment, said that "the German people should be taught their responsibility for the war and for a long time should have only soup for breakfast, soup for lunch, and soup for dinner."

But he adds that later the President admitted that he did not know how he had approved the Morgenthau plan to convert Germany into a country "primarily agricultural and pastoral in its character." The author quotes Mr. Roosevelt as saying it must have been done without much thought.

Advocating an early peace with Germany, Byrnes declares:

"In view of our experience we must face the possibility that the Soviet Union may refuse to join its war partners in a peace conference. This would indeed be disheartening to the peace-loving people of the world and every sober-minded person must hope that this will not occur. The possibility need not, however, stop us from initiating the course I suggest."

Byrnes considers the possible necessity of United Nations action to require the Soviet Union to withdraw from Germany. He comments:

"I hope, believe, and I pray that the leaders of the Soviet Union will never force us to this course of last resort. But they must learn what Hitler learned—that the world is not going to permit one nation to veto peace on earth."

Asia Bears Watching

Byrnes warns that the nations must ever be watchful of Asia. He says:

"If we regard Europe as the tinderbox of possible world conflagration, we must look upon Asia as a great smouldering fire. There, civilization faces the task of bringing a huge mass of humanity, the majority of the people on this earth, from the Middle Ages into an era of atomic energy."

He states his belief that had the Japanese government heeded the reports of its Moscow ambassador, Sato—"a realist and a courageous representative"—the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki would have been unnecesary. Byrnes discloses that more than a month before the first atomic bomb was dropped, Sato informed his government "Japan has no choice but to accept unconditional surrender."

Byrnes belittles Russia's contribution to the war against Japan. He observes:

"I must frankly admit that in view of what we knew of Soviet actions in Eastern Germany, and the violations of the Yalta agreement in Poland, Rumania and Bulgaria, I would have been satisfied had the Russians determined not to enter the war."

Urges Early Japanese Treaty

In the Far East, Byrnes calls upon the United States to fulfill its promise, of the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Korea, and declares that conclusion of an early peace treaty with Japan is essential. He adds:

"We should propose a 40-year treaty to insure the demilitarization of Japan, similar to the treaty we proposed for Germany. In this case, however, any violation of the treaty should be reported to the ambassadors or ministers of the states that drafted the treaty, who would constitute a commission of enforcement."

Byrnes declares emphatically that the United States should preserve its atomic superiority." He says:

"It would be unfortunate if hostile governments possessed atomic bombs. But, it would be even more unfortunate if we threw our bombs away, gave our information to an international organization with inadequate power to exercise effective control, and thus enabled another government to manufacture bombs without our knowledge far sooner than otherwise would have been possible."

The former Cabinet member, in passing, attributes to Molotov a "major diplomatic blunder" which, he says, was responsible for Hitler's decision to attack Russia.

The "blunder," according to Byrnes, was Molotov's insistence, in a conversation with the Fuehrer on November 13, 1940, that German troops be withdrawn from Finland and the Russian's protest against Germany's "guarantee" of the Rumanian border.

Clears Red Generalissimo

Also in passing, Byrnes asserts that Stalin did not make the cynical remark attributed to him at Yalta when the Red Generalissimo was said to have stated, in reference to the Pope, "How many divisions does he have?" Byrnes notes:

"The Marshal did not make that statement at Yalta. But it was the yardstick he frequently used."

Serious as is its theme, the book is not without humor. One passage deals with Mrs. Byrnes' circumvention of a Red army guard who refused to allow her to enter her London hotel bedroom.

Another relates how Andrei Vishinsky, concluding an interview with the King of Rumania in which the Soviet spokesman demanded a Communistic-dominated government, "slammed the door so hard that the plaster around the door frame was cracked badly," Byrnes says the plaster has never been fixed.

"If my public service has taught me anything, it is that the teachings of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln can bring greater happiness and satisfaction to greater numbers of people than the teachings of Karl Marx and Nikolay Lenin."

He calls upon America to keep its own house in order, to learn from past mistakes, to prove "that our country is not one that booms and busts," and to persist " 'with firmness in the right as God gives us the power to see the right.' "

Guardsmen Will Take Exams For Military Schools

May Also Apply For Reserve Commissions

Examinations will be given tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the State Armory to all members of the National Guard who wish to apply for enrollment at Army schools including West Point Military Academy, and for those who wish to pursue correspondence courses leading to reserve commissions.

In view of these examinations, Capt. Robert Mattlick, unit commander of Company C, First Battalion, 115th Infantry said his company will not drill this week, but members are expected to report Thursday night for the recruiting drive parade.

The parade, in which 20 patriotic, veteran, musical and military organizations are entered, will mark the mid-way point of a two-months campaign to arouse interest in National Guard enlistments.

President Truman, as commander in chief of the Army, Navy and reserve components, has decreed that 17-year-olds may now enlist for National Guard training, and has urged an extensive campaign for enlistments.

Following the parade, a reception will be held for all units participating in the parade, and a ceremony will be staged with a number of veteran-guardsmen receiving Victory medals. After the ceremony a free public dance will be held with music by the Modernaires Orchestra.

REQUIREMENTS ON REENTERING SCHOOL OUTLINED FOR VETS

Veteran students and trainees who drop out of school or job-training before completing their course have been cautioned by the Veterans Administration that they will have to comply with more strict requirements to get a VA certificate permitting their re-entry in training under the GI bill.

W. A. Burns, officer in charge, of the Cumberland VA office, explained that veterans must have a supplemental certificate of eligibility when they change from one school or training establishment to another.

Effective immediately, Burns said, a veteran, who of his own volition interrupts his training at a time other than at the end of a term, semester or training period, will not be issued such a certificate until he establishes satisfactory evidence:

1—That his interruption resulted from good cause, that is, illness, economic conditions, or other circumstances beyond his control.

2—That the institution or establishment in which he was in training is willing to re-accept him as a student or trainee.

Freight Demurrage Rates Are Boosted

Increased demurrage rates on all types of freight cars except tank and certain types of container cars are provided in Service Order 775 issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective Wednesday, according to information received by the Tri-State Traffic Club.

New rates will be $3 a day for the first two days after expiration of the normal 48 hours free time, $5 for the third day of detention, $11 for the fourth day and $16.50 for the fifth and each succeeding day.

It is hoped the order will speed release of much-needed equipment, thus augmenting the nation's car supply.

Lumber Stocks Piling Up In '47

Lumber stocks in the nation's mills are nearly two billion board feet higher than a year ago, the Commerce Departmenut said yesterday.

It also reported that lumber production in the first seven months of 1947 were up sharply and that August prices were at an all-time high.

Gross stocks at the mills totaled 5,600,000,000 board feet at the end of July. Retail stocks totaled four billion board feet, an increase of more than two billion over a year ago.

The Commerce report said that the tendency in the first seven months was for production to exceed shipments and new orders. However, in July new orders increased 157 million board feet over the previous month and shipments were up 41 million.

As to the gains in lumber supplies, the report said:

"This gain apparently has resulted both from increased production and imports and from decreased consumption. Presumably, the consumption decrease is attributable to deferment of demand in resistance to prevailing price levels."

Production in the first seven months was estimated at 18,400,000,000 board feet. This was 1½ billion board feet above the output of the first seven months in 1946.

The Commerce Department report was based on industry reports.

Following the parade, a reception will be held for all units participating in the parade, and a ceremony will be staged with a number of veteran-guardsmen receiving Victory medals. After the ceremony a free public dance will be held with music by the Modernaires Orchestra.

Wallace Speech Slated

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 — Former Vice President Henry W. Wallace is to address a rally sponsored by the Maryland Chapter, Progressive Citizens of America, Wednesday night at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

REQUIREMENTS ON REENTERING SCHOOL OUTLINED FOR VETS

Veteran students and trainees who drop out of school or job-training before completing their course have been cautioned by the Veterans Administration that they will have to comply with more strict requirements to get a VA certificate permitting their re-entry in training under the GI bill.

W. A. Burns, officer in charge, of the Cumberland VA office, explained that veterans must have a supplemental certificate of eligibility when they change from one school or training establishment to another.

Effective immediately, Burns said, a veteran, who of his own volition interrupts his training at a time other than at the end of a term, semester or training period, will not be issued such a certificate until he establishes satisfactory evidence:

1—That his interruption resulted from good cause, that is, illness, economic conditions, or other circumstances beyond his control.

2—That the institution or establishment in which he was in training is willing to re-accept him as a student or trainee.

Freight Demurrage Rates Are Boosted

Increased demurrage rates on all types of freight cars except tank and certain types of container cars are provided in Service Order 775 issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective Wednesday, according to information received by the Tri-State Traffic Club.

New rates will be $3 a day for the first two days after expiration of the normal 48 hours free time, $5 for the third day of detention, $11 for the fourth day and $16.50 for the fifth and each succeeding day.

It is hoped the order will speed release of much-needed equipment, thus augmenting the nation's car supply.

Lumber Stocks Piling Up In '47

Lumber stocks in the nation's mills are nearly two billion board feet higher than a year ago, the Commerce Departmenut said yesterday.

It also reported that lumber production in the first seven months of 1947 were up sharply and that August prices were at an all-time high.

Gross stocks at the mills totaled 5,600,000,000 board feet at the end of July. Retail stocks totaled four billion board feet, an increase of more than two billion over a year ago.

The Commerce report said that the tendency in the first seven months was for production to exceed shipments and new orders. However, in July new orders increased 157 million board feet over the previous month and shipments were up 41 million.

As to the gains in lumber supplies, the report said:

"This gain apparently has resulted both from increased production and imports and from decreased consumption. Presumably, the consumption decrease is attributable to deferment of demand in resistance to prevailing price levels."

Production in the first seven months was estimated at 18,400,000,000 board feet. This was 1½ billion board feet above the output of the first seven months in 1946.

The Commerce Department report was based on industry reports.

True Friend Passes On

Catamounts In Running

Watch Those Cavaliers

They Forgot Rice's Catch

By C. V. BURNS

The death of Prof. Arthur F. Smith on Monday marked the passing of one of Western Maryland's most beloved and colorful school officials.

An educator for 50 years, Prof. Smith probably was one of the best known citizens in Allegany county because of his connection with Central High School of Lonaconing and its boys' and girls' teams.

During Smith's administration as principal of the Lonaconing school many a girls' basketball, field ball and volley ball team emerged as county champion and several of the teams won state-wide honors. Smith seldom missed a game played by the teams of his school and he was usually on the sidelines lending his boys and girls words of encouragement.

He served as president of the W. M. I. League for about 25 years until illness forced his withdrawal.

We first met Prof. Smith back in the early 1920s when Marie Boyd sparked Central's great basketball teams, and we've always considered the Professor one of our truest friends.

West Liberty, tied by Potomac State in the season opener, 7-7, trounced Concord last week, 33-15, after Concord held Potomac to an 8-0 score. West Liberty also holds a 16-12 decision over Eddie Cubbon's California (Pa.) State eleven.

Potomac State plays at Glenville Nov. 1, meets California at Charleroi, Pa., Nov. 8 and closes the campaign with West Virginia Tech in Keyser on Nov. 14.

The conference leaders' records to date are:

West Va. Tech	3	0	0
Potomac State	3	0	1
West Liberty	1	0	1

Coach Bruce Fisher tipped us that Virginia is the team to watch after he saw the Cavaliers run down Virginia Tech by the score of 41-7. Last year these teams played a 21-21 tie. The Bedford High School coach's son—"Bud"—played in the last period for VPI against Virginia.

Prof. Fisher says the present Virginia eleven is one of the best college teams he has ever seen.

Virginia's schedule includes Washington and Lee, VMI, Richmond, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, N. C. State and North Carolina. Last season Penn won 40-0. So did Richmond 19-7, N. C. State 27-7 and North Carolina 49-14.

Coach Gus D'Amico's Meyersdale High School Red Raiders, Beall High School's opponents in the Pennsylvania town on Saturday, have lost four games in a row.

Berlin defeated Meyersdale last Friday, 13-6. Richland Township handed the Red Raiders a 28-6 licking the week before.

Johnstown Catholic High School's football team is having a good season. The Crimson Crusher, coached by Joe Majer, scored its fourth straight win last week at the expense of St. Vincent's Prep, 14-6.

The JCHS eleven lost its opening game of the season by a one-point margin to a highly touted Donora High School team.

Allegany outscored Hagerstown 16 to 10 in first downs in last Friday night's game in the Hub City but those long touchdown jaunts by Fullback Harold "Buck" Early didn't add up in the first downs column for Eddie Semler's victorious eleven.

Early touchdown jaunts were 95, 26, 16, 12 and 11 yards.

During our recent visit to New York for the World Series we noted that the Brooklyn Eagle devoted quite a bit of space to soccer, a sport which is making rapid strides in the metropolitan area.

Pittsburgh and Baltimore are also soccer hotbeds.

Much has been said of Al Gionfriddo's catch in the 6th game of the 1947 series but I don't believe it had anything on the spectacular stab made by Sam Rice in the 1925 series between Pittsburgh and Washington when he caught Earl Smith's drive while tumbling backwards over the railing into temporary seats in right field at Griffith Stadium.

We've seen three of Bucky Harris' teams play in the world series.

In 1924 his Senators won from John McGraw's Giants. That was the series in which Hank Gowdy stumbled over his mask and an easy roller struck a pebble and bounced over Freddie Lindstrom's head to decide one of the games. In 1925 the Senators lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates and this year the Yankees beat Brooklyn. Looks like Bucky tosses nothing but "naturals" as all of the series have gone the limit of seven games.

Sammy Palumbo, who has been a popular jockey on Maryland tracks for many years, marked his 38th birthday on Monday. Sam broke his maiden in 1927 on Out Stop and his first job was with Willis Sharpe Kilmer.

He's been around a long time as riders go, but the fact that he has won 77 races this season indicates he's lost none of his skill.

Palumbo resides at Charles Town, W. Va., with his wife and three children.

There's a good story going the rounds and it concerns Ty Cobb's appearance in the Oldtimers' Game which was staged in New York on the Sunday preceding the World Series.

It seems that when Ty stepped to the plate he turned around to Wally Schang, the one-time Philadelphia A's catcher, and remarked:

"Wally, you had better step back farther because I haven't had a bat in my hand for some time and I'm liable to hit you in the head if you get too close."

Then Ty laid down a bunt and almost beat it out.

Proving that even as a "has been" Ty is still as tricky as ever.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—What they have been saying about Billy Meyer all these years is true—now.

He's a major league manager at last.

"I've managed most every club in the league in the wintertime," he said with a big smile, "but I've always wound up in the American Association."

Meyer, as you know, is the new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, signed for a two-year term at the highest salary ever paid to a Pittsburgh manager.

According to Roy Hamey, general manager of the club, several men were considered for the job but "we always wanted Meyer for he's the best."

Meyer, 57-year-old veteran of 38 years in baseball and builder of minor league champions and major league talent, says simply:

"It's what I wanted. I've always wanted a major league job and this is it."

What about his plans for the last place Bucs?

"Right now all I know are the names of the players.

"We'll stress youth and we're planning to develop as good a team as soon as possible. It's about a three-year-plan, however. The one important thing I will stress is speed. I've always wanted it on my clubs and it's just got to be."

Meyer says he will be active as a manager, too, coaching from the third base spot where he has always held forth.

BILLY MEYER

The Pirates, despite the home run slugging of Ralph Kiner and Hank Greenberg, were a hopeless case this season but talent—good talent—is on the way.

Two of the outstanding players on the west coast, Pitcher Bob Chesness, a $100,000 beauty who won 22 games and lost eight games for the San Francisco Seals, and Ed Fitzgerald, a catcher for Sacramento, are Pirate looksees. Fitzgerald hit .367 for the Solons.

Also coming up are Jim Walsh who won nine of 10 games he pitched for Albany, Earl Turner, an Albany catcher, and Dick Pietnek, a pitcher from Selma.

Meyer has managed seven minor league clubs and has a fine record, particularly at Kansas City and Newark, two Yankee farms, where he turned out several of the major league stars of today.

Meyer worked with and helped such major leaguers as George McQuinn, Phil Rizzuto, Johnny Lindell and Gerry Priddy to mention only a few.

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., Meyer started to play ball as a catcher for Lakeland, Fla., as a youth of 16. Meyer was a close friend of the son of Governor Alf Taylor and young Taylor induced him to go to Lakeland where he was managing the team.

Meyer's last year of play was 1928. He started to manage two years earlier. He has bossed Louisville, Springfield, Binghamton, Oakland, Newark and Kansas City.

The new Buc boss has been in Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, but only as a spectator.

He lives on a 150-acre farm in Knoxville. He is married but has no children.

He is gray haired, ruddy faced and now in good health.

He weighs 170 pounds which is five pounds over his playing weight.

Jessop Gets Check-Up

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—(AP)—Dean Jessop, 21, one of the outstanding jockeys on eastern race tracks, entered a hospital here today for a check-up on a kidney infection. His physician, Dr. Dorrin Rudnick, said an operation might be necessary for removal of a kidney stone.

Morgan Is Eligible For AAU Competition

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14—(AP)—Vernon T. Morgan—who was declared ineligible to compete in Southern Conference football for the University of Richmond—is eligible to participate in any competition staged by the Amateur Athletic Union.

This ruling was made today by Daniel J. Ferris of New York, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, after a ruling had been requested by Dr. William H. Parker, chairman of registration of the Viginia Association of the AAU.

The Southern Conference executive committee last week ruled Morgan ineligible for intercollegiate athletics because at the age of fifteen he had signed a professional baseball contract with the New York Giants.

Don Grate Signs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 14 (INS) — The Indianapolis Kautskys of the National Basketball League today announced the signing of Don Grate, twice All-Big-Nine forward from Ohio State.

Purse Is Doubled For Laurel Stakes

Today's Race Will Be Run In Two Divisions

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 14 (AP) — The Maryland State Fair, Inc., split the Laurel Stakes into two divisions and doubled the purse to $10,000 for each run when 15 overnight entries were received for the 34th running of the one mile feature tomorrow.

Both sections set up by Racing Secretary Charles McLennan contain some topflight performers and should be closely contested.

Entered in the first division as the fifth race will be The Doge, Neddiecan, Shivaree, High Trend, Air Patrol, Lawless Miss and Flash Burn. Pentagon Stable's The Doge is topweighted at 122 pounds.

Greentree Stable's Coincidence has been given the same handicap in the second division for which Bright Sword, Brookfield, Flying Weather, Alexis, Double Jay, Tacaro Briar and Dog O'Sullivan also were named.

Mighty Michigan Aerial Wizardry Earns No. 1 Spot

Wolverines Average 248 Yards Per Game

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan's mighty Wolverines, in vaulting to the forefront of the nation's gridiron powers on the strength of three runaway victories, have averaged gains of 248 yards per game with their terrific aerial attack, figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau today disclose.

Employing a number of passers—featuring Bob Chappuis—Coach Fritz Crisler's midwest mammoth has completed 29 out of 51 tosses attempted for a total of 744 yards, with eight throws going for touchdowns, against Michigan State, Stanford and Pittsburgh.

Although the Wolverines' rushing attack, on the record, appears to be much less potent than that of numerous other teams, their aeriel wizardry has placed them atop the heap in total average of gains per game—479.3 yards—and would seem to validate this week's poll of the nation's sports writers which elected Michigan the No. 1 eleven.

Complete 27 Out Of 46

Among the major outfits, only Notre Dame with its gifted Johnny Lujack seriously challenges Michigan's claim to passing laurels. In two starts the Irish have completed 27 out of 46 tosses for a percentage of .587—slightly higher than Michigan's .569—but the South Benders have averaged only 201 yards per contest and have thrown but four for touchdowns.

So preoccupied have the two big teams (Notre Dame was voted No. 2) been with their overhead games that they have given their ballcarriers little chance to shine. Neither rates among the country's first 15 teams in rushing offense, and Notre Dame is topped by at least 15 others (it says here) on "total offense"—that is, average of gains per game by all means.

Eagles Lead In Rushing

Boston College, whose speedy backs ran wild in rolling up two lopsided wins over Clemson, and Kansas State, leads the nation in rushing offense with an average of 353 yards per game, followed by West Virginia with 350.7 and Pennsylvania with 329.

The Eagles from Boston, as a result of their classy running game, rate next to Michigan in total yards gained per game, 463.5, with Penn State third at 459.7.

Neither Illinois nor Army, which battled to a scoreless tie in last week's headline contest, rates a call among the leaders on any grounds whatever. Little Brigham Young of Utah, on the other hand, is up among the elect, third in the nation in the effectiveness of its passing attack and sixth in total offense.

By Sections, California leads the far west in all-around potency of offense with an average gain of 379.8 yards in four contests; Texas heads the Southwest with 371 yards in four, and Virginia the South with 387 yards in three starts.

Passes Net Nine Scores

West Virginia leads the tabulation in number of touchdown passes thrown, with nine, followed by Michigan's eight. Texas and Iowa each had nine. Among the major teams, North Carolina and Oregon have suffered the most interceptions, seven apiece.

Harder Is Named Coach-At-Large

Will Tutor Pitchers For $14,000 Salary

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 (AP) — Mel Harder, the tall righthander who has won 223 games for the Cleveland Indians over a 20-year span, today became coach-at-large of all pitchers under contract to the Tribe and its 19 farm clubs.

Bill Veeck, president of the Indians, said Harder would earn the same salary in his new job as he earned this year as a pitcher. That amount, believed to be in the neighborhood of $14,000, is uncommonly high pay for a coach.

"There isn't a member of the Indians' pitching staff from Bob Feller down who doesn't testify that Mel Harder has helped him," Veeck said. "What's more, they don't merely admit it; they brag about it."

The Tribe boss said Harder would be free in his new assignment to travel where and when he felt he might help some young pitching prospect, but would also spend some time with the younger hurlers of the Indians' own mound staff.

Meet The Coach

In four years as head football coach at Notre Dame, Leahy has lost but three games. He's won 32, not counting his 1947 record which should add to the overwhelming success figures.

He entered Notre Dame in 1927 and his qualities as an athlete and leader at once won him the freshman class presidency.

Leahy played center for the Irish and then was moved to tackle, where he stood out on the undefeated 1929 team.

After graduation in 1931 he signed as line coach at Georgetown. He did such fine work Jimmy Crowley, coaching Michigan State, offered Leahy a job with the Spartans. When Crowley moved east to Fordham Leahy went along.

His first big coaching chance came in 1939 when Boston College signed him as grid boss. He turned out great teams at BC, winning 20 of 22 games and sending his club to the Sugar Bowl.

He went to Notre Dame in 1941 and immediately turned out an Irish team which won eight and tied one. He was named "Coach of the year."

Leahy is married and he has five children.

Catamounts Near Full Strength For Homecoming Game Saturday

Game Starts At 2 P. M.; Plan Luncheon, Dance

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 14—Barring injuries in scrimmage this week, Potomac State's football team will come nearer being full strength for its Homecoming game this Saturday with Davis-Elkins College than they have been in any game this season.

Coach Dana Lough put his Cats through a long practice last evening without the services of star halfbacks Bill McProuty and Lou Bonato. Both boys were injured in the Shepherd game and will be out for two weeks.

Joe Stanislawczyk, All-Conference fullback has recovered from his injuries and for the first time this year will be in top condition. Joe has been suffering from injuries of one kind or another all year and has been used sparingly. It means a great deal to the Cats, Lough feels, to have him in there as a field general and all-around player, as well as the extra confidence it gives the team. Homer Henderson, veteran right half back, Keith Allen, fleet end, and Neal Baisi, steller guard, have all recovered and will be in the starting line-up Saturday.

The Davis Elkins team and student body have made no secret of the fact that they have been pointing for this game, ever since they lost to the Cats in their own Homecoming game last year. Coach "Red" Brown seems to be in on this plot since he withdrew his first team from their game last Saturday, after the Marines scored their second touchdown. Word comes from Elkins that the town will practically lock-up next Saturday and follow the team to Keyser to take part in the killing.

Plans have been completed at Potomac State to take care of the largest homecoming crowd in the history of the school. Since the homecoming was rained out last year, this will be the first time since pre-war days that the old grads could get together. The game will be preceded by an Alumni luncheon, and followed by a big dance that night. The kick-off will be promptly at 2 o'clock.

Surgeons Go To Work On Spud Chandler's Arm

ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, pitcher for the New York Yankees, was up and walking around his room at Crawford W. Long Hospital today after an operation on his pitching arm.

The Carnesville, Ga., hurler, who won nine and lost four this past season before his arm began to plague him, reported that his "money-wind" feels "a lot better now."

Lay TKO's White

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—Dorsey Lay, 139, Philadelphia negro, scored a technical knockout victory tonight in the fourth round over Eddie White, 135, Newark, N. J.

Referee Charley Daggert stopped the fight at 2:48 of the round after White had been felled a second time by Lay's two fisted attack. Lay smashed the Newark negro to the canvas for a nine count earlier in the round with a left hook to the jaw.

Milligan Believes Michigan And Irish Will Stay Unbeaten

Pitt Mentor Refuses To Pick Greater Team

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14 (AP) — The man best qualified to say whether Notre Dame or Michigan is the greater today knocked down all verbal passes aimed at solving this intriguing football equation.

"There's only one answer— let 'em play each other," commented Coach Mike Milligan, whose Pitt Panthers have absorbed awesome lacings from both contenders for national honors.

"Since they're not scheduled, it looks like that foolproof solution is impossible", Mike declared, adding:

"I had enough of those boys for the past two Saturdays. The physical beating my poor lads took was plenty. I don't want their supporters giving me a verbal beating the rest of the season. Let the cheering sections argue with each other."

(Notre Dame opened its season with a 40-7 victory over Pitt. Michigan topped this with a 69-0 triumph last Saturday).

"That Lujack (Notre Dame T-master) is a great passer," Mike said. "and they have a great line. I don't know whether Bob Chappius (Michigan ace) could equal Lujack in passing. But Michigan is big—with tremendous speed and tremendous manpower. It looks like that ole saw, the irresistible force and the immovable object. I do believe both teams will stay unbeaten."

LaSalle Announces Officials For Three Football Contests

Officials for the LaSalle-Mooseheart (Ill.) game here Saturday, October 25, will be Dan Staley, referee; Cavanaugh, umpire, and C. William Spangler, head linesman.

Johnny Blough has been named referee for the Beall-LaSalle game in Frostburg on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 27. Staley will be the umpire and Spangler, head linesman.

FRIDAY GAMES

Bruce at Beall
Central at Flintstone

Coach Paul Footen's Barton High School soccer eleven defeated Flintstone High School yeserday by the score of 3 to 0 in a W.M.I. League contest at Barton.

The victory enabled Barton to atone for a 2-0 loss at the hands of Coach Saylor's team last month and deadlocked the teams for Class "D" honors in Allegany county. These are the only Class D schools competing in the league and a playoff game will be stabed to determine which team shall represent the county in the state games which get under way next month.

Metz paved the way for Barton's initial score when he booted the ball 70 yards on a goal kick and Emmett "Mike" Brennan hammered the leather between the uprights in the second period. Barton took a 2-0 lead at the halfway mark when George Ayers also registered on a field goal. Jack Bean scored the third and final goal in the fourth period.

Beall High School's undefeated eleven had its hands full in disposing of Central High School at Lonaconing for its fifth consecutive triumph, 2 to 1.

One of the highlights of this game was the defensive play of Paul Green, Orange and Black halfback, who "covered" Bill Farrady, Beall's high scoring center forward, and held him scoreless from the field.

Jack Starkey's first goal and Farrady's penalty goal gave Beall a 2-0 lead in the first half. Ralston of Central chalked up a field goal in the third stanza. Each team missed shots for penalty goals.

True Friend Passes On

Catamounts In Running

Watch Those Cavaliers

They Forgot Rice's Catch

By C. V. BURNS

The death of Prof. Arthur F. Smith on Monday marked the passing of one of Western Maryland's most beloved and colorful school officials.

An educator for 50 years, Prof. Smith probably was one of the best known citizens in Allegany county because of his connection with Central High School of Lonaconing and its boys' and girls' teams.

During Smith's administration as principal of the Lonaconing school many a girls' basketball, field ball and volley ball team emerged as county champion and several of the teams won state-wide honors. Smith seldom missed a game played by the teams of his school and he was usually on the sidelines lending his boys and girls words of encouragement.

He served as president of the W. M. I. League for about 25 years until illness forced his withdrawal.

We first met Prof. Smith back in the early 1920s when Marie Boyd sparked Central's great basketball teams, and we've always considered the Professor one of our truest friends.

West Liberty, tied by Potomac State in the season opener, 7-7, trounced Concord last week, 33-15, after Concord held Potomac to an 8-0 score. West Liberty also holds a 16-12 decision over Eddie Cubbon's California (Pa.) State eleven.

West Virginia Tech defeated Glenville by the score of 13-0 Saturday for its third straight conference triumph.

Potomac State plays at Glenville Nov. 1, meets California at Charleroi, Pa., Nov. 8 and closes the campaign with West Virginia Tech in Keyser on Nov. 14.

The conference leaders' records to date are:

	W.	L.	T.
West Va. Tech	3	0	0
West Liberty	1	0	1

Coach Bruce Fisher tipped us that Virginia is the team to watch after he saw the Cavaliers run down Virginia Tech by the score of 41-7. Last year these teams played a 21-21 tie. The Bedford High School coach's son—"Bud"—played in the last period for VPI against Virginia.

Prof. Fisher says the present Virginia eleven is one of the best college teams he has ever seen.

Virginia's schedule includes Washington and Lee, VMI, Richmond, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, N. C. State and North Carolina. Last season Penn won 40-0. So did Richmond 19-7, N. C. State 27-7 and North Carolina 49-14.

Coach Gus D'Amico's Meyersdale High School Red Raiders, Beall High School's opponents in the Pennsylvania town on Saturday, have lost four games in a row.

Berlin defeated Meyersdale last Friday, 13-6. Richland Township handed the Red Raiders a 28-6 licking the week before.

Johnstown Catholic High School's football team is having a good season. The Crimson Crusher, coached by Joe Majer, scored its fourth straight win last week at the expense of St. Vincent's Prep, 14-6.

The JCHS eleven lost its opening game of the season by a one-point margin to a highly touted Donora High School team.

Allegany outscored Hagerstown 16 to 10 in first downs in last Friday night's game in the Hub City but those long touchdown jaunts by Fullback Harold "Buck" Early didn't add up in the first downs column for Eddie Semler's victorious eleven.

Early touchdown jaunts were 95, 86, 16, 12 and 11 yards.

During our recent visit to New York for the World Series we noted that the Brooklyn Eagle devoted quite a bit of space to soccer, a sport which is making rapid strides in the metropolitan area.

Pittsburgh and Baltimore are also soccer hotbeds.

Much has been said of Al Gionfriddo's catch in the 6th game of the 1947 series but I don't believe it had anything on the spectacular stab made by Sam Rice in the 1925 series between Pittsburgh and Washington when he caught Earl Smith's drive while tumbling backwards over the railing into temporary seats in right field at Griffith Stadium.

We've seen three of Bucky Harris' teams play in the world series.

In 1924 his Senators won from John McGraw's Giants. That was the series in which Hank Gowdy stumbled over his mask and an easy roller struck a pebble and bounced over Freddie Lindstrom's head to decide one of the games. In 1925 the Senators lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates and this year the Yankees beat Brooklyn. Looks like Bucky tosses nothing but "naturals" as all of the series have gone the limit of seven games.

Sammy Palumbo, who has been a popular jockey on Maryland tracks for many years, marked his 38th birthday on Monday. Sam broke his maiden in 1927 on Out Stop and his first job was with Willis Sharpe Kilmer.

He's been around a long time as riders go, but the fact that he has won 77 races this season indicates he's lost none of his skill.

Palumbo resides at Charles Town, W. Va., with his wife and three children.

There's a good story going the rounds and it concerns Ty Cobb's appearance in the Oldtimers' Game which was staged in New York on the Sunday preceding the World Series.

It seems that when Ty stepped to the plate he turned around to Wally Schang, the one-time Philadelphia A's catcher, and remarked:

"Wally, you had better step back farther because I haven't had a bat in my hand for some time and I'm liable to hit you in the head if you get too close."

Then Ty laid down a bunt and almost beat it out.

Proving that even as a "has been" Ty is still as tricky as ever.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—What they have been saying about Billy Meyer all these years is true—now.

He's a major league manager at last.

"I've managed most every club in the league in the wintertime," he said with a big smile, "but I've always wound up in the American Association."

Meyer, as you know, is the new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, signed for a two-year term at the highest salary ever paid to a Pittsburgh manager.

According to Roy Hamey, general manager of the club, several men were considered for the job but "we always wanted Meyer for he's the best."

Meyer, 57-year-old veteran of 38 years in baseball and builder of minor league champions and major league talent, says simply:

"It's what I wanted. I've always wanted a major league job and this is it."

What about his plans for the last place Bucs?

"Right now all I know are the names of the players.

"We'll stress youth and we're planning to develop as good a team as soon as possible. It's about a three-year-plan, however. The one important thing I will stress is speed. I've always wanted it on my clubs and it's just got to be."

Meyer says he will be active as a manager, too, coaching from the third base spot where he has always held forth.

BILLY MEYER

The Pirates, despite the home run slugging of Ralph Kiner and Hank Greenberg, were a hopeless case this season but talent—good talent—is on the way.

Two of the outstanding players on the west coast, Pitcher Bob Chesness, a $100,000 beauty who won 22 games and lost eight games for the San Francisco Seals, and Ed Fitzgerald, a catcher for Sacramento, are Pirate looksees. Fitzgerald hit .367 for the Solons.

Also coming up are Jim Walsh who won nine of 10 games he pitched for Albany. Earl Turner, an Albany catcher, and Dick Pietnek, a pitcher from Selma.

Meyer has managed seven minor league clubs and has a fine record, particularly at Kansas City and Newark, two Yankee farms, where he turned out several of the major league stars of today.

Meyer worked with and helped such major leaguers as George McQuinn, Phil Rizzuto, Johnny Lindell and Gerry Priddy to mention only a few.

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., Meyer started to play ball as a catcher for Lakeland, Fla., as a youth of 16. Meyer was a close friend of the son of Governor Alf Taylor and young Taylor induced him to go to Lakeland where he was managing the team.

Meyer's last year of play was 1928. He started to manage two years earlier. He has bossed Louisville, Springfield, Binghamton, Oakland, Newark and Kansas City.

The new Buc boss has been in Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, but only as a spectator.

He lives on a 150-acre farm in Knoxville. He is married but has no children.

He is gray haired, ruddy faced and now in good health.

He weighs 170 pounds which is five pounds over his playing weight.

Morgan Is Eligible For AAU Competition

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14—(AP)—Vernon T. Morgan—who was declared ineligible to compete in Southern Conference football for the University of Richmond—is eligible to participate in any competition staged by the Amateur Athletic Union.

This ruling was made today by Daniel J. Ferris of New York, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, after a ruling had been requested by Dr. William H. Parker, chairman of registration of the Viginia Association of the AAU.

The Southern Conference executive committee last week ruled Morgan ineligible for intercollegiate athletics because at the age of fifteen he had signed a professional baseball contract with the New York Giants.

Purse Is Doubled For Laurel Stakes

Today's Race Will Be Run In Two Divisions

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 14 (AP) — The Maryland State Fair, Inc., split the Laurel Stakes into two divisions and doubled the purse to $10,000 for each run when 15 overnight entries were received for the 34th running of the one mile feature tomorrow.

Both sections set up by Racing Secretary Charles McLennan contain some topflight performers and should be closely contested.

Entered in the first division as the fifth race will be The Doge, Neddiecan, Shivaree, High Trend, Air Patrol, Lawless Miss and Flash Burn. Pentagon Stable's The Doge is topweighted at 122 pounds.

Greentree Stable's Coincidence has been given the same handicap in the second division for which Bright Sword, Brookfield, Flying Weather, Alexis, Double Jay, Tacaro Briar and Dog O'Sullivan also were named.

Mighty Michigan Aerial Wizardry Earns No. 1 Spot

Wolverines Average 248 Yards Per Game

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan's mighty Wolverines, in vaulting to the forefront of the nation's gridiron powers on the strength of three runaway victories, have averaged gains of 248 yards per game with their terrific aerial attack, figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau today disclose.

Employing a number of passers—featuring Bob Chappuis—Coach Fritz Crisler's midwest mammoth has completed 29 out of 51 tosses attempted for a total of 744 yards, with eight throws going for touchdowns, against Michigan State, Stanford and Pittsburgh.

Although the Wolverines' rushing attack, on the record, appears to be much less potent than that of numerous other teams, their aeriel wizardry has placed them atop the heap in total average of gains per game—479.3 yards—and would seem to validate this week's poll of the nation's sports writers which elected Michigan the No. 1 eleven.

Complete 27 Out Of 46

Among the major outfits, only Notre Dame with its gifted Johnny Lujack seriously challenges Michigan's claim to passing laurels. In two starts the Irish have completed 27 out of 46 tosses for a percentage of .587—slightly higher than Michigan's .569—but the South Benders have averaged only 201 yards per contest and have thrown but four for touchdowns.

So preoccupied have the two big teams (Notre Dame was voted No. 2) been with their overhead games that they have given their ball-carriers little chance to shine. Neither rates among the country's first 15 teams in rushing offense, and Notre Dame is topped by at least 15 others (it says here) on "total offense"—that is, average of gains per game by all means.

Eagles Lead In Rushing

Boston College, whose speedy backs ran wild in rolling up two lopsided wins over Clemson, and Kansas State, leads the nation in rushing offense with an average of 353 yards per game, followed by West Virginia with 350.7 and Pennsylvania with 329.

The Eagles from Boston, as a result of their classy running game, rate next to Michigan in total yards gained per game, 463.5, with Penn State third at 459.7.

Neither Illinois nor Army, which battled to a scoreless tie in last week's headline contest, rates a call among the leaders on any grounds whatever. Little Brigham Young of Utah, on the other hand, is up among the elect, third in the nation in the effectiveness of its passing attack and sixth in total offense.

By Sections, California leads the far west in all-around potency of offense with an average gain of 379.8 yards in four contests; Texas heads the Southwest with 371 yards in four, and Virginia the South with 387 yards in three starts.

Passes Net Nine Scores

West Virginia leads the tabulation in number of touchdown passes thrown, with nine, followed by Michigan's eight. Texas and Iowa each had nine. Among the major teams, North Carolina and Oregon have suffered the most interceptions, seven apiece.

The 15 leaders in each department:

Total Offense—(Gains rushing and pasisng) — Michigan, 479.3 yards average per game; Boston College, 463.5; Penn State, 459.7; West Virginia, 455; Pennsylvania, 447.5; Brigham Young, 398.3; Detroit 397.2; Arizona, 391; Virginia, 387; California, 379.8; Brown, 371.3; Texas, 371; Georgia Tech, 370.3; Maryland, 362.7; UCLA, 359.3.

Rushing Offense—Boston College, 353 yards average per game; West Virginia, 350.7; Pennsylvania, 329; Detroit, 283.8; New Mexico, 282.7; Virginia, 280; California, 274; Brown, 274; UCLA, 273.3; Utah, 265; Wichita, 255.5; Maryland, 254.7; Baylor, 246; Colgate, 243; Oklahoma, 239.7.

Passing Offense—Michigan, 248 yards average per game; Notre Dame, 201; Brigham Young, 193.8; Arizona, 172.3; West Virginia, 165; Wake Forest, 164.3; North Carolina, 159.3; Iowa, 158.3; Georgia Tech, 157; Utah State, 152; Temple, 148; Oregon, 147; Texas, 145.8; Clemson, 138.8; Portland, 138.

Harder Is Named Coach-At-Large

Will Tutor Pitchers For $14,000 Salary

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 (AP) — Mel Harder, the tall righthander who has won 223 games for the Cleveland Indians over a 20-year span, today became coach-at-large of all pitchers under contract to the Tribe and its 19 farm clubs.

Bill Veeck, president of the Indians, said Harder would earn the same salary in his new job as he earned this year as a pitcher. That amount, believed to be in the neighborhood of $14,000, is uncommonly high pay for a coach.

"There isn't a member of the Indians' pitching staff from Bob Feller down who doesn't testify that Mel Harder has helped him," Veeck said. "What's more, they don't merely admit it; they brag about it."

The Tribe boss said Harder would be free in his new assignment to travel where and when he felt he might help some young pitching prospect, but would also spend some time with the younger hurlers of the Indians' own mound staff.

Meet The Coach

In four years as head football coach at Notre Dame, Leahy has lost but three games. He's won 32, not counting his 1947 record which should add to the overwhelming success figures.

As a schoolboy gridder, first at Winner and later at Omaha, Leahy played halfback and then tackle.

He entered Notre Dame in 1927 and his qualities as an athlete and leader at once won him the freshman class presidency.

Leahy played center for the Irish and then was moved to tackle, where he stood out on the undefeated 1929 team.

After graduation in 1931 he signed as line coach at Georgetown. He did such fine work Jimmy Crowley, coaching Michigan State, offered Leahy a job with the Spartans. When Crowley moved east to Fordham Leahy went along.

His first big coaching chance came in 1939 when Boston College signed him as grid boss. He turned out great teams at BC, winning 20 of 22 games and sending his club to the Sugar Bowl.

He went to Notre Dame in 1941 and immediately turned out an Irish team which won eight and tied one. He was named "Coach of the year."

Leahy is married and he has five children.

Catamounts Near Full Strength For Homecoming Game Saturday

Game Starts At 2 P. M.; Plan Luncheon, Dance

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 14—Barring injuries in scrimmage this week, Potomac State's football team will come nearer being full strength for its Homecoming game this Saturday with Davis-Elkins College than they have been in any game this season.

Coach Dana Lough put his Cats through a long practice last evening without the services of star halfbacks Bill McProuty and Lou Bonato. Both boys were injured in the Shepherd game and will be out for two weeks.

Joe Stanislawczyk, All-Conference fullback has recovered from his injuries and for the first time this year will be in top condition. Joe has been suffering from injuries of one kind or another all year and has been used sparingly. It means a great deal to the Cats, Lough feels, to have him in there as a field general and all-around player, as well as the extra confidence it gives the team. Homer Henderson, veteran right half back, Keith Allen, fleet end, and Neal Baisi, steller guard, have all recovered and will be in the starting line-up Saturday.

The Davis Elkins team and student body have made no secret of the fact that they have been pointing for this game, ever since they lost to the Cats in their own Homecoming game last year. Coach "Red" Brown seems to be in on this plot since he withdrew his first team from their game last Saturday, after the Marines scored their second touchdown. Word comes from Elkins that the town will practically lock-up next Saturday and follow the team to Keyser to take part in the killing.

Plans have been completed at Potomac State to take care of the largest homecoming crowd in the history of the school. Since the homecoming was rained out last year, this will be the first time since pre-war days that the old grads could get together. The game will be preceded by an Alumni luncheon, and followed by a big dance that night. The kick-off will be promptly at 2 o'clock.

Surgeons Go To Work On Spud Chandler's Arm

ATLANTA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, pitcher for the New York Yankees, was up and walking around his room at Crawford W. Long Hospital today after an operation on his pitching arm.

The Carnesville, Ga., hurler, who won nine and lost four this past season before his arm began to plague him, reported that his "money-wind" feels "a lot better now."

Lay TKO's White

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—(AP)—Dorsey Lay, 139, Philadelphia negro, scored a technical knockout victory tonight in the fourth round over Eddie White, 135, Newark, N. J.

Referee Charley Daggert stopped the fight at 2:48 of the round after White had been felled a second time by Lay's two fisted attack. Lay smashed the Newark negro to the canvas for a nine count earlier in the round with a left hook to the jaw.

Milligan Believes Michigan And Irish Will Stay Unbeaten

Pitt Mentor Refuses To Pick Greater Team

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14 (AP) — The man best qualified to say whether Notre Dame or Michigan is the greater today knocked down all verbal passes aimed at solving this intriguing football equation.

"There's only one answer— let 'em play each other," commented Coach Mike Milligan, whose Pitt Panthers have absorbed awesome lacings from both contenders for national honors.

"I had enough of those boys for the past two Saturdays. The physical beating my poor lads took was plenty. I don't want their supporters giving me a verbal beating the rest of the season. Let the cheering sections argue with each other."

(Notre Dame opened its season with a 40-7 victory over Pitt. Michigan topped this with a 69-0 triumph last Saturday).

"That Lujack (Notre Dame T-master) is a great passer," Mike said, "and they have a great line. I don't know whether Bob Chappius (Michigan ace) could equal Lujack in passing. But Michigan is big—with tremendous speed and tremendous manpower. It looks like that ole saw, the irresistible force and the immovable object. I do believe both teams will stay unbeaten."

FRIDAY GAMES

Bruce at Beall
Central at Flintstone

Coach Paul Footen's Barton High School soccer eleven defeated Flintstone High School yeserday by the score of 3 to 0 in a W.M.I. League contest at Barton.

The victory enabled Barton to atone for a 2-0 loss at the hands of Coach Saylor's team last month and deadlocked the teams for Class "D" honors in Allegany county. These are the only Class D schools competing in the league and a play-off game will be stabed to determine which team shall represent the county in the state games which get under way next month.

Metz paved the way for Barton's initial score when he booted the ball 70 yards on a goal kick and Emmett "Mike" Brennan hammered the leather between the uprights in the second period. Barton took a 2-0 lead at the halfway mark when George Ayers also registered on a field goal. Jack Bean scored the third and final goal in the fourth period.

Beall High School's undefeated eleven had its hands full in disposing of Central High School at Lonaconing for its fifth consecutive triumph, 2 to 1.

One of the highlights of this game was the defensive play of Paul Green, Orange and Black halfback, who "covered" Bill Farrady, Beall's high scoring center forward, and held him scoreless from the field.

Jack Starkey's first goal and Farrady's penalty goal gave Beall a 2-0 lead in the first half. Ralston of Central chalked up a field goal in the third stanza. Each team missed shots for penalty goals.

Conference Group To Make Decision In Justice Case

Executive Committee Will Meet Saturday

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—There was a great silence— officially—about the Charlie Justice case on the University of North Carolina campus today, and it appeared that Carolina's views would not be aired until the Southern Conference executive committee meets in Durham Saturday to decide on the eligibility of the speedy Tar Heels backfield star.

The special meeting was called last night by Dr. H. A. Fisher, of North Carolina State College, a committee member.

The question of Justice's eligibility under conference rules was raised last Saturday by John J. Wicker, A Richmond, Va., lawyer, who is attorney for Vernon Morgan, a University of Richmond athlete ruled ineligibility because as a boy of 15 he signed a professional baseball contract.

Wicker brought Justice's status into question after a national magazine had published a story in which it was said he had signed a professional football contract while he was serving in the navy.

If the Tar Heel flash is permitted to continue playing, Wicker declared Morgan should be reinstated or the Southern Conference will be "convicted of the rankest discrimination" in its history.

At Philadelphia, Al Ennis, general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, said today his National Football League now has "no connection whatever" with Justice.

Giving his recollection of the circumstances, Ennis said Justice signed a contract with the club which was first accepted by Elmer Layden, then pro football commissioner, but later rejected by Layden.

It was signed, he said early in 1943. At that time, Ennis added, it appeared Justice had no intention of going to college.

Ratterman, Notre Dame Sub, Becomes Buffalo Pro Star

By BOB LECKIE
AP Newsfeatures

BUFFALO, N. Y. — George Ratterman, youthful field general of the All-America Conference Buffalo Bills, never started a college game in his life but the slim, 20-year-old towhead believes everyone was 'way of base when they tagged him as an understudy to All-America Johnny Lujack at Notre Dame last year.

After shining at St. Xavier high school, Cincinnati, George had gone to South Bend in 1944 under the Navy V-12 program. Beforeh is first season he broke his collarbone. The next season he strummed the second-fiddle for Frank (Boley) Dancewicz.

Ratterman stayed at Notre Dame after his discharge from the Navy in 1946, but as far as press clippings were concerned he might just as well have broken his collarbone again. The celebrated Lujack was on hand and few fans bothered to look for the name of the graceful blond kid who tossed passes when Johnny was resting up.

Then George signed to play for Buffalo, even though he had two more years of play remaining and Frank Leahy had indicated he might use both Lujack and Ratterman in his starting backfield.

"Leahy said that last year, too," says George. "What he meant was that he might use us both as an added threat. He'd be crazy to shift Lujack from quarterback to half. After all the guy only ran two national championship teams for Leahy."

GEORGE RATTERMAN
No More Splinter

At Chicago last August, Ratterman made his own headlines when he teamed with Buddy Young to engineer the College All-Stars' 16-0 upset victory over the Chicago Bears. That was the day when Chicago's Sid Luckman, who had taught George a few tricks at South Bend, found himself running a disconcerting second-best to his erstwhile pupil.

Since then Ratterman's deft ball-handling and thread-needle passing have placed him among the top T-formation tricksters of the nation. Both talents are numbered among the chief reasons for Buffalo's transition from a conference "weak sister" to one of its powers.

While at Notre Dame, George also played basketball, baseball and tennis and he appears to be built more for those sports than for football. His 175 pounds are distributed over a six-foot, one-inch frame, seemingly not enough beef to withstand the jolts of the pro game. His youth is accented by a baby face and has earned him the nickname of "the kid."

Oregon Town Will Honor Bill Bevens

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 14 (AP)—Yankee pitcher Floyd "Bill" Bevens will come home to a welcome just as warm as though he'd made his eight and two-thirds inning no-hitter last through the final out.

Mayor Robert Elfstrom has proclaimed Friday Bevens Day and festivities will get off to a 7 a. m. start with a breakfast sponsored by the Salem Breakfast Sports Club.

Sunday Bevens is booked to pitch at Oregon City for the Clackamas County All-Stars in an exhibition against the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League.

Payton's Condition Remains Unchanged

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—(AP)—George Payton, 24, professional golf star from Newport News, Va., was unconscious for the sixth day from injuries received in an automobile accident last Thursday.

Majors Hang Up All-Time Mark For Attendance

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Major league baseball attendance climbed to a new all-time high of 19,954,832 in 1947 according to an unofficial count that showed an 8 percent increase over a year ago. The 1946 paid total was 18,534,444.

The New York Yankees once again led the field with a stadium paid attendance of 2,200,369 but, despite their pennant victory, they did not quite match the major league record of 2,265,512, set by the Yankees' third-place team in 1946.

National League figures hit a new high of 10,390,289, representing an increase of 1,477,027 over last year while the American's 1947 turnstile total of 9,564,543 represented a decrease of 56,639 from the 1946 gate.

Five National League teams, Brooklyn, New York, Pittsburgh, Boston and St. Louis, and three American League clubs, Cleveland, Boston and Philadelphia, drew more people through their gates than ever before.

Pittsburgh's increase was the most remarkable as the new Pirate owners, with Hank Greenburg and Ralph Kiner as the bait, passed last year's total by 524,485 with a final count of 1,283,602.

All National League teams, except Philadelphia and Cincinnati, hit the 1,000,000 mark and the Phils and Reds were both in the 900,000 class. The Phils, the lone team failing to match the '46 gate in the National, still had their second best mark in history, 906,868.

Butkus Of Colonials Intercepts Snap-Back Pass For Touchdown

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 14 (AP) — Carl Butkus, George Washington University's burly 245-pound tackle, probably is the first lineman in football history to intercept a snap-back pass from the opposing team's center and carry it for a touchdown.

It happened Saturday as G. W. dropped its third straight game of the season, 15 to 6, to Washington and Lee's Generals.

Freshman Joe McCutcheon of Charleston, W. Va., was the W. & L. center. The ball was to be snapped back to Dick Working, the Generals T-formation quarterback. But Working, believing he had seen both sides offside, relaxed and stepped back from his position behind the pivotman just as McCutcheon flipped the ball.

The leather popped ten feet in the air, Butkus grabbed it and raced 34 yards to paydirt as the final whistle blew.

Conference Group To Make Decision In Justice Case

Executive Committee Will Meet Saturday

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—There was a great silence— officially—about the Charlie Justice case on the University of North Carolina campus today, and it appeared that Carolina's views would not be aired until the Southern Conference executive committee meets in Durham Saturday to decide on the eligibility of the speedy Tar Heels backfield star.

The special meeting was called last night by Dr. H. A. Fisher, of North Carolina State College, a committee member.

The question of Justice's eligibility under conference rules was raised last Saturday by John J. Wicker, A Richmond, Va., lawyer, who is attorney for Vernon Morgan, a University of Richmond athlete ruled ineligibility because as a boy of 15 he signed a professional baseball contract.

Wicker brought Justice's status into question after a national magazine had published a story in which it was said he had signed a professional football contract while he was serving in the navy.

If the Tar Heel flash is permitted to continue playing, Wicker declared Morgan should be reinstated or the Southern Conference will be "convicted of the rankest discrimination" in its history.

At Philadelphia, Al Ennis, general manager of the Philadelphia Eagles, said today his National Football League now has "no connection whatever" with Justice.

Giving his recollection of the circumstances, Ennis said Justice signed a contract with the club which was first accepted by Elmer Layden, then pro football commissioner, but later rejected by Layden.

It was signed, he said early in 1943. At that time, Ennis added, it appeared Justice had no intention of going to college.

Ratterman, Notre Dame Sub, Becomes Buffalo Pro Star

By BOB LECKIE
AP Newsfeatures

BUFFALO, N. Y. — George Ratterman, youthful field general of the All-America Conference Buffalo Bills, never started a college game in his life but the slim, 20-year-old towhead believes everyone was 'way of base when they tagged him as an understudy to All-America Johnny Lujack at Notre Dame last year.

"I wasn't Lujack's understudy," George insists. "I just ran the second team and at Notre Dame the second team plays almost as much as the first.

"It's just as much fun running the second team," he continues, "maybe more, because you're out there to show up the first team.'

But despite George's statement, most football followers consider his rise to stardom as something of a Cinderella tale. Before Coach Red Dawson decided that Ratterman's pigskin wizardry was just what the surprise-package Bills needed, Ratterman was merely one among many capable backs at Notre Dame.

After shining at St. Xavier high school, Cincinnati, George had gone to South Bend in 1944 under the Navy V-12 program. Beforeh is first season he broke his collarbone. The next season he strummed the second-fiddle for Frank (Boley) Dancewicz.

Ratterman stayed at Notre Dame after his discharge from the Navy in 1946, but as far as press clippings were concerned he might just as well have broken his collarbone again. The celebrated Lujack was on hand and few fans bothered to look for the name of the graceful blond kid who tossed passes when Johnny was resting up.

Then George signed to play for Buffalo, even though he had two more years of play remaining and Frank Leahy had indicated he might use both Lujack and Ratterman in his starting backfield.

"Leahy said that last year, too," says George. "What he meant was that he might use us both as an added threat. He'd be crazy to shift Lujack from quarterback to half. After all the guy only ran two national championship teams for Leahy."

GEORGE RATTERMAN
No More Splinter

At Chicago last August, Ratterman made his own headlines when he teamed with Buddy Young to engineer the College All-Stars' 16-0 upset victory over the Chicago Bears. That was the day when Chicago's Sid Luckman, who had taught George a few tricks at South Bend, found himself running a disconcerting second-best to his erstwhile pupil.

Since then Ratterman's deft ball-handling and thread-needle passing have placed him among the top T-formation tricksters of the nation. Both talents are numbered among the chief reasons for Buffalo's transition from a conference "weak sister" to one of its powers.

While at Notre Dame, George also played basketball, baseball and tennis and he appears to be built more for those sports than for football. His 175 pounds are distributed over a six-foot, one-inch frame, seemingly not enough beef to withstand the jolts of the pro game. His youth is accented by a baby face and has earned him the nickname of "the kid."

There isn't too much difference between college ball and playing for pay, Ratterman claims, except—"I throw the ball a lot more."

Oregon Town Will Honor Bill Bevens

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 14 (AP)—Yankee pitcher Floyd "Bill" Bevens will come home to a welcome just as warm as though he'd made his eight and two-thirds inning no-hitter last through the final out.

Mayor Robert Elfstrom has proclaimed Friday Bevens Day and festivities will get off to a 7 a. m. start with a breakfast sponsored by the Salem Breakfast Sports Club.

Sunday Bevens is booked to pitch at Oregon City for the Clackamas County All-Stars in an exhibition against the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League.

Payton's Condition Remains Unchanged

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—(AP)—George Payton, 24, professional golf star from Newport News, Va., was unconscious for the sixth day from injuries received in an automobile accident last Thursday.

Majors Hang Up All-Time Mark For Attendance

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Major league baseball attendance climbed to a new all-time high of 19,954,832 in 1947 according to an unofficial count that showed an 8 percent increase over a year ago. The 1946 paid total was 18,534,444.

The New York Yankees once again led the field with a stadium paid attendance of 2,200,369 but, despite their pennant victory, they did not quite match the major league record of 2,265,512, set by the Yankees' third-place team in 1946.

National League figures hit a new high of 10,390,289, representing an increase of 1,477,027 over last year while the American's 1947 turnstile total of 9,564,543 represented a decrease of 56,639 from the 1946 gate.

Five National League teams, Brooklyn, New York, Pittsburgh, Boston and St. Louis, and three American League clubs, Cleveland, Boston and Philadelphia, drew more people through their gates than ever before.

Pittsburgh's increase was the most remarkable as the new Pirate owners, with Hank Greenburg and Ralph Kiner as the bait, passed last year's total by 524,485 with a final count of 1,283,602.

All National League teams, except Philadelphia and Cincinnati, hit the 1,000,000 mark and the Phils and Reds were both in the 900,000 class. The Phils, the lone team failing to match the '46 gate in the National, still had their second best mark in history, 906,868.

Butkus Of Colonials Intercepts Snap-Back Pass For Touchdown

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 14 (AP)—Carl Butkus, George Washington University's burly 245-pound tackle, probably is the first lineman in football history to intercept a snap-back pass from the opposing team's center and carry it for a touchdown.

It happened Saturday as G. W. dropped its third straight game of the season, 15 to 6, to Washington and Lee's Generals.

Freshman Joe McCutcheon of Charleston, W. Va., was the W. & L. center. The ball was to be snapped back to Dick Working, the Generals T-formation quarterback. But Working, believing he had seen both sides offside, relaxed and stepped back from his position behind the pivotman just as McCutcheon flipped the ball.

The leather popped ten feet in the air, Butkus grabbed it and raced 34 yards to paydirt as the final whistle blew.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — We understand from those who saw the Army-Illinois football game last Saturday that the Cadets still are waiting for someone to come along and invent the forward pass. One that works, that is.

Army tried just four passes in the game, none of them successful, and even admitting that four consecutive failures might have a tendency to discourage additional attempts, the fact remains practically any team determined to go places doesn't give up so easily, particularly when its progress along the ground is on the stuttering order.

The Cadets might have been willing to settle for a scoreless tie, and were afraid their passes might boomerang. Or, and we are inclined to favor this theory, Earl Blaik is saving up some aerial surprises for Notre Dame.

Last year you almost could call the first two or three offensive plays of Army. Doc Blanchard would take the ball first and whack at the line to see if it had a mushy spot. Then Junior Davis would take the ball out to the right and heave a long, diagonal pass to Doc, who often as not would grab it and go the rest of the way. Anyway, you get the impression that Army still has to reach its full offensive strength, and you get the same idea concerning Notre Dame. The South Benders haven't looked this year much like the bruising, crushing squad which smothered all opponents, except Army, last year, and knowing the material still available there and the ability of Frank Leahy, you wonder a little about it.

Notre Dame received such a terrific pre-season buildup as a team which would be in a class by itself that Leahy probably was a little apprehensive. Football players can read, it is reported, and you keep telling a boy how good he is and first thing you know he thinks all he has to do is take a deep breath and blow and his opponent will be snuffed out like candles on a birthday cake.

That's when he is ripe for picking, and realizing this Leahy conceivable could switch his lineups or curtail the number of plays to be used just to make his athletes appreciate the fact they are not supermen and that victories aren't achieved simply by putting on a Notre Dame uniform and shouting "boo."

Getting away from Army Notre Dame, we have an idea the Pacific Coast is turning a few handsprings over the results of a couple of games in which their teams met Big Nine elevens last week.

When Illinois so thoroughly chastised UCLA in the Rose Bowl this year it was anything but a sugar-coated pill for the westerners particularly as the country at large might have got the idea that West Coast football was of the touch variety.

Last Saturday USC and California made Ohio State and Wisconsin, respectively, look like men who had tried to blow back at a hurricane, and the Pacific Coast Conference now can stand on its hind legs and do a little polite sneering. It bears out Alonzo Stagg's theory that good football is not the sole property of any one section of the country.

Our sleeper in the football picture right now Minnesota. The giant of the north has been dormant too long, and is just beginning to come back to the smothering power it showed before the war. Maybe Bernie Bierman's team hasn't come quite far enough to take Illinois this week, although it wouldn't surprise us too much. But the Gophers certainly are on their way. For a while they were just in their way.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Legion Auxiliary State Head Will Visit Frostburg

Farrady Unit To Install Officers

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Farrady Unit No. 24, American Legion Auxiliary, will entertain Mrs. Nell Lynch, Baltimore, department president, and her staff at the regular meeting to be held Thursday, November 13.

Installation of the unit's new officers for the ensuing year will be a feature of the meeting, with Mrs. Charles Cole, Mountain District vice president, in charge.

Plans for an extensive membership campaign were discussed at a recent meeting of the unit. Mrs. Sara Davis is chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, with a goal of 400 members in 1948.

All persons eligible for membership are urged to contact Mrs. Davis in order to become members prior to the visit of department officers November 13.

The committee in charge of refreshments for that meeting includes Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Leah Yates, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Nell Ravenscroft, Mrs. Freeda Spiker, Mrs. Martha McNeil and Mrs. Alvenia Cole.

Charles Cole, chairman of Farrady Post's child welfare committee, presented the unit with a check for $72 as a start for the child welfare fund. Funds will be donatted monthly by the post, he stated.

Cole said Frostburg child welfare work will be expanded this year because of an increased need, and that all such cases should be reported to the post committee or the auxiliary committee.

The latter group includes Mrs. Anna Durst, unit child welfare chairman; Mrs. Pearl Eberly, Mrs. Martha McNeil, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Annie Laber. This "contact committee" will work in conjunction with Miss Anne Sloan, state child welfare chairman of the Legion.

A committee was named by the unit to meet with the Legion committee next Monday, October 20, in connection with the bazaar which will be held in St. Michael's Hall November 8 through 15 for the benefit of the drum corps.

The group includes Mrs. Ruth Snyder, chairman; Mrs. Spiker, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Eberly, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Ruth Legeer, Mrs. Helen Blocher, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. McNeil, Mrs. Ravenscroft, Mrs. Annie Cathcart, Mrs. Stella Walker, Mrs. Hilda Lewis, Mrs. Anna Shannon and Mrs. Rella Knepp.

A special service, marking the completion of the redecoration and repair of Greenville Lutheran Church of the Salisbury Parish, will be held Sunday, October 19, at 10:30 a. m., with Rev. George E. Bowersox, Jr., pastor, presiding. The church is located a short distance from Pocahontas, Pa., and has many communicant members in the Finzel area.

In the special service of rededication, greetings from former pastors and some of the congregation, already received, will be read. Rev. George E. Bowersox, D. D., Leechburg, Pa., father of the present pastor of the church, will be present and deliver the rededication sermon. He will also preside at a rally to raise sufficient funds to pay the cost of the project, which amounts to $1,600.

The redecoration work was done by the Seaber Art and Decorating Company, Westernport. All frescoing has been done in harmonizing pastel shades of blue, rose and white with narrow gold frieze work separating the various color hues. All woodwork, includilng the pews and floors, has been revarnished in both church and Sunday school rooms. Metal work, including radiators and light cords, has been finisher with bronze gilt.

The art glass windows have been chemically cleaned and the reredos painting of the ascension of Christ has been completely cleaned and retinted, with an appropriate frieze work placed around the painting.

The Greenville Church adjoins the Greenville cemetery, among the oldest burial grounds in Somerset county. The cemetery, once part of the John Warner farm, was presented to the church in a bequest containing a provision that more land may be inclosed for burial purposes at any time more space is needed.

Some of the tombstones on which inscriptions are still legible date back to 1820. Family plots in the cemetery contain the names of many well known families of this section, including Werner, Warner, Crowe, Shoskey, Lintz, Arnold, Yutzy, Miller and many others.

KEYSER, W. Va.—School children in Keyser and other schools in Mineral County are now being dismissed at 3:30 p. m. instead of 4.00 as has been the custom. The change, which took effect yesterday, was made in order that students riding buses would not arrive home so late in the evening.

No actual time is lost from classes, according to County Superintendent of Schools Haven L. Idleman, as the time is being saved by cutting the noon period and the time between class changes. The noon recess is now from 12 until 12:45 and the time between classes is being cut from five to three minutes.

The revision in the specifications will be prepared in the office of W. H. Grant, Jr., and forwarded to contractors who are preparing bids on the structure. The bids are scheduled to be opened Monday evening, October 27. To date four contractors have taken out plans and specifications for possible bidding on the structure.

As Robinson approached the group of children, two dogs ran in front of his car. He struck one of the dogs and the car swerved it struck the boy. No charges will be filed against Robinson.

Hubert Lee, 44, 71 West Piedmont Street, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital yesterday morning suffering from gunshot wounds received in a hunting accident on Knobley Mountain yesterday morning. Legion Auxiliary State Head Will Visit Frostburg

Farrady Unit To Install Officers

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Farrady Unit No. 24, American Legion Auxiliary, will entertain Mrs. Nell Lynch, Baltimore, department president, and her staff at the regular meeting to be held Thursday, November 13.

Installation of the unit's new officers for the ensuing year will be a feature of the meeting, with Mrs. Charles Cole, Mountain District vice president, in charge.

Plans for an extensive membership campaign were discussed at a recent meeting of the unit. Mrs. Sara Davis is chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, with a goal of 400 members in 1948.

All persons eligible for membership are urged to contact Mrs. Davis in order to become members prior to the visit of department officers November 13.

The committee in charge of refreshments for that meeting includes Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Leah Yates, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Nell Ravenscroft, Mrs. Freeda Spiker, Mrs. Martha McNeil and Mrs. Alvenia Cole.

Charles Cole, chairman of Farrady Post's child welfare committee, presented the unit with a check for $72 as a start for the child welfare fund. Funds will be donatted monthly by the post, he stated.

Cole said Frostburg child welfare work will be expanded this year because of an increased need, and that all such cases should be reported to the post committee or the auxiliary committee.

The latter group includes Mrs. Anna Durst, unit child welfare chairman; Mrs. Pearl Eberly, Mrs. Martha McNeil, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Annie Laber. This "contact committee" will work in conjunction with Miss Anne Sloan, state child welfare chairman of the Legion.

A committee was named by the unit to meet with the Legion committee next Monday, October 20, in connection with the bazaar which will be held in St. Michael's Hall November 8 through 15 for the benefit of the drum corps.

The group includes Mrs. Ruth Snyder, chairman; Mrs. Spiker, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Eberly, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Ruth Legeer, Mrs. Helen Blocher, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. McNeil, Mrs. Ravenscroft, Mrs. Annie Cathcart, Mrs. Stella Walker, Mrs. Hilda Lewis, Mrs. Anna Shannon and Mrs. Rella Knepp.

A special service, marking the completion of the redecoration and repair of Greenville Lutheran Church of the Salisbury Parish, will be held Sunday, October 19, at 10:30 a. m., with Rev. George E. Bowersox, Jr., pastor, presiding. The church is located a short distance from Pocahontas, Pa., and has many communicant members in the Finzel area.

In the special service of rededication, greetings from former pastors and some of the congregation, already received, will be read. Rev. George E. Bowersox, D. D., Leechburg, Pa., father of the present pastor of the church, will be present and deliver the rededication sermon. He will also preside at a rally to raise sufficient funds to pay the cost of the project, which amounts to $1,600.

The redecoration work was done by the Seaber Art and Decorating Company, Westernport. All frescoing has been done in harmonizing pastel shades of blue, rose and white with narrow gold frieze work separating the various color hues. All woodwork, includilng the pews and floors, has been revarnished in both church and Sunday school rooms. Metal work, including radiators and light cords, has been finisher with bronze gilt.

The art glass windows have been chemically cleaned and the reredos painting of the ascension of Christ has been completely cleaned and retinted, with an appropriate frieze work placed around the painting.

The Greenville Church adjoins the Greenville cemetery, among the oldest burial grounds in Somerset county. The cemetery, once part of the John Warner farm, was presented to the church in a bequest containing a provision that more land may be inclosed for burial purposes at any time more space is needed.

Some of the tombstones on which inscriptions are still legible date back to 1820. Family plots in the cemetery contain the names of many well known families of this section, including Werner, Warner, Crowe, Shoskey, Lintz, Arnold, Yutzy, Miller and many others.

Radio Actor Will Face Grand Jury In Shooting Case

William Johns, Georgia radio entertainer, who Hampshire County authorities said admitted shooting a Paw Paw, W. Va., tannery worker in the hip with a 16 gauge shotgun July 29 as the result of a dispute over the adoption of a two-year-old child, is being held in the Hampshire County jail at Romney for action of the January grand jury.

Johns was charged with attempting to disfigure, mangle or kill Eddon Cowgill, 37, Woodrow, near Paw Paw, at the hearing Friday before Justice of the Peace T. E. Pownall in Romney, and was committed to jail after he failed to post bond, according to Sheriff C. H. Parsons of Hampshire County.

Cowgill, who was seriously injured when the blast from a 16 gauge shotgun pierced his left hip, has been taken to his home from Potomac Valley Hospital. Hampshire authorities said his general condition is good but that there is a question as to whether he will regain the use of the injured leg.

Authorities said Johns, who was traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hill, members of the "Georgia Hill Billies" spent several days at Woodrow late in July when they were stranded by car trouble. After being attracted to a 2-year-old girl there, the Hill's began legal proceedings to adopt the child.

Trooper F. H. Tribett, who assisted in the investigation, explained Cowgill contended Hill and his wife had adopted the child of whom he claimed to be the father. Hill, police said, had gone to Paw Paw to call authorities to prevent Cowgill from disturbing them when Johns shot Cowgill who he said insisted upon entering the trailer.

If You Plan To Buy A New Car
Here are two practical suggestions:
1. It will pay you to see your automobile dealer now
He can tell you more than anybody else about deliveries, models and prices. If you list your name with the dealer he will be glad to send you descriptive literature and other useful information as it is available. And when the cars are rolling off the assembly lines, your dealer will be in a position to get your car faster, if you cooperate with him now.
2. It will pay you to finance your new car purchase through The First National Bank
The First National Bank will finance your car at the low rate of $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. Here's the way this plan works:

Suppose your car, including insurance, amounts to	$1500.00
Down payment of 1/3	500.00
Your loan amounts to	1000.00
Your interest cost	50.00
Total amount borrowed	1050.00
Payable in 12 monthly payments	87.50

The loan can be extended to a period of 15 months, if you desire. If you wish, you can include the cost of insurance in your loan. The only charge is $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. We make no other charges. You can request of your dealer that your purchase be financed through this bank. You do not have to be a depositor in the First National Bank to take advantage of this plan.

Sunday James H. Allison, Mrs. Allison, and children, Ruth, James and Robert Allison, former residents of Meyersdale, during which time Mr. Allison was connected with the local dairy operated by Mr. Lauver, arrived in Meyersdale and spent the day calling upon former friends and neighbors, among them Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shoemaker, William Grasser, Jr., and others. Mr. Allison is connected with the KaVee Icecream Company at Belleville, Pa.

Brief Items

Fred Dawson, Meridian, Miss., spent the past several days here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Dawson, Beachly Street, and other friends and relatives.

The body of the late Daniel L. Miller, founder and president of the First National Bank of Confluence, was brought here for interment in the Union Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Mr. Miller was a native of Summit township, having been born on the farm just south of Meyersdale borough limits, for many years conducted by his father, the late Samuel J. Miller, and now owned by John B. Meyers. Only one member of a large family, Miss Eliza Miller, remains. She resides on Salisbury Street, Meyersdale.

Lieutenant Commander Henry J. Roterige (ChC), is the first Catholic chaplain ever to be assigned to the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland.

PROGRESS ON EVERY FRONT

★ The advance of medicine against the enemy, disease, sweeps forward on every front. Techniques of anesthesia have improved to make possible surgical procedures denied to the practitioner of the twenties. Highly refined and specialized mechanical aids, including the x-ray, fluoroscope, and electrocardiograph, have sharpened diagnostic skills. Testing of the blood and urine reveals more significant facts to the physician than ever before.
In support of the physician, the pharmaceutical chemist continues to forge new chemical and biological weapons to fight disease. Insulin for the management of diabetes mellitus, liver extract for pernicious anemia, sulfa drugs, and penicillin are examples. Your physician and your pharmacist are alert to apply the improved procedures as they become available.

If You Plan To Buy A New Car
Here are two practical suggestions:
1. It will pay you to see your automobile dealer now
He can tell you more than anybody else about deliveries, models and prices. If you list your name with the dealer he will be glad to send you descriptive literature and other useful information as it is available. And when the cars are rolling off the assembly lines, your dealer will be in a position to get your car faster, if you cooperate with him now.
2. It will pay you to finance your new car purchase through The First National Bank
The First National Bank will finance your car at the low rate of $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. Here's the way this plan works:
Suppose your car, including insurance, amounts to $1500.00
Down payment of 1/3 ..... 500.00
Your loan amounts to 1000.00
Your interest cost 50.00
Total amount borrowed 1050.00
Payable in 12 monthly payments 87.50
The loan can be extended to a period of 15 months, if you desire. If you wish, you can include the cost of insurance in your loan. The only charge is $5 per hundred per year on the amount borrowed. We make no other charges. You can request of your dealer that your purchase be financed through this bank. You do not have to be a depositor in the First National Bank to take advantage of this plan.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—(INS)—The deal for Columbia to buy "Anna Lucasta" has gone through, but it is not for Rita Hayworth.

Joan Barton

John Wildberg, producer, who had talked to so many people about buying the film rights, stepped out of the Columbia deal, and it was Phil Yordan, the author, who signed the necessary papers.

Paulette Goddard has not yet agreed to play "Anna Lucasta." I reckon all this vacillating was too much for her, but since she's doing the stage play, Columbia may be able to get her.

Before Phyllis Calvert left Hollywood she told me she had until Oct. 16 to leave this country. If she stayed longer, she would have had to pay tax in both England and America. She sailed Saturday on the Queen Elizabeth and will return here in the fall.

Upon her arrival in London she will star in "Peter Pan". Her husband, Peter Murray-Hill plays Captain Hawks.

Everything was as social as Emily Post until they adjourned to Bill Cagney's home, where the writer, Bill Morrow, and Madman Muntz had a knockdown, drag-out battle over the Madman's ex-wife, Margie.

I was talking to A. Pam Blumenthal, head of Cinecolor, and he tells me he has made great plans for Film Classics which he has bought lock, stock and barrel.

I knew that Film Classics bought up re-issues of favorite films and built it up into quite a business. But I didn't know the new setup would release new films of their own and from other independents.

Tyrone Power cables from Khartoum to say he is heading for Athens. Lana Turner, who had her passports, will head for New York Oct. 24 to appear in "Green Dolphin Street." She decided against going to Europe at this time.

Lunched with Pierre Balmain, the French couturier, and Orry-Kelly. Balmain designed most of Mrs. Jack Warner's clothes. Ann looks simply marvelous. She's never been so slender nor looked happier.

Jean Peters wires she's having a wonderful time on location with "Deep Water," formerly "Spoonhandle"—and for the first time in her life she went on a lobster fishing trip.

Joe DiMaggio will stop at Johns Hopkins hospital for a checkup before he comes to Hollywood.

The Joseph Cottens are driving to the coast in their new car and Rita Hayworth, who was with them at the World Series, is also due back any day.

Ann Rutherford gave a party for the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. That boy certainly is getting attention. By the way, it's Virginia Fields and not Virginia Bruce he's been escorting to the various places.

Talked with Irene Dunne, who was having dinner with Dr. Griffin, Verbena Hebbard and a party of friends. She says "I Remember Mama" is on the home stretch and will be finished shortly.

Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dennis Morgan, Kay Kyser, William Crespinel, Frank Borzage and a lot of other movie folk attended the opening—and it was a regular opening—of Maurie Luxford's sports shop.

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—It being that ABC calls its "big night" again Wednesday, the network continues to stress its mid-week talent line-up. The point it is bringing up this time is that Dinah Shore, ex-CBS but without a program series right now, will be on hand for the Bing Crosby show at 10. In fact it is a foregone conclusion that she will, for this is the half-hour that is put on records ahead of the broadcast.

Also there are the Vox Poppers at 8:30, ABC. They are doing their questions from Matha's Vinl ard in Massachusetts, where they plan to delve or dive into deep sea fishing fro mthe standpoint of those who qualify as champions in this endeavor.

Still without what the sponsor might consider a proper title, the multi - named Morgan (Frank), Ameche (Don) Langford (Frances), comes again to CBS at 9 in its weekly series in the old Frank Sinatra time. Right afterward at 9:30 will be the second performance of Sweeney and March, ex-Saturday nighters, in their new time.

Harry James has set a new novelty band, with plans all made to give a sample of the results in Duffy's Tavern as talked for NBC at 9 by Ed, the Archie, Gardner . . . Second Mrs. Burton, CBS day-timer at 2 which eacl. Wednesday has what it lists as a "Guest Counselor," will present Prof. Mary Langmuir of Vassar in the theme "A Happy Family—If." . . . Speaker in the CBS talks time at 6:15 will be George C. McGhee, coordinator of Green-Turkish aid, just returned from overseas.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"So you don't care for poetry, Cedric?"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

Moss Hart certainly started something some years back with his play "Lady in the Dark" which later became a highly successful movie. Pretty soon all Hollywood, a city of monstrous neuroses, plunged into psychoanalysis and no picture was complete without a trauma lurking somewhere just under the greasepaint. Well, the theme ran its course, the flame of introspection died and the situation was pretty well back to the normal boy-girl relationships when Mr. Hart came up with another play, "Christopher Blake," in which the playwright dove headlong into the cranium and psychoses of a young boy.

I doubt that this will start Hollywood on another psychoanalytical spree, but it appears to have stirred up quite a little activity in radio. The Columbia Broadcasting System followed up M. Hart's play with a series of splendid dramas on child psychology called "Doorway To Life" (1:30 p. m. E.S.T. Sundays). At the risk of affronting all drama lovers, I should like to say that C.B.S. has succeeded both dramtically and psychologically far better than Mr. Hart. I can recommend the C.B.S. series, not only to parents, but to childless persons who may be interested in them simply as absorbing studies of child behaviourism, and incidentally, deeply moving dramas.

Now the Mutual Broadcasting System has got into the act with a series of three documentaries called "Your Children Today." The first of these was devoted to the mental traumas of youngsters who grew from infanthood to childhood during the difficult war years. On this program a six-year-old named Georgie was psychoanalyzed from head to foot. Georgie's father had marched off to war when he was two and didn't return until he was six. And a very scary little libido Georgie developed in the meantime. The return of the father just aggravated Georgie's neuroses and in the chilling climax to the drama, he quietly asked his mother why Daddy hadn't been rubbed out in the war as had Peter's father.

Like the C.B.S. program, Mutual's series is aimed at fostering greater understanding of children among both parents and teachers. The second half of the program was devoted to straightning out young Georgie's subconscious, and here—little as I know about child psycholoy — I feel the methods used were too easy and the conclusions reached were far too sweeping. Nevertheless, it was an excellent broadcast, if only to call attention to a problem which not many of us have thought about. The dramatization is not nearly so good as the C.B.S. series, but it's good enough.

There will be two other programs on later, unannounced dates. If you're one of those persons who think of the mind of a child as a repository of roseate, picture-book dreams, perhaps you'd better avoid them.

And while we're on the subject, WOV in New York is broadcasting a series on education for parenthood, called "The American Family (9:00 p.m. E.S.T. Wednesdays). They have just completed a series of eight dramatizations dealing with the causes and prevention of divorce and future programs will explore and offer solutions to other types of family problems. The writing is rather commonplace in these dramas; nevertheless they deserve mention because they deal boldly with illegitimacy, infertility, sexual maladjustments and birth control - topics which are generally strictly avoided by broadcasters.

Bullish Forces Resume Control Of Market In Lively Upswings

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Bullish forces resumed control of the stock market today and leading issues were given one of their broadest, liveliest upswings of the past year or so.

Buying demand piled up over the Monday holiday and activity in the forenoon amounting to 710,000 shares was the best for this period since May 19. Steels paced the initial rise, followed by aircrafts, motores, oils, rails and a wide assortment of industrials. There were subsequent slowdowns but the ticker tape generally maintained a fast gait. The day's aggregate of 1,810,000 shares compared with 1, 120,000 Friday and was a top since May 19.

Touching peaks for 1947 were Youngstown Sheet, up 2⅝ at 78⅞; Lukens Steel, 2¼ at 26¼, Chrysler 2½ at 65¼, Hudson Motors 1½ at 20⅞, Mission Corporation 2½ at 52, Warren Petroleum 1¼ at 42½, American Smelting 1¼ at 66⅜ and Deere 1¼ at 45¼.

Union Pacific climbed 5⅛ at 145⅛, Amerada Petroleum 3¾ at 84, Skelly Oil 2¾ at 91¾ and Phillips Petroleum 2¼ at 61½. Up 1 to 2 or so were U. S. Steel at 74⅝, Bethlehem 92, General Motors 60¼, U. S. Rubber 47¾, Woolworth 48, International Harvester 90⅞, Douglas Aircraft 64½, Glenn Martin 19⅛, Bendix 34½, du Pont 190, Schenley 38, Publicker 29⅛, Corn Products 67¼, American Woolen 48⅜, Santa Fe 85, Southern Pacific 45¼ and Illinoic Central 28.

Standard Oil (NJ) was up 1⅜ at 75⅝ and, after the close, a secondary offeringu of 40,000 shares of this issue was announced at the final quotation.

In the curb Chamberlin Company stregnthened in the wake of a split-up proposal. In front were Atlas Plywood, Aluminum of America, Cities Service, Continental Foundry and Logansport distilling. Turnover here was 420,000 shares versus 270,000 in the previous full session.

Railroad bonds followed a generally upward course in the market while other groups held in a narrow range with renewed liquidation in some of the low-yield issues a feature.

A block of five U. S. Government 2½s due in June 1972 sold at 102.12 on the stock exchange, off 18-32 of a point, and a block of five World Bank third of 1972 sold at 100, un changed.

Sales of $6,070,000 were the largest since July 16 and compared with $4,060,000 last Friday.

Dorothy Flynn vs. Thomas DeSales Flynn. No. 20319 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Divorce "A VINCULO MATRIMONII," by the Complainant, Dorothy Flynn, against her husband, Thomas DeSales Flynn, the Respondent.

The Bill states, that on or about the 17th day of December, 1945, the said Dorothy Flynn and Thomas DeSales Flynn, were married, and they resided together in Allegany County, Maryland, until the 18th day of March, 1946. That, though the conduct of your Oratrix, the said Dorothy Flynn, towards her husband, Thomas DeSales Flynn, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Thomas DeSales Flynn, has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least eighteen months and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

That there were no children born of this marriage and that the said Dorothy Flynn is a resident of the State of Maryland, and the said Thomas DeSales Flynn, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon, this 23rd day of September, 1947, ordered by the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of October, 1947, give notice to the said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of November, 1947, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON, Clerk.

Bullish Forces Resume Control Of Market In Lively Upswings

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Bullish forces resumed control of the stock market today and leading issues were given one of their broadest, liveliest upswings of the past year or so.

Buying demand piled up over the Monday holiday and activity in the forenoon amounting to 710,000 shares was the best for this period since May 19. Steels paced the initial rise, followed by aircrafts, motores, oils, rails and a wide assortment of industrials. There were subsequent slowdowns but the ticker tape generally maintained a fast gait. The day's aggregate of 1,810,000 shares compared with 1, 120,000 Friday and was a top since May 19.

Touching peaks for 1947 were Youngstown Sheet, up 2⅝ at 78⅞; Lukens Steel, 2¼ at 26¼, Chrysler 2½ at 65¼, Hudson Motors 1½ at 20⅞, Mission Corporation 2½ at 52, Warren Petroleum 1¼ at 42½, American Smelting 1¼ at 66⅜ and Deere 1¼ at 45¼.

Union Pacific climbed 5¼ at 145¼, Amerada Petroleum 3¾ at 84, Skelly Oil 2⅜ at 91¾ and Phillips Petroleum 2¼ at 61½. Up 1 to 2 or so were U. S. Steel at 74⅝, Bethlehem 92, General Motors 60¼, U. S. Rubber 47¾, Woolworth 48, International Harvester 90¾, Douglas Aircraft 64½, Glenn Martin 19⅛, Bendix 34½, du Pont 190, Schenley 38, Publicker 29¼, Corn Products 67¼, American Woolen 48⅜, Santa Fe 85, Southern Pacific 45¼ and Illinoic Central 28.

Standard Oil (NJ) was up 1⅝ at 75⅝ and, after the close, a secondary offeringu of 40,000 shares of this issue was announced at the final quotation.

In the curb Chamberlin Company stregnthened in the wake of a split-up proposal. In front were Atlas Plywood, Aluminum of America, Cities Service, Continental Foundry and Logansport distilling. Turnover here was 420,000 shares versus 270,000 in the previous full session.

Railroad bonds followed a generally upward course in the market while other groups held in a narrow range with renewed liquidation in some of the low-yield issues a feature.

A block of five U. S. Government 2½s due in June 1972 sold at 102.12 on the stock exchange, off 18-32 of a point, and a block of five World Bank third of 1972 sold at 100, un changed.

Sales of $6,070,000 were the largest since July 16 and compared with $4,060,000 last Friday.

Dorothy Flynn vs. Thomas DeSales Flynn. No. 20319 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Divorce "A VINCULO MATRIMONII," by the Complainant, Dorothy Flynn, against her husband, Thomas DeSales Flynn, the Respondent.

The Bill states, that on or about the 17th day of December, 1945, the said Dorothy Flynn and Thomas DeSales Flynn, were married, and they resided together in Allegany County, Maryland, until the 18th day of March, 1946. That, though the conduct of your Oratrix, the said Dorothy Flynn, towards her husband, Thomas DeSales Flynn, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said Thomas DeSales Flynn, has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least eighteen months and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

That there were no children born of this marriage and that the said Dorothy Flynn is a resident of the State of Maryland, and the said Thomas DeSales Flynn, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon, this 23rd day of September, 1947 ordered by the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of October, 1947, give notice to the said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of November, 1947, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Mrs. Lewis Millhollaud, Jr., Bowling Green, chairman of the Cresaptown lay health group, was elected chairman of the new Public Health Lay Council for Allegany County, which was organized at a meeting last night in City Hall auditorium.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. Milton McIntyre, Westernport, vice-chairman; Mrs. Leona Wilson, Mt. Savage, secretary, and Lester Kolb, Flintstone, treasurer.

Bylaws fo rthe new organization, which is designed to co-ordinate the efforts of the various lay groups working at the county's 12 health centers, were outlined by Mrs. Arthur Evans, chairman of the bylaws committee.

Miss Margaret Morrissey, public health nurse for the Cresaptown district, who helped to organize lay workers in that section, explained that Mrs. Millholland will furnish each lay group with a schedule of clinics held regularly in Cumberland, so that interested workers may volunteer their services or visit the clinics.

Will Name Chairmen

Each public health nurse was asked to see that a chairman is appointed for the lay group in her particular district of the county, to aid in developing the overall county organization.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said although emphasis is being placed at first on securing volunteers to assist at clinics, other activities will also be available, such as audiometer work and visual testin at the public schools.

Although infant and dental clinics are held throughout the county, several clinics are held only in Cumberland, such as pediatric, pre-natal, tuberculosis and orthopedic clinics, Miss Morrissey pointed out.

Since one objective of the new county organization is education in public health, residents of surrounding areas are invited to visit those clinics, she said.

Lay Group Praised

Dr. Frantz praised the Cresaptown lay group, which last year numbered 170 volunteers assisting at 141 clinics. Mrs. Millholland said she will resign as chairman of the Cresaptown group. Mrs. Evans, the vice-chairman, is expected to succeed her.

Individuals and service, fraternal and civic groups are invited to join the county group to further public health work and to aid the Health Department in evaluating and expanding its program, Dr. Frantz said.

Mrs. John Durst, chairman of the community service group of the Woman's Civic Club, represented the club at the meeting.

Midland Property Subject Of Equity Dispute In Court

A bill of complaint was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lionel D. Baker and Catherine R. Baker against T. Walter Lippold and Ruth C. Lippold, in an effort to clear a title to real estate and settle a dispute over the amount of the purchase and selling price.

The petitioners contend they entered into an agreement with the Lippolds August 1, 1944 to buy land designated as Lot No. 13, Koontz Addition, Midland, for $2,800, and made several payments on account.

Later the Lippolds refused to go through with the sale at the agreed price of $2,900, the petition states, and the petitioners agreed to pay $3,300 for the property.

The deal was closed and a deed prepared and recorded on April 30, 1945. The petitioners say they paid the full amount with the exception of $300, which was covered by a note for that amount plus interest of $34.61. The petitioners claim the Lippolds gave refused to accept payment of the note, and also claim $740 due on a previously issued note, which the Bakers claim was paid.

Albert A. Doub, attorney for the petitioners charges an effort is being made to "cloud the title" of the property, and prays such relief as the Court may direct.

County Board Studies Grand Jury Proposals

Will Accept Bids For Reroofing Job

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday read the October Grand Jury report at their regular meeting and indicated some of the recommendations of the investigating body, pertaining to Court House and other county property repairs and improvements will be acted upon.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said the suggestions pertaining to the County Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat are already underway and conditions there are constantly being improved.

The pigeon nuisance was discussed, and it was explained that attendants and custodians at the Court House have made repeated efforts to rid the building of the birds. Commissioners said they have been reluctant to order the birds killed, because of the possible furore that would be raised by bird lovers. Several recent grand jury reports have urged action against the pigeons which have been ruining the building.

Wilkinson said the board intends to check with the state and determine if office furniture and fixtures in the register of wills office and the court's offices should be replaced by the county or state. Revenues from the two offices goes to the state, he explained, and the board here believes the state should provide equipment. Recent legislation passed regarding office furniture in public buildings is to be checked to determine which governing body is responsible, he added.

Commissioners said bids will be received October 28, for reroofing the Union Street County building, after John T. Fey, commander of the local Marine Corps Reserve asked that repairs be made. Fey told the Board, the Marines, which occupy a part of the third floor of the building, have spent considerable money in renovating their quarters, but fear that the roof will leak and will damage new plaster and their equipment.

Mrs. Walter T. Shaffer asked for repairs to a bridge over Wills Creek at Corriganville. She said three families and 11 children use the bridge and it is in bad condition.

D. T. Poffenberger, Little Orleans, asked for repairs to a road in that area. Mrs. Edward H. Martz, Vocke Road, complained that workman resurfacing the highway had covered a drain pipe from the cellar in her home.

Mrs. Fiske said reports at a sub-committee meeting Monday night showed the group's boycott of meats costing more than 55 cents a pound has had a definite effect upon the price of meats here.

Pedestrian Hit By Car Awarded $5,000 By Jury

Other Civil Cases Settled Out Of Court

A jury of inquisition returned a verdict of $5,000 for Pearl C. Brooks, Independence Street, in a civil damage suit brought against Mrs. Elina Shirah, former Grantsville resident.

Represented by Harold E. Naughton, attorney, the plaintiff asked for $5,000 damages as the result of injuries suffered May 24, 1944, when struck by an auto in LaVale, allegedly driven by Mrs. Shirah. The Brooks woman was walking along the highway after she got out of her car en route to visit friends, she said.

She claimed she suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and other injuries and was hospitalized for some time.

Mrs. Shirah had engaged Edward J. Ryan as her counsel but failed to appear to contest the suit. Judgment was then entered by default, and the jury became a jury of inquisition, charged with the duty of fixing the amount of the judgment. After deliberating only a few minutes the veniremen returned a verdict for the full amount of the claim.

The jurors included Andrew J. Gank, foreman; Everett W. Clem, Terrence J. Devlin, William H. DuVall, George A. Strieber, James W. Morris, Samuel A. Neat, Herbert C. Heineman, William M. Cuthbertson, Frank R. Williams, Francis B. McDermott, and Robert C. Kergan, Jr.

Two divorce decrees were signed yesterday by Chief Judge Huster in the cases of Simon F. Piper vs. Anna Mae Piper; and Alfretta Metz, vs. Leslie A. Metz.

The jury was excused until this morning at 9:15 a. m., when additional civil cases are scheduled.

Official Issues Warning To Elks Against Gaming

Any Elks lodge permitting "excessive gambling" in its building or headquarters in the coming year faces revocation of its charter, Richard D. Munson, Hagerstown, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks for Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia West, said last night.

Munson was the guest of elective and appointive officers of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, at a dinner meeting at the Clary Club on the occasion of his annual visit.

He will visit Cumberland Lodge No. 63 tonight, when the local lodge will initiate a class of candidates in his honor.

Munson did not elaborate upon his statement except to say that no specific lodge was referred to, and that "commercialized" gambling will not be permitted.

He also stated that no advertised membership campaign will be conducted by Elks lodges in the United States this year, because the organization's aim is "quality, not quantity." Instead, he explained, each lodge will name a group to approach desirable prospective members and invite them to join.

Munson said every Elks lodge will be notified two weeks ahead of the time that the Freedom Train, the special government exhibit bearing priceless historical documents, is due in its area. Lodges are urged to encourage their members and local residents to visit the exhibit when it arrives.

George A. Render, Frostburg, was initiated into Frostburg Lodge by the degree team directed by Joseph Montana, exalted ruler, and Munson complimented the officers on the lodge's ritualistic work.

He also praised the lodge for sending its quota of underprivileged boys to an Elks-sponsored camp last summer at Camp Ritchie.

He said each lodge is being urged to sponsor a Boy Scout troop, especially in underprivileged sections of its community. Munson was accompanied by Charles N. Musser, a member of the Hagerstown lodge.

Community Christmas Festival Of Music Set For December 15, 16, 17

A three day "Community Christmas Festival of Music" will be held December 15, 16 and 17 under the general direction of Jack E. Platt, supervisor of music of Allegany County Schools and sponsored by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, Mayor Thomas S. Post, Myers G. Light and Ralph L. Rizer. It will be actually a countywide affair as people from throughout the county will participate, Mr. Platt said last night.

While in Europe this past summer, Mr. Platt was tremendously impressed with the number of music festivals held throughout Western Europe. Believing no similar festival has been held in this country, it is his intention to create the same sort of community festival in Cumberland, designed to create a proper feeling of the Christmas season.

Upon his return the possibilities were discussed with Mr. Kopp and a poll made of prominent citizens to ascertain their reaction. Receiving a favorable report, Mr. Platt then took the idea up with Mayor Post, Mr. Light and Mr. Rizer.

On the opening night, December 15, a concert of the J. F. Bach, "Christmas Oratorio," will be presented by the Cumberland Choral Society, on the stage of a local high school.

The second night of the festival will be held in the plaza of the city hall, where a large Christmas tree will be lighted with suitable ceremones, by Mayor Post and city officials.

On that evening a community

Officers Elected, By-Laws Discussed By Lay Group

Public Health Work Program Outlined

Mrs. Lewis Millhollaud, Jr., Bowling Green, chairman of the Cresaptown lay health group, was elected chairman of the new Public Health Lay Council for Allegany County, which was organized at a meeting last night in City Hall auditorium.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. Milton McIntyre, Westernport, vice-chairman; Mrs. Leona Wilson, Mt. Savage, secretary, and Lester Kolb, Flintstone, treasurer.

Bylaws fo rthe new organization, which is designed to co-ordinate the efforts of the various lay groups working at the county's 12 health centers, were outlined by Mrs. Arthur Evans, chairman of the bylaws committee.

Miss Margaret Morrissey, public health nurse for the Cresaptown district, who helped to organize lay workers in that section, explained that Mrs. Millholland will furnish each lay group with a schedule of clinics held regularly in Cumberland, so that interested workers may volunteer their services or visit the clinics.

Will Name Chairmen

Each public health nurse was asked to see that a chairman is appointed for the lay group in her particular district of the county, to aid in developing the overall county organization.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said although emphasis is being placed at first on securing volunteers to assist at clinics, other activities will also be available, such as audiometer work and visual testin at the public schools.

Although infant and dental clinics are held throughout the county, several clinics are held only in Cumberland, such as pediatric, pre-natal, tuberculosis and orthopedic clinics, Miss Morrissey pointed out.

Since one objective of the new county organization is education in public health, residents of surrounding areas are invited to visit those clinics, she said.

Lay Group Praised

Dr. Frantz praised the Cresaptown lay group, which last year numbered 170 volunteers assisting at 141 clinics. Mrs. Millholland said she will resign as chairman of the Cresaptown group. Mrs. Evans, the vice-chairman, is expected to succeed her.

Individuals and service, fraternal and civic groups are invited to join the county group to further public health work and to aid the Health Department in evaluating and expanding its program, Dr. Frantz said.

Mrs. John Durst, chairman of the community service group of the Woman's Civic Club, represented the club at the meeting.

Midland Property Subject Of Equity Dispute In Court

A bill of complaint was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lionel D. Baker and Catherine R. Baker against T. Walter Lippold and Ruth C. Lippold, in an effort to clear a title to real estate and settle a dispute over the amount of the purchase and selling price.

The petitioners contend they entered into an agreement with the Lippolds August 1, 1944 to buy land designated as Lot No. 13, Koontz Addition, Midland, for $2,800, and made several payments on account.

Later the Lippolds refused to go through with the sale at the agreed price of $2,900, the petition states, and the petitioners agreed to pay $3,300 for the property.

The deal was closed and a deed prepared and recorded on April 30, 1945. The petitioners say they paid the full amount with the exception of $300, which was covered by a note for that amount plus interest of $34.61. The petitioners claim the Lippolds gave refused to accept payment of the note, and also claim $740 due on a previously issued note, which the Bakers claim was paid.

Albert A. Doub, attorney for the petitioners charges an effort is being made to "cloud the title" of the property, and prays such relief as the Court may direct.

County Board Studies Grand Jury Proposals

Will Accept Bids For Reroofing Job

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday read the October Grand Jury report at their regular meeting and indicated some of the recommendations of the investigating body, pertaining to Court House and other county property repairs and improvements will be acted upon.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said the suggestions pertaining to the County Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat are already underway and conditions there are constantly being improved.

The pigeon nuisance was discussed, and it was explained that attendants and custodians at the Court House have made repeated efforts to rid the building of the birds. Commissioners said they have been reluctant to order the birds killed, because of the possible furore that would be raised by bird lovers. Several recent grand jury reports have urged action against the pigeons which have been ruining the building.

Wilkinson said the board intends to check with the state and determine if office furniture and fixtures in the register of wills office and the court's offices should be replaced by the county or state. Revenues from the two offices goes to the state, he explained, and the board here believes the state should provide equipment. Recent legislation passed regarding office furniture in public buildings is to be checked to determine which governing body is responsible, he added.

Commissioners said bids will be received October 28, for reroofing the Union Street County building, after John T. Fey, commander of the local Marine Corps Reserve asked that repairs be made. Fey told the Board, the Marines, which occupy a part of the third floor of the building, have spent considerable money in renovating their quarters, but fear that the roof will leak and will damage new plaster and their equipment.

Mrs. Walter T. Shaffer asked for repairs to a bridge over Wills Creek at Corriganville. She said three families and 11 children use the bridge and it is in bad condition.

D. T. Poffenberger, Little Orleans, asked for repairs to a road in that area. Mrs. Edward H. Martz, Vocke Road, complained that workman resurfacing the highway had covered a drain pipe from the cellar in her home.

Delegates will also be elected to appear before a Congressional hearing on living costs to be held in Baltimore late this month.

Mrs. Fiske said reports at a sub-committee meeting Monday night showed the group's boycott of meats costing more than 55 cents a pound has had a definite effect upon the price of meats here.

Reports will also be given on the circulation of petitions calling for a special session of Congress to act on the cost of living problem.

Community Christmas Festival Of Music Set For December 15, 16, 17

Platt, supervisor of music of Allegany County Schools and sponsored by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, Mayor Thomas S. Post, Myers G. Light and Ralph L. Rizer. It will be actually a countywide affair as people from throughout the county will participate, Mr. Platt said last night.

While in Europe this past summer, Mr. Platt was tremendously impressed with the number of music festivals held throughout Western Europe. Believing no similar festival has been held in this country, it is his intention to create the same sort of community festival in Cumberland, designed to create a proper feeling of the Christmas season.

Upon his return the possibilities were discussed with Mr. Kopp and a poll made of prominent citizens to ascertain their reaction. Receiving a favorable report, Mr. Platt then took the idea up with Mayor Post, Mr. Light and Mr. Rizer.

On the opening night, December 15, a concert of the J. F. Bach, "Christmas Oratorio," will be presented by the Cumberland Choral Society, on the stage of a local high school.

The second night of the festival will be held in the plaza of the city hall, where a large Christmas tree will be lighted with suitable ceremones, by Mayor Post and city officials.

Pedestrian Hit By Car Awarded $5,000 By Jury

Other Civil Cases Settled Out Of Court

A jury of inquisition returned a verdict of $5,000 for Pearl C. Brooks, Independence Street, in a civil damage suit brought against Mrs. Elina Shirah, former Grantsville resident.

Represented by Harold E. Naughton, attorney, the plaintiff asked for $5,000 damages as the result of injuries suffered May 24, 1944, when struck by an auto in LaVale, allegedly driven by Mrs. Shirah. The Brooks woman was walking along the highway after she got out of her car en route to visit friends, she said.

She claimed she suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and other injuries and was hospitalized for some time.

Mrs. Shirah had engaged Edward J. Ryan as her counsel but failed to appear to contest the suit. Judgment was then entered by default, and the jury became a jury of inquisition, charged with the duty of fixing the amount of the judgment. After deliberating only a few minutes the veniremen returned a verdict for the full amount of the claim.

The jurors included Andrew J. Gank, foreman; Everett W. Clem, Terrence J. Devlin, William H. DuVall, George A. Strieber, James W. Morris, Samuel A. Neat, Herbert C. Heineman, William M. Cuthbertson, Frank R. Williams, Francis B. McDermott, and Robert C. Kergan, Jr.

Munson, Hagerstown, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks for Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia West, said last night.

Munson was the guest of elective and appointive officers of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, at a dinner meeting at the Clary Club on the occasion of his annual visit.

He will visit Cumberland Lodge No. 63 tonight, when the local lodge will initiate a class of candidates in his honor.

Munson did not elaborate upon his statement except to say that no specific lodge was referred to, and that "commercialized" gambling will not be permitted.

He also stated that no advertised membership campaign will be conducted by Elks lodges in the United States this year, because the organization's aim is "quality, not quantity." Instead, he explained, each lodge will name a group to approach desirable prospective members and invite them to join.

Munson said every Elks lodge will be notified two weeks ahead of the time that the Freedom Train, the special government exhibit bearing priceless historical documents, is due in its area. Lodges are urged to encourage their members and local residents to visit the exhibit when it arrives.

George A. Render, Frostburg, was initiated into Frostburg Lodge by the degree team directed by Joseph Montana, exalted ruler, and Munson complimented the officers on the lodge's ritualistic work.

He also praised the lodge for sending its quota of underprivileged boys to an Elks-sponsored camp last summer at Camp Ritchie.

He said each lodge is being urged to sponsor a Boy Scout troop, especially in underprivileged sections of its community. Munson was accompanied by Charles N. Musser, a member of the Hagerstown lodge.
